Farmers' aid is OKd

Washington (UPI) — The Senate Tuesday overwhelmingly approved $1.4 billion in new disaster aid to help farmers affected by drought.

The money passed 82 to 13 as an amendment to the district of Columbia appropriations bill, despite warnings from Budget Committee Chairman Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, that the addition to the Small Business Administration Disaster Loan program is an excessive strain on the federal budget.

Students stone, burn car

Panama City, Panama (AP) — University students stoned and burned the U.S. ambassador's official car Tuesday while it was parked unattended on the university campus.

The car had been used by U.S. Deputy Chief of Mission Ray Gonzalez to go to the university to see a Mexican art exhibit.

Lollipops to be auctioned

Frankfort, Ky. (UPI) — If you've always wanted one of Telly Savalas' lollipops or a copy of the Pentagon Papers signed by Daniel Ellsberg, then you will want to be in Owensboro, Ky., later this month.

An auction will be held at tiny Brescia College Oct. 15 which will feature some of the most unusual souvenirs from some of the most famous people in the country to help raise money for a new student activities campus.

Boeing workers strike

Seattle (UPI) — Nearly 24,000 workers went on strike Tuesday against Boeing, the nation's largest aerospace company, demanding pay increases of more than 30% over the next three years.

Anti-union bill fails

Washington (UPI) — Organized labor supporters defeated big business backers Tuesday in a major House test vote on an AFL-CIO bill designed to overhaul the nation's labor laws.

The House voted 267 to 152 to defeat a Republican effort that would have allowed the business supporters to offer an anti-union substitute measure.

Treaty may be clarified

Washington (UPI) — The State Department said Tuesday it may seek "further clarification" of the Panama Canal agreement in light of a Panamanian negotiator's statement rejecting permanent U.S. rights to intervene.

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., released a State Department cable from the U.S. Embassy in Panama which quoted Panamanian treaty negotiator Carlos Lopez Guevara as saying "intervention is simply forbidden by international law."

China contract not OKd

New York (AP) — An American firm said Tuesday it has been awarded a multimillion dollar contract to supply seismic computer systems to China but that the U.S. government has withheld approval of the deal because of the "sophisticated nature" of the oil-finding equipment.

Applied Devices Corp. said its Texas-based subsidiary, Digital Resources Corp., had received a $3.7 million contract from the People's Republic of China for four Prospector seismic data processing computer systems.

Guy Lombardo hospitalized

Houston (AP) — Famed band leader Guy Lombardo, 75, was in Methodist Hospital on Tuesday but hospital officials refused to discuss his condition or unconfirmed reports that he had undergone surgery.

African meeting raises hopes

(c) New York Times

Nairobi, Kenya — The news emerging in recent days that Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith had flown to Zambia for a secret meeting with President Kenneth Kaunda has had a stunning impact in Africa, unleashing waves of speculation on a possible settlement of the long Rhodesian impasse.

Despite repeated pronouncements in Salisbury and Lusaka that nothing of substance emerged from the day-long meeting held a week ago last Sunday at Kaunda's official residence, the very acknowledgement that there was any meeting at all is regarded as astounding by Western and African diplomats.

A virtual state of war exists between the two countries, with Lusaka being blacked out nightly in fear of Rhodesian air raids, and with Zambia openly supporting Zimbabwe guerrillas.

Yet, according to diplomatic and other sources in Zambia, who were reached by phone, Smith and a group of 10 Rhodesian officials arrived in Lusaka aboard an executive jet belonging to the Lonrho Company.

The company is headed by the mysterious "Tiny" Rowlands, who started out as a farmer in Rhodesia and was built up a huge conglomerate with extensive holdings in dozens of black African states. Rowlands, who is assisting Kaunda in a Zambian government suit against oil companies charged with violating U.N. sanctions on Rhodesia, is thought to have organized the meeting of the two men.

The discussions at State House lasted for seven hours and while no specifics emerged, diplomats here and in Zambia are confident two points figuring prominently in the talks were the Anglo-American peace proposals and the status of Joshua Nkomo, one of the rival Zimbabwe nationalists, who has been championed in the past by both Kaunda and Lonrho.

Observers recalled that the last time the two leaders met was in 1975 when, under the auspices of Prime Minister John Voster of South Africa, they came together in a railroad car on a trestle over the Victoria Falls which separate their two countries. Since then talks between Smith and Nkomo quickly collapsed into escalating warfare.

However, now, according to a number of Western diplomats, Smith, faced with mounting military and diplomatic pressure, may have accepted the view that of the many nationalist leaders, Nkomo is the one that could most easily accede to power with a minimum of bloodshed and economic dislocation. These sources suggest that in the recent meeting, Smith may well have urged Nkomo to reject his fragile alliance with Robert Mugabe, another Zimbabwe nationalist and enter into direct talks on majority rule.

Both Nkomo and Rowlands were in Lusaka during the meeting of the two leaders.

The second point of almost certain discussion were the Anglo-American proposals. U.S. diplomatic sources insist that they had no prior notification of the meeting and that they were briefed on its specifics a day after it took place.

Kaunda did, reportedly, consult with the presidents of the four other so-called frontline African states before seeing Smith.

According to some diplomats, the action by the Security Council last week calling for the appointment of a special U.N. representative to Rhodesia — a key aspect of the Anglo-American proposal — may well have been tied to the meeting in Lusaka.

"Perhaps," said one Western diplomat here, "nothing really happened but it is clear that both Smith and Kaunda at least share a certain desperation and if matters get desperate enough something can break loose on the logjam."

Cheap beer

Does it seem like the price of your favorite brew is too high? The next time you're in Seattle, stop in at the Breadline for a really cheap glass. Bartender Betty Martin (left) holds up the tavern's 2½-ounce, 5-cent beer. At Irene's, bartender Clint will draw you a 5-ounce glass for 10 cents. Irene's has been selling beer for a dime since cigarettes were 12 cents a pack — 44 years ago.

Senate votes to deregulate new natural gas

Washington (AP) — The Senate voted Tuesday to lift price controls from newly discovered natural gas, rejecting President Carter's proposal for continued regulation of the scarce fuel.

Breaking a 2½-week deadlock, the Senate approved the deregulation proposal by a 50 to 46 vote, then went on to pass the overall natural gas bill by voice vote.

A House-Senate conference committee now must decide the final form the bill will take. The House passed a comprehensive energy bill in August that contained the President's proposal for continued price controls.

In New York, White House Press Secretary Jody Powell quoted President Carter as terming the Senate legislation "unacceptable" and declaring "I will not sign an unfair bill."

Deregulation would increase gas prices, with the cost of immediately deregulated gas rising at a faster rate than that from older wells remaining under federal price controls. The Senate bill contains a clause that would require gas pipelines to give homeowners the first chance to buy the cheaper gas still under government price controls.

Under the Senate's deregulation measure, there would be a lid on prices of new gas of about $2.48 per thousand cubic feet for the next two years until controls are removed. The price limits would be removed from newly discovered onshore gas after two years and from offshore gas after five.

Natural gas, which has increased four-fold in price since 1973, is now unregulated if used in the states where it is produced, but controlled under a $1.46 ceiling when shipped in interstate pipelines.

Carter, and the House, want to end this dual market by extending controls to the intrastate markets while lifting the price lid to $1.75 for newly discovered gas.

The Senate's action was a major setback to Carter's energy program. However, it was expected after three previous trial votes showed deregulation forces had the upper hand. The Senate passed a similar decontrol measure in 1975, but it failed by four votes in the House.

PSC hears complaints about telephone service

By Lynn Zerschling
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln pharmacist Stephen Marx said he had the time Tuesday to come downtown and tell state officials why he thinks the phone company should not be granted a rate increase.

In fact, Marx said, it was quite simple — he wasn't getting any business because the telephones in his drugstore were in the blink again.

Since he opened his Riviera Pharmacy at 3306 A St. eight years ago, he claimed, "I've had nothing but problems."

Marx was just one of several Lincoln Telephone & Telegraph Co. customers who testified against a proposed $6 million rate increase. The Nebraska Public Service Commission is holding hearings this week on the rate request.

Marx recited from a daily log he has kept since April on telephone problems: one or both of his lines going dead, having other parties come on the line and being able to call out of the drugstore but not receiving any incoming calls.

On Sept. 12 Marx said he picked up his phone only to discover the lines were crossed once again. This time, he said with a trace of irony, he had intercepted a conversation between employes in the telephone company.

LT&T Vice President for Customer Services Charles Arnold testified that Marx's case was bizarre and out of the ordinary. Marx experienced "an extraordinary amount of transmission trouble" last year, Arnold said.

When several commissioners asked why the problem wasn't found earlier than Sept. 15, Arnold said LT&T crews spent an extensive amount of time trying to isolate the problem. They found it — miswiring by the factory of electronic equipment located at an LT&T office and not at Marx's drugstore.

Marx said he opposed any rate increases until he could be assured that telephone service would be upgraded.

Otherwise, he stated, "let them take care of what they got before they take any new money."

Also opposing the rate increase was Esther Hamon, of 1426 S. 20th St., who said that even an increase of $1 to $1.50 a month for residential service would create a hardship for many elderly who live on fixed incomes.

Because many older persons live alone and feel isolated, the telephone is their lifeline to the outside world, Mrs. Hamon said. As a result, the elderly will cut down on necessities, such as food, in order to keep the telephone, said Mrs. Hamon, who has served on the Lancaster Commission on Aging.

LT&T officials are proposing that one way to generate additional money for the company is by increasing residential bills by 10-15% a month. Business rates would jump by 30%.

J.E. Dokter, president of Dokter Trucking Co. in Weeping Water, said his monthly phone bill averages $300 to $400. But, he asserted, he's not getting his money's worth. He cited a number of problems he has had placing or receiving telephone calls from or to Weeping Water.

PSC Chief Engineer M. Gene Hand also testified on tests his staff conducted last month on service and equipment in 11 of LT&T's 137 exchanges.

According to PSC regulations, telephone companies in Nebraska are required to provide adequate service, pursue an adequate maintenance program and have test facilities to help the company determine the operating and transmission capabilities of equipment.

However, Hand asserted, the staff must use its judgment in making recommendations on whether telphone companies are meeting those requirements.

Testimony will continue at 9 a.m. Wednesday beginning with testimony from LT&T's expert witness, John James from a Chicago investment firm. The PSC is slated to put its own star witness on the stand later, Rutgers University finance prof. James Bicksler.

School rolls continue dip

For the seventh year in a row, Lincoln's public school enrollment declined, this year to an official 26,993 students.

The official enrollment figures, taken last Friday, show a 2% decline over last year's 27,600 population figure.

"This is fewer students than what we had expected," said Supt. John Prasch after the figures were compiled Tuesday. "We thought we would be very nearly the same as last year."

Lincoln's largest enrollment came in 1970 when there were 30,122 students in the public school system buildings.

The fourth Friday head count in Lincoln's almost 50 schools is used for state aid support and official enrollment records.

The biggest drop in students between last fall and this year came at the junior high level where 328 fewer students enrolled, bringing the junior high total down to 6,486.

Senior high enrollment declined 62 students to 6,615 and the elementary head count showed 217 fewer students, 13,892.

Grade by grade totals have not yet been compiled, but the Friday figures do show school building totals, totals which "do not show many surprises," according to Prasch.

Elementary schools with population declines are Arnold, Belmont, Bethany, Brownell, Clinton (by three students), Dawes, Eastridge, Hartley, Havelock, Hawthorne, Huntington, Kahoa, Meadow Lane, Northwood Park, Prescott, Pyrtle, Riley, Sheridan, West Lincoln and Zeman.

Student numbers increased at Beatte, Elliott, Hill, Holmes, Lakeview, McPhee, Morley, Park, Pershing, Randolph, Rousseau, Saratoga and Calvert.

Junior high school enrollment dropped at Dawes (down by 2), Everett (down by 4), Goodrich, Irving, East, Mickle and Pound.

Enrollments rose at Culler, Hayward and Leffler. Both Leffler and Culler took in most of the students from the closed Whittier Junior High School.

At the senior high level Lincoln High and Northeast increased in student population, while Hayward Center, the Lincoln Learning Center, East and Southeast populations declined.

Teens' van held fortune

Everett, Wash. (AP) — A teen-aged brother and sister who were traveling in a van with more than $100,000 in cash are being held at a youth center while authorities try to figure out where the money came from.

The money is in a safe-deposit vault in an Everett bank for safekeeping under the name of Snohomish County Sheriff Bob Dodge. No one has claimed it or reported it missing, the sheriff's spokesman said.

The youngsters have told investigators that the money was to buy a house in the Pacific Northwest, but claimed variously not to know where the cash came from or that they got it from their stepfather, deputies said.

Part of the problem has been in locating the parents of the 17-year-old girl and her 15-year-old brother. Their stepfather escaped prison while serving time on drug charges. The whereabouts of their mother are not known.

The teen-agers were taken into custody Sept. 24 while parked on the shoulder of a highway. State troopers said they found $105,000 in $20 bills, and more than a pound of marijuana in the 1969 Volkswagen van. About $20,000 was in the girl's pockets and on the dashboard; another $5,000 was mixed with dirty clothes, and the remainder was stuffed in a shoebox, authorities said.

Troopers also found a .22-caliber rifle; a .50-caliber black powder rifle described as a "collector's toy;" a .77-caliber pellet rifle, and some ammunition.

The youngsters, whose names were not released because of their ages, said their mother was accompanying them in another van, but she has not been found.

"We're still trying to figure it out," a spokesman for the sheriff's office said Tuesday. "We suspect the money probably came from the remains of a drug deal but we don't know."

The FBI said the stepfather, Jerald C. Kott, escaped in 1975 from the Terminal Island federal penitentiary in Los Angeles, where he was serving a 15-year term for importing cocaine.

The girl and boy are in custody at the Denny Youth Center in Everett on charges involving possession of beer and drugs. They also are being held under a state law that requires youths under 18 to be in the care of either their parents or a court, said sheriff's Det. Sgt. Douglas Fraser.

Their mother was identified as Maria J. Kott, 41, of the San Francisco Bay area. Authorities have issued a "stop and advise" notice to Northwest and Canadian police for her, but so far without success.

The natural father, identified as Michael Dunleavy of Oakland, Calif., came to the Seattle area and retained a lawyer, Louis Rousso of Seattle, who declined comment.

Earlier this year, two Alice, Tex., teenagers were stopped in Waco after running a red light in a Ford Thunderbird they had bought several hours earlier, police said they found a small amount of marijuana, a pistol and more than $400,000 in the car.

MAPA funds cut; probes called

Omaha (AP) — Douglas County Tuesday cut off funds to the Metropolitan Area Planning Agency (MAPA) and called for two investigations of the planning agency.

MAPA serves Douglas and Washington Counties in Nebraska and Pottawattamie, Harrison and Mills Counties in Iowa. Douglas County is MAPA's biggest financial supporter.

The first probe, to be done by the National Association of Regional Councils, would study MAPA's organization, while the second, an audit by a federal agency, would determine, among other things, whether Douglas County is receiving its share of services.

Douglas County's $200,000 is 67 per cent of the local funds in MAPA's budget. Other money comes from federal and state grants.

The 3-1 Douglas County Board decision and the two probes were pushed by Commissioner Michael Albert, chairman of the MAPA board of directors.

Commissioner Richard Fellman, who cast the dissenting vote, said cutting off funds was going too far and was an effort to "bully" MAPA directors.

Carter optimistic about arms pact

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — President Carter told the United Nations on Tuesday that a new strategic arms limitation agreement between the United States and the Soviet Union is in sight.

He also said the United States will be willing in some future treaty to cut its nuclear arsenal in half.

"Peace will not be assured until the weapons of war are put away," the President said.

After his speech, the President turned his attention to the Middle East and received what he described as a "positive" message from Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

The President refused to divulge the message from Sadat, which was delivered to Carter by Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy. However, Egypt is known to be concerned about an expanded Soviet role in the quest for a Middle East settlement and the absence so far of explicit U.S. support for a Palestinian state.

Carter told Fahmy that "if we can just keep the Arabs and Israelis moving in the right direction, we can see peace come."

A key White House adviser told reporters the administration "anticipates a very difficult Geneva conference" and that it might even recess in discord.

Carter's speech to the United Nations was termed by Oleg Troyanovsky, the Soviet ambassador to the U.N., as satisfactory.

"On the whole, it was a well-balanced speech but there was nothing new in the U.S. position," he said.

A lower-ranking Soviet representative said the absence of any reference to human rights — Carter's major theme when he addressed the United Nations last spring — was a "victory" for the Russians.

British Ambassador Ivor Richard said he felt Carter "gave a major push to controlling proliferation of nuclear weapons and arms control."

The President's announcement that an arms agreement is in sight was a turnaround from his earlier statements.

Carter had said only last week that there was no immediate prospect for a new weapons treaty with the Russians despite "some further progress." The President also had said after a White House meeting last week with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko that he couldn't be "optimistic" about an early settlement.

U.S. officials said some major differences had been resolved in talks which Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance held here with Gromyko. But they said there are other differences remaining to be resolved by negotiations in Geneva.

The President wound up his speech with a pledge on behalf of the United States never to use nuclear weapons "except in self-defense."

He defined this as circumstances of an actual nuclear or conventional attack on the United States, its territories or armed forces, or its allies.

Watergate trio's sentences reduced sharply by Sirica

Washington (AP) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica ended his long involvement in the Watergate case Tuesday by drastically reducing the sentences of the biggest fish netted in the scandal.

He reduced the 2½-year to 8-year sentences of John N. Mitchell, H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman to a period of "not less than one nor more than four years."

Ehrlichman, who went to prison without waiting for the outcome of his appeals, thus becomes eligible for parole from his Watergate cover-up conviction after Oct. 28.

He still is under a 20-month to five-year sentence for his conviction in the so-called Watergate plumbers case but it was expected that the judge in that case would reduce the time to conform with that handed out by Sirica. For Haldeman the magic date is June 21 next year and for Mitchell, June 22.

Sirica made his decision after hearing tape recorded requests for leniency by the three men, and eloquent pleas by their lawyers.

Sirica was chief judge of the U.S. District court in the District of Columbia when the seven Watergate burglars were indicted on Sept. 15, 1972. He assigned himself to hear their trial and that began an involvement that ended only Tuesday.

"I'm glad it's the last major decision I'll have to render in this case," he told a reporter before entering court. "It's a long, difficult case, in many respects a sad case. I'm glad to see the end of the tunnel."

There are no more Watergate prosecutions pending and it is expected that Sirica will soon voluntarily take the title of senior judge, which will free him from day-to-day courtroom responsibilities. He is 73.

Mitchell, Haldeman and Erhlichman were convicted of conspiring to cover up White House involvement in the Watergate scandal and of lying about it afterward. They fought their conviction and sentences up to the Supreme Court without success and there were no judicial remedies remaining other than Sirica's action.

If Sirica had failed to reduce their sentences their only other recourse would have been intervention by President Carter.

Ehrlichman, 52, formerly domestic counselor to Richard Nixon when he was president, has been in the federal prison camp at Safford, Ariz., since last Oct. 28. Mitchell, 64, who was Nixon's attorney general, went into prison at Maxwell Air Force Base in Alabama on June 22 and Haldeman, the Nixon chief of staff, entered the prison facility at Lompoc, Calif., the day before.

It was a historic day of sorts in Courtroom No. 2, which has seen so much Watergate drama since the burglary of Democratic party headquarters at the Watergate building on June 17, 1972. Three years ago Tuesday, the Watergate coverup trial was in the jury-picking stage. Five years ago the first pre-trial arguments were being made by the original Watergate burglary defendants.

Church will benefit from cat's estate

Amesbury, Mass. (UPI) — "Tippy" the cat died earlier this year and her estate — which produces an annual income of $7,000 — went to a church in New Hampshire.

Tippy was one of eight animals — four cats and four dogs — left behind when Amesbury's one and only woman selectman, Annie Webster, died in 1964.

One might expect they would have had a hard time getting along without her.

But when her will was read, the animals had been left the bulk of her estate — the house and income sufficient to take care of their needs to the end of their nine lives.

Tippy was estimated to be in her mid-20s at the time of her death and was remembered as Miss Webster's favorite cat.

It was her personal pet that outlived the others, maintained to the last by the estate of one of the town's most colorful residents — a woman who once said she had done everything she wanted to "except drive a fire engine."

Although Tippy had been moved from the home on Market Street, the move to Epping, N.H. was not the apparent cause of her demise.

Roland Woodwell, executor of the Webster estate, reported Tippy had taken the move well.

Tippy's estate now goes to the First Community Church of Hampton Beach, N.H.

People willing to pay for health care

Chicago (AP) — A pollster who advises President Carter says there is only one program for which the American public is willing to have its taxes raised — national health care.

Patrick H. Caddell said Tuesday that support nationwide for raising taxes for a federal health care program has increased from 46 per cent in 1975 to 51 per cent in 1977. He said only 16 per cent favor the current health care delivery system.

Speaking before a symposium on National Health Care sponsored by Blue Cross and Blue Shield, Caddell said, "Health care is the exception to the rule that the public's perception is that the government is not working well, that it is spending inefficiently."

Caddell, Carter's official pollster during the campaign and now an unofficial Carter adviser, said he expects the President will use data from his survey to develop a plan that will expand the government's role in health care and insurance.

"National health care is perceived by the public as the last great initiative on the social agenda," said Caddell, who is president of Cambridge Survey Research Inc.

The most serious concern of Americans, other than becoming unemployed, is a serious illness in the family, especially one involving a family breadwinner, he said. "Most people feel they don't have resources to pay for a medical catastrophe."

Caddell said two-thirds of the people are "very concerned" they won't be able to pay for future medical care unless the government takes steps to guarantee full health care service to every American.

He said 51 per cent of the public favors higher taxes for government health programs, while 43 per cent is opposed.

"In view of th anti-Washingtonn anti-government, anti-tax mood I think this is surprising and I think support for government involvement in health care and for higher taxes will continue to grow."

He said Americans increasingly blame hospitals, drug companies and insurance companies for rises in medical costs.

Caddell said his survey showed that 16 per cent of the American public want to keep the current health care system, 26 per cent want the federal government to pay insurance premiums for the poor, 34 per cent want a national health care program that guarantees medical treatment for all and 18 per cent want a totally nationalized medical system. The rest of those questioned were undecided.

Carter has promised to come up with a national health insurance program ever since the campaign and Joseph Califano, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, is committed to making his recommendations to Carter by early next year.

Carter has said he wants a comprehensive plan, phasing in a workable national health insurance system with preventive medicine and redistribution of health manpower to make better medical care available in inner cities and rural areas.

He has said the insurance must be universal and mandatory, but it must also preserve the patient's freedom of choice in selecting physicians and treatment centers.

Numerous health insurance bills are pending in Congress, including measures sponsored by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and Ron Dellums, D-Calif.

Catalogue offers perfect gift: 11-foot pole

Dallas (AP) — For people faced with things so bad that they wouldn't touch them with a 10-foot pole, Neiman-Marcus' Christmas catalogue has the perfect gift: an 11-foot pole.

The collapsible aluminum pole sells for $50 complete with black leatherette carrying case. It's just one of the unusual gifts offered in the latest catalogue from the famous Dallas department store.

This year's edition shows Neiman's awareness of the energy crisis by offering his-and-her urban windmills to be used for energy.

"In an area with an average wind velocity of 12 m.p.h. (Boston, for example), her windmill would generate more than enough wattage to brew her morning coffee, Bendict an egg, heat her hair rollers, soothe her psyche with stereo, and give her bronze beauty while she relaxes under the sun lamp," the catalogue says.

His windmill supplies energy for more masculine activities, says the catalogue, which lists each gift at $16,000, before installation.

There are no photographs of the gifts, only a painting depicting two rather ordinary looking windmills.

"I don't know how we plan to show them," said Richard Marcus, vice chairman of Neiman-Marcus. "But they exist for real."

Marcus admitted, however, that the only time an item was not sold well "is when we didn't have an exhibit to show."

For just $30,000, a seven-day expedition "into the heart of Lincoln Land" is offered for a party of five.

The trip begins in Springfield, Ill., where the entourage will be met by Gov. James R. Thompson. Actor Richard Blake then escorts the group on a tour throughout Lincoln county ending with a campout on 40 acres 100 miles south of Springfield.

All proceeds of the trip will be contributed in the name of the purchaser to Lincoln College in Lincoln, Ill.

Anyone wanting a pair of Imperial yellow carved Peking glass vases from the Ching dynasty had better get in a check for $6,000 in a hurry. The catalogue says there is only one pair available.

And Neiman's does include an item for the person who has to visit construction sites in his work. For those missions, his head can be covered with a 24-karat gold-plated hard hat. The cost is a mere $175 that includes the name of the owner engraved in a plaque on the hat's bill.

For those families who would like something to hide, there's a "skeleton in a closet" — a four-foot sachet creature held together by ribbons — $25.

California drought shows signs of ending at last

San Francisco (AP) — Mother Nature is hinting to drought-weary Californians that the rainy season, which bypassed the West Coast the last two years, might be back this year.

But state water officials, who know the old girl is fickle, aren't counting on her to come through.

Early season rainfall has been significantly above normal. Some long-range forecasters are predicting that the state will get 70 per cent of normal rainfall this winter.

Other signs are promising. Last week, for the first time in 19 months, a river flood warning was issued, for the Smith River in the state's northwest corner. And no forecasters see another dry year like the one just past, the driest in California history.

Those charged with measuring and meting out water supplies are hoping for the best but planning for the worst.

"We can't possibly count on that," says George Reiner, California Drought Center, of predictions that rainfall will be 70 per cent of normal. "We can't afford to. We have to be extremely conservative."

Already, Californians have cut water usage by an average of 21 per cent, even in areas without mandatory rationing. In Marin County north of here lawns are brown, bathing is rarer and cars are dirty — but water usage is down by more than half.

Many residents also are paying more for power since Pacific Gas & Electric Co., lacking dependable supplies from hydroelectric plants, hiked rates to pay for power it had to buy or produce with costly oil.

California's rains usually begin in late October, but aren't really valuable until November, water officials say. Before that, they just water the thirsty earth and don't run off to refill reservoirs.

But September's unexpectedly heavy rains "helped us tremendously," said Ron Greenhalgh of the Central Valley Project, which provides water to the state's main agricultural area. The rains soaked the earth and probably will allow future rains to run right into the reservoirs, he says.

"We're counting on about 30 per cent of normal rainfall, which is what we got this year," Reiner said. Based on that assumption, he said, "It's gonna be a couple of years still of rationing, cutbacks of water and stretching our water just as far as we possibly can."

In fact, he said, "We need somewhere around 130 per cent of normal, plus two more years of 100 per cent, to get back to the 10-year storage average in our reservoirs."

While officials are thinking dry, the parched populace sees glints of hope in every raindrop. The first drips of drizzle spur pedestrians to shout, "It's raining!" with a glee that puzzles tourists.

Early rains answered hunters' prayers and reduced fire danger enough to let forests open for deer season, even though flames destroyed more than 177,000 acres of brush and forest land in August.

Carter's sister is guest

Ruth Carter Stapleton, sister of President Carter, accompanied by her husband and Hustler magazine publisher Larry Flynt and Flynt's mother, made an unexpected visit to the Columbus, Ohio Children's Hospital Monday.

King to have fourth wife

King Hussein of Jordan and a 26-year-old medical school graduate from South Lebanon reportedly will be married.

"They hit it off immediately," said a relative of blonde Lana Badreddin, after Beirut's Daily As Safir reported the 41-year-old king planned to make her his fourth wife.

Lances 'yelled . . . prayed'

Bert Lance and his wife "yelled and fussed and cried and prayed" while deciding whether he should resign as President Carter's budget director, his wife, Labelle, said Tuesday.

"No, I didn't think he should have resigned," she said during an interview with ABC-TV's "Good Morning, America" at their Calhoun, Ga., home.

Tumor may be smaller

Sen. Hubuert H. Humphrey's radiation treatments appear to have reduced the size of the inoperable tumor in his pelvis, his physician said Tuesday.

"As far as we can tell, the tumor has decreased in size remarkably," said Dr. John S. Najarian, chief surgeon at University of Minnesota Hospitals.

Louis' daughter saved

Janet Louis, 15-month-old adopted daughter of Joe Louis, former heavyweight boxing champion, was saved from drowning in a home swimming pool.

Las Vegas Mercy Ambulance attendants John Lamdaker and Bill Young performed mouth-to-mouth resuscitation on her when they arrived at the Louis' home two minutes after the emergency call Monday.

"Apparently the older children had pulled the girl from the pool before we got there," Mercy general manager Bob Forbuss said.

Forbuss said the child apparently wandered through a sliding glass door from the home to the pool.

Duke's visit cut short

The Duke of Kent cut short a four-day visit to Iran Tuesday because of complications in his 44-year-old wife's pregnancy, his private secretary said.

Gandhi resumes campaigning

New Delhi, India (AP) — A judge freed Indira Gandhi Tuesday after 16 hours in police custody and she promptly resumed her political comeback campaign. But the government appealed to a higher court and said it would press for her trial on corruption charges.

Demonstrations erupted in more than a dozen cities as supporters of the 59-year-old former prime minister protested her arrest.

Tear gas fumes penetrated the packed courtroom in Delhi as police battled pro and anti Gandhi demonstrators outside.

Magistrate R. Dayal declared that on the basis of evidence presented there "are no grounds for believing that the accusation (against Mrs. Gandhi) is well-founded." He ordered her released with no restrictions on her movements.

It was an unprecedented appearance in the dock for the woman who ordered the jailing of an estimated 100,000 political foes during the 21 months of emergency rule that capped her 11-year reign as prime minister. Many of those jailed opposition leaders later helped forge the Janata party coalition that defeated Mrs. Gandhi and her Congress party in parliamentary elections seven months ago.

Mrs. Gandhi, the daughter of India's first prime minister, the late Jawaharlal Nehru, began her bid for a political comeback this summer. In speeches around the country, she criticized the Desai government and defended her 21-month emergency rule as a stabilizing influence.

She also predicted she would be arrested.

In a nationwide sweep Monday, Central Bureau of Investigation agents arrested Mrs. Gandhi, four of her former cabinet ministers, three industrialists and other former officials and secretaries.

The former prime minister was charged with conspiring with others to give an oil drilling contract to a French firm, Compagnie Francaise des Petroleum, that had overbid an American competitor, Geoman, a Gulf Oil Co. subsidiary, by $13.4 million.

Amnesty program expires

Washington (UPI) — President Carter's amnesty program for Vietnam-era veterans ended Tuesday with the Pentagon terming it a success, critics calling it a disaster and legislators demanding repeal of relief already granted under it.

Announcing the end of the amnesty program, instituted six months ago to fulfill a Carter campaign promise, a Pentagon spokesman called it "a success."

But the Rev. Barry Lynn, a longtime amnesty activist who works out of the United Church of Christ's Office for Church in Society, said, "The program was marked by broken promises, inept implementation and nearly total failure."

On the President's desk is legislation passed by Congress which would require the reopening of almost all cases where discharges were automatically upgraded under the special discharge review program.

Lynn said if Carter signs the legislation it would "gut" the just-ended program. The American Civil Liberties Union said it would go to court to fight implementation of the legislation.

Carter has until Saturday to decide.

Under the Carter program a total of 425,000 veterans — 264,000 with "general" and 161,000 with "undesirable" discharges — were eligible for the program.

Total applicants amounted to 36,826 or 8.7 per cent of those eligible.

According to Pentagon statistics, as of Sept. 27, 39 per cent of those with general discharges had their discharges upgraded to honorable, 8 per cent of those with undesirable discharges were upgraded to honorable and 57 per cent had their undesirable discharges upgraded to general.

Of the 4,000 long-term military absentees in exile or underground, eligible for immediate discharge upon return to military control and receipt of an undesirable discharge which would then be reviewed for possible upgrading, only 772 were processed.

Council uses flimsy excuses in rejecting another appointee

In searching for reasons to reject Mayor Boosalis' appointments to city boards, members of the Lincoln City Council are combing the bottom of the barrel.

The latest nomination to bite the dust was the mayor's reappointment of Eric Youngberg, 27, a graduate student at the University of Nebraska, to the Community Development Task Force. The former VISTA worker and Community Development Department employe had been appointed to represent the Clinton neighborhood.

Youngberg was rejected on a 5-2 vote, with Dick Baker, Steve Cook, Joe Hampton, Leo Scherer and Bob Sikyta voting against confirmation and Bob Jeambey and John Robinson voting with the mayor.

Considering attitudes expressed by members of the council majority regarding other appointments, it might be safe to assume that Youngberg was rejected because of his ties to VISTA and the fact that he unfortunately chose to associate himself with the university. But other reasons were mentioned.

Hampton said Youngberg does not represent the views of the leadership of the Clinton neighborhood on the proposed Northeast Radial. Whether Youngberg's views do not coincide with the majority view in that neighborhood is open to question, however. All things considered, it is a flimsy reason for rejecting the appointment.

Scherer rejects Youngberg because he is not a property owner, and that is a worse reason.

Owning property is still a big part of the American dream, but the dream is fading as prices climb out of sight. In the future, will corporate farm owners and big city landlords be the sole possessers of political power, with the tenant farmers and urban renters on the outside? Under the theory that property ownership is a prerequisite to participating in the governmental process, apparently so.

At the business level, what about the bar operator, for example, who rents his space? Is he any less responsible than the saloonkeeper who owns the building in which his bar is located? Should the renter be denied a liquor license on the basis that he is not an owner?

In America we threw out such theories years ago as legal obstacles to voting, holding office or otherwise participating in government.

Yet the idea persists that property owners are more responsible and have more right to participate in decision-making than those who don't own property. It is a wrong idea, of course, divorced as it is from democratic ideals and as close as it is to the notion that political power should increase in proportion to the size of holdings; the notion so beloved by plutocrats and elitists.

It is hoped that Lincoln officials will not make a practice of discriminating against people who don't own property.

Veep is alive and well, thank you

Washington — Sooner or later in every administration, the people of America begin to wonder whatever became of that fellow who was elected vice president — You know, the guy who was going to be The Boss's good right arm, and all that.

In this administration, possibly because President Carter was so meticulous in his selection process and his post-election statements so definite, the question has come up sooner than expected.

But whether you are Jimmy Carter or Vice President Walter F. Mondale, you had to be ready for this one.

In the basement of the White House one day this past week, Fritz Mondale sat down to breakfast with a group of reporters in the "mess," an awful word to use in describing one of the nicest dining rooms in the District of Columbia.

At the exact same moment, three blocks across Lafayette Park, Hamilton Jordan sat down to breakfast with another group of reporters — and both men said generally the same thing.

"The President is Mr. Carter; he was elected president," Mondale told his group. "My assignment is to give him frank and candid views as an adviser and counselor in both foreign and domestic affairs. He listens, and when I really feel strongly about something, he is especially careful to consider my view."

Jordan echoed something else Mondale said when he told his breakfast clubbers that if anything, the relationship between Carter and Mondale has increased during the eight months of this administration.

No. 1 man and No. 2 man . . . two entities

The President himself got into the act when he told his press conference that he meets with Mondale more than with all his other staff members combined, and that he leans heavily on Mondale's Washington experience, his stature in the office of the vice president, and his range of foreign and domestic interests.

The evening before, Carter had telephoned the Washington bureau of the Los Angeles Times because he heard some of its reporters were asking around town: "Whatever became of Vice President Mondale?" He treated the bureau to 30 minutes of rhetoric in what has to be a historic affirmation of faith in his own Number Two.

Consider, however, Fritz Mondale as an entity all his own. He gives the impression that he's all business, yet laughs easily — even when the joke is on him. He prides himself on the range of issues with which he has concerned himself, and his service in the Senate was good training for the variety of areas in which he was to be an instant expert.

The Bakke case, the Middle East, Africa, agriculture, welfare reform, tax reform, the campaign for ratification of the Panama Canal treaty — all Mondale's business if he cares to make them his business; remembering always that Jimmy Carter is the president and the President has the final word.

But Fritz Mondale makes it clear that "it is not unusual on any given day" for him to spend five to six hours in the presence of the President. He notes that on the night Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko came to the White House to meet with Carter, the vice president not only took part in that session but met privately with Carter afterwards to discuss it.

He also has been the cutting edge on several occasions, and the spokesman of the administration on others.

"I'm tied down until Congress goes home," Mondale said, "but I'll start moving again after that."

But above all, Fritz Mondale is tough — just the way Jimmy Carter likes them. Obviously, too, he knows — or has learned from experience — just how far he can go on a given issue, because there are uncontroverted and undenied reports that he was consulted by Carter at the height of the Bert Lance difficulty, and that he would rather have seen Lance leave government service a couple of weeks earlier.

And so they've answered the question of where is Walter F. Mondale. He's alive and well and kicking up a storm of advice — and probably thinking of next time the Democratic party needs a candidate for president.

After all, the last vice president to run for the presidency also came from Minnesota.

And a bitter taste it is. . .

Mrs. Gandhi is finding out that her political opponents can play the game as roughly as she played it. The former prime minister of India was arrested this week, as expected, and charged with abusing her position when she was in power.

Mrs. Gandhi's rule over the world's second largest nation came to an end earlier this year when free elections which she allowed after an extended period of emergency rule resulted in her being thrown out of office. During the period of emergency, Mrs. Gandhi suspended freedoms that had been enjoyed in democratic India, censored the press and closed down those publications which particularly annoyed her and, yes, put her political enemies in jail.

Upon being jailed Monday, the former iron woman charged that her arrest was political.

Who's to dispute that? Most would agree that Mrs. Gandhi is now stuck with a taste of her own medicine.

The incident is illustrative to people in or out of politics the world over. Mrs. Gandhi has brought to life the Biblical passage about reaping what you have sown.

'Workfare' a healthy cut above welfare

Ron Hendren

Washington — It's a situation in which the liberals and the moderates — including the Carter administration — are all wet, and the conservatives are dead right: There is no earthly reason why able-bodied welfare recipients, not burdened with the care of young children, ought not to be asked to work for at least a portion of their welfare benefits.

The "workfare" idea is one Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.) has supported for years, but with no success. It would permit states and localities to require adult recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children to do yard work, janitorial duties — whatever odd jobs happen to be available — in return for the help society is providing them. Those who are disabled or sick, or who have young children or elderly or invalid household members to care for, would be exempted.

Opponents of the idea argue that the whole business is unfair. They point out that the prevailing wages for that kind of work are below the federal minimum wage in most areas, and that you shouldn't force people to work for less than Uncle Sam mandates. They also maintain that the program would push welfare recipients into dead-end jobs, with no hope of advancement.

All of which is nonsense.

The hourly wages that would be set in this program are an illusion to begin with; people would be "working off" what they had already received. It wouldn't matter if you set the wages uniformly at $5 an hour or even $10 an hour.

The point is, you would be getting recipients into the healthy habit of performing some useful service for the help they receive. The length of time they work for each increment isn't important. What is important is the principle that, if able, they do some work at something.

As to the argument that the work they would be shunted into is dead-end, which is more dead-end — to have a job, however, menial, or to sit at home doing nothing on a dole that infuriates the recipient as well as those footing the bill? It is far less humiliating and degrading to work a little at whatever job is available than to take a paycheck for doing not a thing.

Moreover, the fact that a welfare recipient is temporarily cutting grass on a part-time basis in no way precludes the search for more meaningful, higher-paid, full-time work. In fact, it might prove to be a strong incentive for just that sort of search.

One of the great disservices the country can do to its less fortunate is to treat them as though there is no hope for them ever to stand self-sufficient on their own feet. And yet it is a disservice we have been rendering for years through a collection of welfare programs that encourage and reward sloth.

All Russell Long's bill would do is give people at long last a chance to get into the habit of making a contribution to their communities and to feel the reward that comes out of working for what you spend.

If a liberal had come up with the idea instead of Long, it would probably be all the rage. President Carter would do well to stop jerking his knee with all the rest of them and take another look.

Creak on past 40

Phyllis Battelle

New York — According to researchers at the University of Michigan, Jack Benny "had the right idea" when he clung to the contention that he was aged 39.

Everybody would do well to key himself, psychologically, to 39.

"The aging process begins at the age of 40," says Stanley M. Garn, professor of anthropology and nutrition. And the best way to retard it is to "adopt a deliberate, mental refusal to age."

Statistics combined with computers have determined, says Garn, that the tell-tale sign of aging is bone deterioration. Gray hair and wrinkles may begin at 40, but "they are not the true benchmarks, because they are not life-threatening. It's the clarion call of the creaking bone that is the overture to the aging process.

"Bone loss is the problem, simply because it diminishes the mechanical integrity of the skeletal units, reducing their capacity to withstand compressive forces or bending stresses, or both. This results in the increased risk of fractures — which brings additional risks of its own."

Professor Garn points out that an 80-year-old woman, for example, could slip on the ice and spend months in a hospital, toting up a $10,000 medical bill. And the sad aspect of the story is that even in this era of amazing medical and nutritional advances, there is no way a human being can prevent this bone deterioration.

"Calcium has long been cited as the essential ingredient of good bone structure — which it is. But there is no evidence that a higher calcium intake prevents bone loss, or that a lower calcium intake promotes it.

"All people lose bone after age 39 — regardless of the calcium content of their diets."

Women, he adds, are more susceptible to the fracturing consequences of the process, known as "osteoporosis," than are men. "Though most people, in varying degrees, creak or shrink or break as they age, women tend to suffer more than men."

Although there are fads and recipes and scientific attempts to retard the aging process of bone deterioration (they range from drinking skimmed milk and red wine, to injections of estrogen and ingestion of fluorides), nothing really works — so far.

"It really doesn't help to push calcium or other panaceas," says Garn. The only way to keep ahead of the aging game is to keep bones as flexible as possible through exercise, and "resist aging by exercising the brain — telling ourselves, as Jack Benny did, that we refuse to age."

And stay off the ice. . .

But creaking aside, other medical surveys show that old age is, in many ways, the good age.

To wit:

After 50, pain sensitivity gradually lessens. Physical discomfort of all kinds becomes less noticeable with each passing years, as nature tries to compensate for the problems it causes. By the time a person is 100, he will scarcely notice a headache that would have ruined his day in his mid-30s.

Time seems to pass more swiftly too, as one grows older. Young people tend to think the aged lead boring lives, but a Cornell University study showed that older people generally have more enthusiasm for their lives than do younger ones.

And a 15-year research project among 300 centenarians from around the country showed that, once a person attains the age of 100 years, his confidence and optimism rises.

Tranquility, poise and peace of mind almost universally arrive with the century mark in life. Apparently, researchers feel, centenarians feel that getting there was the hard part — and now comes the sensation of "relax and enjoy it!"

As one gentleman of 104 is quoted as saying, looking back fondly on his 100th birthday:

"What a to-do. The TV people came, the local newspapers came, everybody in the town showed up and tramped up the yard and asked questions about how I felt, being 100. I said I felt better than when I was 50 by a long shot, and they said 'Why?' and I said 'Why not?' Then they laughed, and I said "Why are you laughing?' and they didn't seem to know.

"I thought that was pretty odd, don't you? People under 90, it seems to me, are kind of silly . . ."

Many 'turn after stop' signs being ignored

Right turn policy

Lincoln, Neb.

For some time Lincoln has had the policy of "right turn after stop" at certain corners where signal lights are located. During this time, I have been observing the results.

At some certain intersections, the policy works wonderfully well. However, there are exceptions at other intersections. If the policy of stopping were followed to the letter at all of these corners, it would be great, but there always had to be one who thinks slowing and shifting gears are a stop. Turn the wheel, step on the gas and go to beat h - - -, weaving in and out of the traffic along the way.

It appears that the policy should be reviewed by the traffic engineer's office and staff, with arrangements for stricter enforcement of the policy. Might I suggest that the west turn at 16th and South and the east turn at 17th and South be among the first to have stricter enforcement before a serious accident occurs? Of course, there are other "right turn on red" corners, but of late I have observed numerous violations at these two corners. It is getting so that the "after stop" has no meaning, at all, and it should have meaning or the policy be done away with over the entire city.

If it is to remain with proper enforcement, might I also suggest a trial run on a "left turn on red after stopping" at certain one-way street corners?

UNCLE GEORGE

Zorinsky and Curtis

Lincoln, Neb.

Senator Zorinsky had my admiration when as a utility board member he held the line against million-dollar waste and give-away and much of the time as mayor when he tried to keep a tight budget. However, his performance in the Congress leaves me skeptical. His return of office funds is a symbol that the taxpayer enjoys but concurrently it is a reflection, perhaps, on other members of Congress for not performing accordingly. If I were a Washington reporter, I would make an investigation into the reasoning process that made such funds available and an analysis of how it has been spent.

It is my judgment that every honest person concurs that the taxpayers' dollar should be spent wisely but, unfortunately for complete harmony, differences of what is wise have polemical consequences.

Since the public is inclined toward nit-picking, demands the symbol and has a cost complex, I think ongoing politicians are going to have to keep records of their opponents' and their own consequential votes and a dollar-and-cent display made paramount. The news media have the best resources and equipment to do this and they should keep tab. In my eyes, in voting for the B-1 bomber, Senator Zorinsky was ready to waste $50 billion of the taxpayers' dollars. In voting for gas deregulation, he was wasting tens of billions of dollars of public money and in failing to support the Panama Canal treaty, he is going to cost the voters billions of dollars. Of course, I feel this is true of Senator Curtis with his similar voting record. In light of this, he seems penny-wise and pound-foolish.

CRYSTAL

The real costs

Lincoln, Neb.

I commend The Star for the editorial on Bureau of Reclamation projects (Sept. 26). It pointed out a number of areas including enforcement of the 160-acre rule and residency requirements, figures in the Bureau's farm budget analysis, and the political situation regarding water projects in Nebraska, that should be carefully examined by each and every taxpayer.

The farm budget analysis for the O'Neill unit does indeed contain figures that are "outrageously distorted." For example, the Bureau uses a seed cost of $5 per acre and fertilizer costs of $21 per acre. The UN-L Agricultural Economics Department figures for the project area are $13 per acre for seed and $47 per acre for fertilizer. The Bureau did not include costs of herbicides and pesticides which UN-L estimates are $15-$20 per acre. The Bureau estimates an average yield of 191 bushels of corn per acre using $5 worth of seed. UN-L's costs are based on a more realistic average yield of 125 bushels per acre.

I'm sure farmers will agree that the Bureau's figures are laughable. Unfortunately the joke will be on all of us as taxpayers if we permit this project to be built.

The benefits of the projects have been calculated using these laughable figures in order to bring the benefit-cost ratio over 1:1. (Federal law requires that Bureau projects have a benefit-cost ratio greater than one to be approved and funded.) As taxpayers, we will pay for this project based on real costs. We owe it to ourselves to demand that the Bureau of Reclamation calculate the benefits accordingly.

Ali, humble?

Lincoln, Neb.

After watching the Muhammad Ali-Shavers heavyweight boxing match on television, I think a point should be made. Both fighters are good decent men with families, with Muhammad as the showman and boxer, and Shavers as the slugger.

However, I believe, though, that Muhammad Ali is the greatest, most talented and gifted athlete of our time. The man examplifies all that is good in human beings and is a model of what mankind should strive to attain. He is a man of peace and despite the jargon to the contrary, a humble man. He is a man of conviction and honor and in spite of all that has been said of him pro and con, he remains a head above the rest, truly a man among men.

ALBERT BAUER, JR.

Farm bill signing

Sidney, Neb.

I would like to thank WOMEN INVOLVED IN FARM ECONOMICS (WIFE) for allowing me to represent them at the signing of the farm bill in the Rose Garden of the White House on Sept. 29. The invitation to have a WIFE representative present for this occasion recognizes the effort and effectiveness of this organization.

While WIFE is not entirely satisfied with this farm bill, it is an improvement over what we had. The target price for 1977 crop wheat is raised from $2.47 a bushel to $2.90 and the target for corn, from $1.75 to $2.00. President Carter stressed that commodity loans are not a burden on the taxpayer but a good investment. He noted that the loans are fully collateralized and are repaid in full with interest.

I wish to thank Mrs. Virginia Smith, congresswoman of Nebraska's Third District. She arranged for all accommodations and made my short trip smooth and pleasant.

I must also thank Mr. Charles Thone, congressman from Nebraska's First District. He insisted that I be allowed to stand with the Nebraska Delegation at the signing.

Banking rules

Lincoln, Neb.

Lincoln banks change rules mid-stream. The announcement in Saturday morning papers came as a shock to most Lincoln citizens.

We are certainly upset by this secretly planned move on the part of Lincoln banking activities. We have been caught in a squeeze play.

For the past several years, banks have urged us all to invest in long- or short-term certificates of deposit. The argument was that we should help support their efforts toward helping them offer more loans to encourage the national and state and local economic pictures. They have said: "Do not keep your funds idle in accounts that cannot be touched as loanable funds."

As we all know, early closing out of certificate of deposit accounts bear with that action large penalties as well as considerable loss in interest paid for the use of these loanable monies. Now we are given little chance to choose a course of action.

If we cannot come up with from $100 to $300 to place in our several checking accounts, then we can pay to the banks, through their outlandish monthly charges, any or all of the interest they are supposed to be giving us for the use of our savings. But the big catch is: We are to pay the checking charges each and every month though we cannot get our earned interest on savings except quarterly or annually.

Now the reason given is that the customer who borrows our money from the bank is somehow having to pay for our checking services. Question: Just who is using our money and who should be paying us for that use?

I happen to be in the large number of older age citizens who have not yet reached 65, so I am not offered free checking as a senior citizen, but neither am I now working two jobs to make ends meet so that I can put all of one pay-check into my checking account and thereby keep a $400 balance. Interest earned on CDs was supposed to increase my funds toward retirement but the bank owners and stockholders need their party money more than others need living income funds.

Could the Lance affair have placed some in a bind where they need to settle up some overdrafts of their own? And need our checking levies to close the gap?

THE WHEEL THAT ISN'T GETTING GREASED

Last ditch for the GOP?

Tom Wicker

New York — At least 46 percent of the American people opposed ratification of the Panama Canal treaties in a Gallup Poll taken in August.

Earlier last summer, another Gallup Poll found that only 20 per cent of American voters called themselves Republicans.

Where there's smoke there's fire. Two and two makes four. Right? So it's obvious that the Republican party should rebuild its long-declining fortunes by appealing to those who oppose the Canal treaties.

Anyway, the Grand Old Party seems to have adopted this deceptive syllogism, apparently believing that — as Sen. Paul Laxalt of Nevada put it in a speech to California Republicans — "this is the best political issue that could be handed to a political party in recent history."

California is the lair of Ronald Reagan, the old lion of treaty opposition, and Laxalt is Reagan's former presidential campaign committee chairman. But that this is no parochial matter, albeit Reagan's own, was shown in New Orleans, where the Republican National Committee whooped through a resolution opposing the ratification of the treaties. Never mind that both former President Ford and former Secretary of State Kissinger favor ratification, and worked for a Canal treaty while in office.

Laxalt declared that the treaties would be "the most significant issue" in the 1978 election. That may not be much of an overstatement. The ratification debate in the Senate is scheduled for next spring, just in time for opponents in both parties to picture themselves in their election campaigns as stalwarts of patriotism, military macho and eternal U.S. control of what they call "the American Canal in Panama."

Combine that kind of emotionalism with the likelihood that unemployment will remain high and the economy fragile next year, add extreme discontent in the farm belt, the predictable midterm fall-off of the party in power — and the likelihood emerges of Republican gains in the 1978 elections.

But is treaty opposition the right long-term prescription for what ails the Republican party? That doughty old warrior, Alf M. Landon, doesn't think so. The 1936 Republican presidential nominee immediately assailed the National Committee, not only for overriding Ford and Kissinger but because passing such a resolution "is not the role of a Republican National Committee on vital and complex foreign policy issues." Thus spoke the voice of tradition and wisdom.

The National Committee vote actually may have been decisive, since it left Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker little room to maneuver. A presidential hopeful for 1980, who had just reserved judgment on the treaties, Baker seems less than likely to exert leadership contrary to expressed Republican sentiment. That could mean not enough Republican votes for ratification.

Now if the treaties were ratified and no dire consequences resulted, the Canal issue soon would be deservedly forgotten; if there were dire consequences, the Democrats and President Carter could be blamed. The real danger for Republicans is that they could become identified as the principal instruments of the treaties' rejection.

That's because, after 14 years of negotiations, through four administrations of both parties, if the Senate should now refuse to ratify the resulting treaties, the least that could be expected is an outbreak of rioting and attempted sabotage in Panama, and strained relations with virtually every other Latin American country. And suppose that led, as it might, to guerrilla warfare, possibly with the intervention of Cuban forces in Panama's support?

Treaty opposition may elect some Republicans next year and it may prop up until 1980 Reagan's chance for another run at the White House. But does the party of Dwight Eisenhower really want responsibility for the likely long-term consequences of treaty rejection — strife in Panama, deteriorating relations in Latin America, a continually bleeding wound that would drain American resources and damage American standing in the world?

Of course the party of Eisenhower is no more; now it is the party of Goldwater, Reagan, Thurmond and Helms, three of whom used to be Democrats. No wonder the National Committee also considered a resolution to change the name of the party.

Who's afraid of New York?

Ellen Goodman

New York — Spare me your theories about Big MAC and little Beame, about blackouts and strikeouts and 42nd Street on a blue weekday.

Ya wanna know what's wrong with New York? I'll tell ya what's wrong with New York: It's lost the capacity to intimidate.

Intimidation was always the secret weapon of the city. New York, like Simon, SAID. And non-New York imitated.

New York was In and Non-New York was Out, and everybody knew it. When Non-New York came in from out of town, it was dressed to the hilt, but it hit Manhattan with a thud. Non-New York became incurably dowdy. It was Mr. and Mrs. Frump in Fun City.

New York's waists were nipped and vests were doubled when the rest of the country was leisure-suited. New York was dry-cleaned when they were polyestered. New York was pant-suited when they still skirted the issue, and then dressed when they were slacked. An out-of-towner always looked like a parochial school student in a plaid jumper with a hemline that see-sawed up and down against the fashion tide.

Non-New Yorkers were intimidated by New Yorkers, and that was the point. It kept them in their place.

At regular intervals, New York spoke. New York couldn't believe that they were still eating quiche at dinner parties in Minnepolis! New York was stunned to find that they were still reading Saul Bellow in Chicago! New York was aghast to discover that they were decorating in yellow in Denver! Yellow was Last Year; New York was always This Year.

The Cultural Imperial City overpowered the country with its certainty. It never asked questions, it cross-examined. It never spoke, it asserted.

And now, unforgivably, New York has become ordinary, mainstream. The "in" seems to have moved out of the city, and the "out" moved "in." There is a fuzzing of the border that once separated the leader from the pack.

New York was always impressive rather than friendly. It was like an emperor who was never especially loved, but accorded a measure of respect. It had the rest of us convinced, as the T-shirt said, that everyplace else is Hartford.

But New York without intimidation is like Rome without force and South Africa without fear. It's like the Social Register without a pack of social climbers, and elitism without envy. Doomed.

Take the elitism out of New York and all you see is the hassle. The taxi cab drivers flaunting their off-duty signs in the face of the people. The lame-duck mayor counting his municipal bonds. The strike in search of a union.

Take the intimidation out of New York and what have you got? I'll tell you what you've got. Millions of New Yorkers who haven't heard the news yet. The First City is the last to know.

Scientists see problems in tapping iceberg well

Ames, Iowa (AP) — While scientists from around the world say it might be possible to tap icebergs for drinking water, some experts say potential problems could be as big as the bergs themselves.

Bad weather, rough seas, melting, possible climate changes and simply hooking a tow wire to an iceberg were some of the potential difficulties brought out at the first International Conference on Iceberg Utilization here this week.

The five-day conference ending Thursday is being funded by the government of Saudi Arabia, which is interested in using melted icebergs to provide water to the arid desert nation.

"There are serious questions about just how strong an iceberg is," said Dr. John Kennedy, a hydraulic engineer from the University of Iowa who has been studying ice for several years.

One problem is the effect salt in the sea could have on the fresh water of the iceberg when it is towed to warmer climes and begins to melt.

Prof. G. Ali Mansoori of the University of Illinois said another problem is the lack of information on how fast an iceberg melts. What will happen as the ice moves into warmer water "just is not clear," Mansoori said.

A former sea captain raised practical questions about towing an iceberg from the polar caps. He compared such a project to initial efforts at towing large oil-drilling platforms out to sea.

"First, you're not sure how fast you could tow it," said Cor Oudendijk, operations manager of the Dutch Wijsmuller Towing and Salvage Co.

Oudendijk said there are also questions about how to attach an iceberg to the ships that would tow it.

He said he believes that a series of cables could be looped around the ice, then attached to a formation of ocean-going tugs.

However, the strain on the cables would cause them to heat up and melt into the ice, Oudendijk said.

He said weather is also another major obstacle.

Although the formation of tugboats could pull the iceberg, he said a large tanker would have to accompany the smaller vessels to refuel them on the long trips from the polar regions to the dry regions.

"If you get gale-force winds, that refueling can't be done and you're in trouble," Oudendijk said.

Faisal proposes mounting paddlewheels on icebergs

Ames, Iowa (UPI) — Saudi Arabia's Prince Mohamed Al Faisal Tuesday proposed equipping Antarctic icebergs with sophisticated versions of Mississippi River boat paddlewheels to get them to the parched Arabian Peninsula.

In a paper presented to the first International Conference on Iceberg Utilization, Faisal and Dr. Shawkat Ismail, technical adviser to the prince's Iceberg Transport International, Ltd., proposed installing paddlewheels with huge arms that would propel 100 million-ton icebergs from the Antarctic continent to the Arabian Peninsula or any arid nation.

Faisal's proposal contrasts with more traditional plans for large-scale iceberg transport and use, most of which have involved conventional sea-going tugboats or even nuclear-powered "supertugs."

"The towing speed recommended for the transportation of icebergs is considered very low for the existing tugs to run with reasonable efficiency," Faisal said. "It is suggested the icebergs be equipped with their own propulsion in the form of paddlewheels."

Faisal concedes conventional paddlewheels have been used only in calm water and rarely on the high seas.

However, his plan called for paddle "arms" to be attached to both sides of an iceberg, with powerplants situated on its top. Faisal said that by equipping both sides with paddleweheels rather than placing the propulsion system at the rear of the iceberg, the ice mass could be easily navigated.

He said paddlewheel propulsion would begin with the iceberg being towed by conventional tugboats from its location to an area that provides better preparation conditions. Then the propulsion "arms" would be attached to cables surrounding the iceberg and placed below the surface of the water to provide maximum thrust.

Atlanta re-elects first black mayor

Atlanta (UPI) — Mayor Maynard Jackson, the only black mayor of a major Southern city, won a second term in office Tuesday night, easily defeating four challengers.

With 151 of 194 precincts reporting, Jackson, Atlanta's first black mayor, received 61.2 per cent of the vote, followed by northside businessman Harold Dye with 18.8 percent.

Fulton County Commissioner Milton Farris was third with 15.0 per cent. He was followed by former city administrative services director Emma Darnell with 4.1 per cent and socialist workers' party candidate Vince Eagan with 0.5 per cent.

Jackson, 39, had the support of much of the white businessestablishment and the city's two major newspapers. Two of his opponents — Ms. Darnell and Eagan — were black and the other two were white.

The mayor's race led the ticket but voters also cast their ballots for 13 contested posts on the 18-member city council and eight of nine jobs on the Atlanta board of education.

At present the council is evenly divided racially with nine blacks and nine whites.

The nonpartisan elections were the first in which Atlanta's black voter registration exceeded that of whites.

Fulton County chief voter registrar Joseph Honstein said the precinct voting lists now include 53.5 per cent blacks compared to 49 per cent when Jackson was first elected in 1973.

Mayor of Cleveland goes down to defeat

Cleveland (AP) — Republican Mayor Ralph J. Perk was upset in his bid for a fourth two-year term Tuesday night when outpolled by two Democrats in Celveland's nonpartisan mayoral primary.

Dennis Kucinich, an independent Democrat who has bucked the party leadership for most of his 10 years in politics, will face state Rep. Edward F. Feighan, a Democrat running with party backing, in the Nov. 8 general election.

With 645 of 645 polling places reporting, unofficial totals from the Cuyahoga County Board of Elections gave Kucinich 40,003 votes, Feighan 39,724, Perk 36,389, and Socialist Workers Party candidate Alyson Kennedy, 1,225.

City Council President George Forbes, a black leader who campaigned heavily for Feighan, declared happily, "The town's goin' back Democrat. There's no question about that. There's a swing back to the Democratic party."

Perk and Kucinich had campaigned almost as though they were the only candidates, ignoring Feighan and Miss Alyson.

But Feighan had the support of Forbes, one of the city's most influential black leaders and a frequent critic of Kucinich. Kucinich once challenged Forbes' leadership in the council and Forbes has described him as racist.

German officers suspended

Bonn, West Germany (UPI) — The West German armed forces Tuesday suspended 11 army officers who were accused of giving the Nazi salute and taking part in a mock Jew burning ceremony as part of a drinking party.

Naval Capt. Kurt Fischer of the defense ministry said the officers have been stripped of their uniforms, barred from army activity and confined to their posts until disciplinary hearings which could mean dismissal from the army.

Government sources said it was certain some if not all of the officers would be thrown out of the army.

The officers were suspended after an investigation at the Bundeswehr (armed forces) Military College in Munich by Lt. Gen. Ruediger von Reichert, deputy commander of the armed forces.

The general will submit his report this week to Defense Minister George Leber, who was described as infuriated by the attempt of the officers' superiors to hush up the incident.

News of the incident was suppressed until the newspaper Frankfurter Rundschau printed a report Sept. 28, months later, on the drinking party that ended outdoors around a bonfire.

"As the bonfire was about to go out someone shouted, 'More fuel,' " the newspaper reported. "Then someone called out, 'Let's burn Jews!' Thereupon pieces of paper and cardboard on which the word 'Jew' was smeared were thrown into the fire amid singing and shouts of 'Sieg heil!' "

Lincoln woman injured in car-train crash

A 33-year-old Lincoln woman suffered a broken arm and cuts to the head in a car-train collision Tuesday night on South St. between Park Blvd. and 3rd St. The woman, Susan F. Glaser, 1307 Commodore Blvd. West, was listed in fair condition at Lincoln General Hospital. Her husband and two children escaped injury in the mishap, police said. Their westbound auto, driven by Gary L. Glaser, 37, struck the engine of the Union Pacific train, which was crossing South St. at less than 15 miles per hour, according to engineer Richard Pietroygn of Omaha. The car spun several yards off the road. The crossing is marked with an overhead yellow lamp and warning signs without flashing red lights.

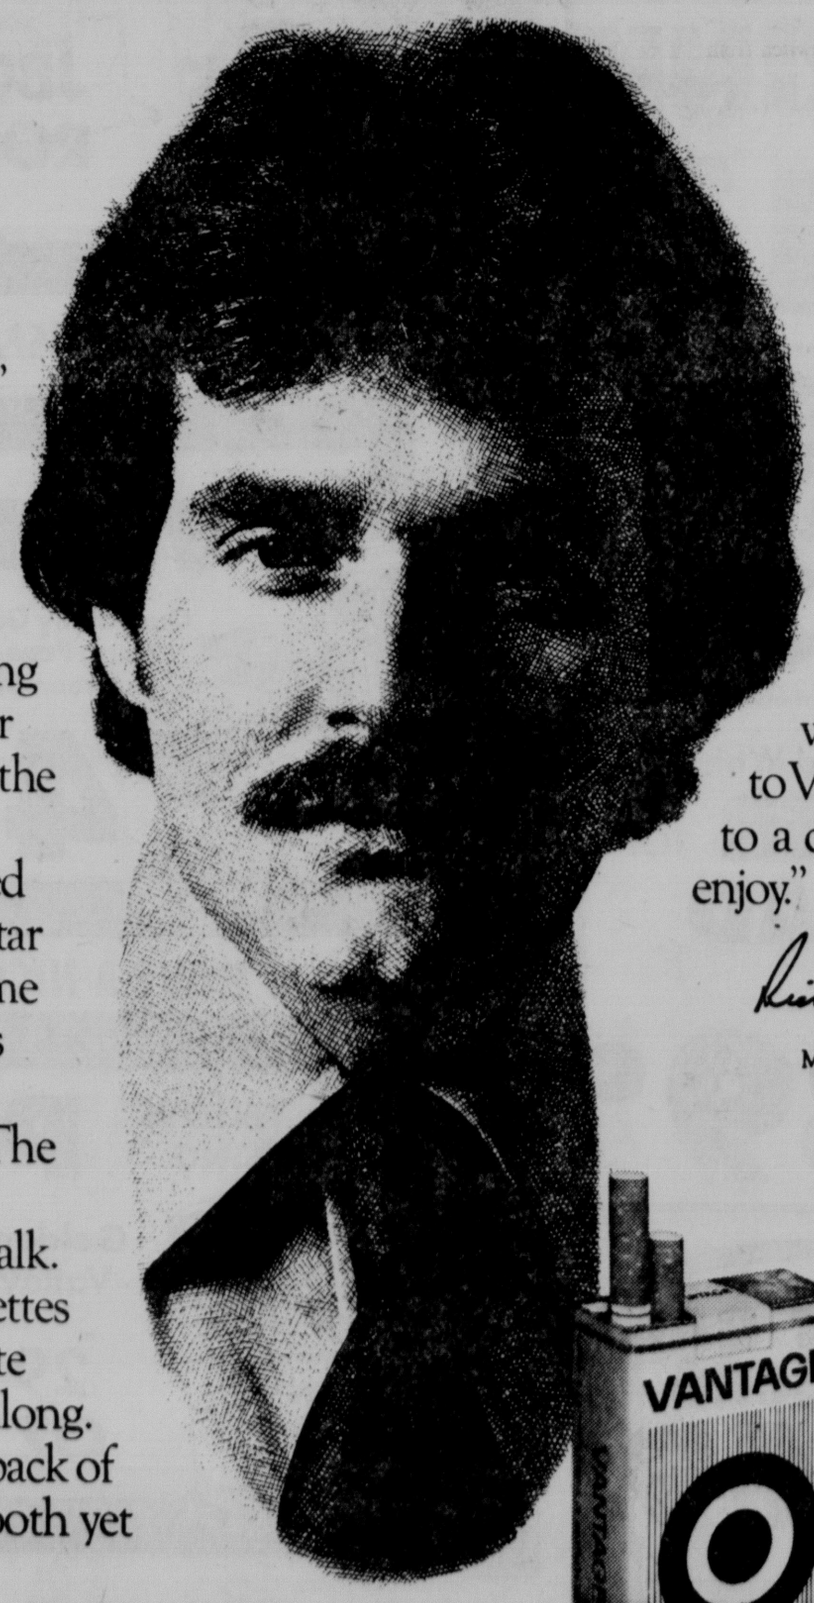
"Vantage is changing a lot of my feelings about smoking."



"I like to smoke, and what I like is a cigarette that isn't timid on taste. But I'm not living in some ivory tower. I hear the things being said against high-tar smoking as well as the next guy.

"And so I started looking. For a low-tar smoke that had some honest-to-goodness cigarette taste.

"It wasn't easy. The low-tar cigarettes I tried tasted like chalk. And high-tar cigarettes were starting to taste rougher as I went along.

"Then I tried a pack of Vantage. It was smooth yet it had taste. And a lot less tar than what I'd been smoking.

"As far as I'm concerned, when I switched to Vantage, I changed to a cigarette I could enjoy."

'Jane Doe' identified; Chicago police begin search for killer

Chicago (AP) — Armed with the identity of a pretty teen-ager who lay unknown in the hospital and then the morgue for nearly a month, police set out Tuesday to find her killer.

The 16-year-old girl, known for weeks as Jane Doe, was identified Monday as Debra Rosencrans of Chicago. To friends, she was known as "Kitten" for her gentleness.

Identification came first from a neighbor and friends and then from a grandmother. It was confirmed by a dental check.

Her parents are divorced, police said. They said the girl's mother, Patricia, remarried and is in Florida. Her father, from Hot Springs, Ark., arrived in Chicago on Tuesday, police said.

The girl's badly beaten body was found Sept. 6 in a forest preserve in Schiller Park, a northwest suburb. She died Sept. 20 in a hospital without regaining consciousness.

The difficulty in identification apparently was due to the disfigurement the girl suffered. Police said her head and neck had been bludgeoned with something like a hammer used to tenderize meat or the heel of a boot.

"Now that we know who she is, we can start concentrating on her killer," said Schiller Park Polcie Lt. Edward Bluthardt.

At the time she disappeared, Debra was living with friends, police said. She remained in Chicago, they said, when her mother moved to Florida, and was to join her there later.

"She was such a nice girl," said a friend. "She never hurt anybody."

Hundreds of people, some from distant states, visited the hospital in attempts to identify her. Pictures were run in several newspapers, but no one came forward.

All told, there were 1,500 telephone inquiries from people hoping to identify the girl in the picture with the pigtails and badly bruised face.

Debra's friends told reporters they never connected the face of the beaten girl with Debra because it "just didn't look like 'Kitten.'" The bruised, swollen face in the paper just didn't resemble the girl they knew, they said.

Before leaving for Florida, Debra's mother assured her she would send for her shortly. She did call — four days after Debra disappeared.

A missing persons report was filed on Debra Sept. 8 but, for some reason, police believed she had been missing for only a day and did not connect the disappearance with the unconscious girl.

Production of 'Earnest' full of disappointments

Review

By David Meisenholder

Dress up the talented 200-pound University Theater actor Dan Reinehr as the grande dame Lady Bracknell right out of 1895 in England, give him a wig and a lovely period gown, the script of Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest" and the result should become a prankish and preposterous evening of theater.

But, the Tuesday night opening of the University Theater Department's first production of the 1977-78 season in the Temple Building Studio Theater was full of problems and disappointments.

First, the mostly young, collegiate audience was forced to sit in a sweltering theater. Upon the audience was laid a generally dull presentation of Wilde's satirical drawing room comedy, which was written as a bundle of puns and mistaken identities about the upper-crust English society at the turn of the century.

Director Harley G. Lofton III put actors and audience through a long evening by his lack of necessary pacing of the dialogue. With just a few exceptions the witticism of Oscar Wilde came out flat and boring.

Veteran university performer Steven Houser was an exception. His characterization of Earnest sparkled and when he coupled with Reverand Chasuble (Douglas Anderson), the tutor Miss Prism (Stephanie Kallos) and Reinehr, merriment momentarily took hold.

James Ryan, who played Algernon, the unknown brother of Earnest, seemed unsure and nervous about his characterization. Debra Miller and Ann Sandin portraying the eligible-for-marriage-maidens lacked definition of characters except during a short scene when they were transformed into polite bitches arguing about what man each was to marry.

The stage settings provided by George Loudon were adequate. The lighting by Gary Kechely was splotchy. Neither did much to enhance several stunning costumes designed by Ronald Fowlkes. If ever a stage production needed the technical elements to aid audience enjoyment, this university rendition is prime example.

Admittedly, the Studio Theater is a training ground for student actors, directors, and technicians. But in my opinion, this production falls short of the high standard of theater art which is usually presented by the University of Nebraska Department of Theater.

"Earnest" continues in the Temple Building, 12th and R Streets, Wednesday through Saturday. Curtain is at 8 p.m.

Omaha enrollments normal

Omaha (AP) — Enrollment figures indicate that the second year of court-ordered school desegregation of the Omaha Public Schools is not discouraging as many students from attending public high schools and junior highs.

Research coordinator Irving Young said Tuesday his estimate of Oct. 1, enrollment, the official number used for the year, indicates a return to nearly normal choices between public and parochial schools.

Officially the district has 51,254 students from kindergarten to grade 12, plus 707 pre-kindergartners. That is a 3.56 per cent decline from last year's 53,146, but only about half the percentage decline of the past year.

Young said the percentage of returning 10th grade students this fall is the highest since 1960-61, indicating an "obvious" switch from parochial back to public schools.

Despite losing 1,892 students, Young said the enrollment this year is "outstanding," considering the school desegregation program.

Most districts have substantial losses at least during the first two years of such a program, he said.

Last spring Young had estimated the district would lose 2,400 students this fall. The previous year, it had lost 4,100.

Of the 1,892-student loss this year, about 1,700 can be considered "normal" and attributed to declining birth rate and other factors not related to integration, Young said.

"We've had some recovery," he said. "Barring some unforseen incident, I think we're going to assume things are returning to normal.

Lincolnite injured in blaze

A south Lincoln man suffered minor smoke inhalation in a fire at his home Tuesday night.

Robert C. Hasty Jr. was treated at Lincoln General Hospital after fire caused considerable damage to his home at 2520 Winchester North, fire department officials said.

Cause of the fire, which burned the living room area and caused smoke damage to the rest of the house, was under investigation, officials said.

Discrimination case reconciled

A housing discrimination case, scheduled to be heard by the Commission on Human Rights Tuesday night, was reconciled without a hearing, attorneys announced.

The commission was scheduled to hold a public hearing on a complaint by Homer Simmons against Mrs. Max Hamilton.

O'Donnell raps Senate gas action

Wayne (AP) — Nebraska Democratic National Committeeman Allen O'Donnell Tuesday said the Senate's deregulation of natural gas was not acceptable and showed "a blatant disregard of the economic conditions" of the nation.

The Senate voted 50-46 Tuesday to adopt an amendment removing price controls from newly-discoverd natural gas.

"Our one hope is that the Senate-House conference committee will not accept what the Senate has done," O'Donnell said from his home in Wayne. "If this action is allowed to stand, inflation will again heat up when it is finally at a point of control for the first time in a decade."

He continued, "I think it is time that the American people come together on this issue and let the House Senate Conference Committee know that it will not stand still letting the giant energy industry 'rip off' the people."

O'Donnell, a Wayne State College political science instructor, has said he is considering a bid for the 1st Congressional District seat now occupied by Republican Charles Thone.

So that's where it all went

Oakhurst, Calif. (AP) — Workers installing a steel pole to support a business sign in this Sierra Nevada foothill community knew something was wrong when they kept pouring concrete but couldn't get the hole filled.

They thought the 1½ cubic yards of concrete they pured was going down a rat hole. But it actually was going into a sewer pipe they had ruptured in digging the hole, Madera County Supervisor Bill Hill said.

The concrete plugged about 40 feet of the sewer line, causing sewage to back up and flood a hardware store, said Albert Grote, county engineer.

New Pineapple diet lacks protein

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Several people in my office are on a new pineapple diet. It works as follows: On Monday and Tuesday we eat four eight-ounce cans of pineapple chunks (in natural juice), with nothing else except possibly black coffee or tea. The other five days of the week you can eat anything you wish (within reason).

We have all lost weight on this diet, but would like to know if it is medically safe and why it works so well.

— Mrs. R. M.

You must be a pretty hungry bunch come Wednesday morning.

It's not surprising that you lose weight on this fare, since four cups of anything, no matter how tasty, is not going to supply very many calories. A cup of diced pineapple supplies only 75 calories and the juice probably another 50 or 75.

To Your Good Health

My principal concern, even on your limited program is the lack of protein. A cup of pineapple provides only about a gram of it. Compare this with the 60 to 70 grams thought necessary for the average person, and you'll understand why you and your friends lose pounds.

If you all have the willpower to deprive yourself for two days this way, why not "spread your willpower" a little bit thinner over the full seven days with less stringent dieting?

☆ ☆ ☆

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you please help me. I have phlebitis. Ointments don't seem to help. I believe what you eat has a lot to do with the phlebitis getting better or worse. Are vitamins good for it? Are eggs, bacon, or ham bad for it?

— O.M.M.

You have some strange and dangerous notions about phlebitis, which is vein inflammation that can cause clotting. There may be a pitting of the skin, but rubbing in ointments isn't going to help. Diet or vitamins aren't going to help. Treatment for phlebitis includes bedrest and drug therapy.

☆ ☆ ☆

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Will massaging the scalp help hair growth?

— J.F.

Poor blood circulation can be a factor in scalp health. If that is the case, then mild massaging may help improve the circulation and promote a healthier scalp, and just possibly hair growth.

Health Tip

Almost everybody has them — skin blemishes appear in many forms and types. Some are cause for worry and others safe. The Nebraska Medical Association offers this description of common skin blemishes (other than pimples) and recommends appropriate action:

WENS are plugged sebaceous (oil) glands in which the secretion hardens. They may grow to a considerable size, and if they are located where they interfere with clothing or where they are unsightly, they should be removed by a minor surgical operation.

FATTY TUMORS are growths filled with fat. They may be numerous and very disfiguring. Usually they are best left alone, since their number makes surgery impractical.

NEUROFIBROMAS are tumors connected with the nerves; they are not susceptible to any known successful treatment.

SKIN TAGS are small superficial growths which can easily be removed by a physician if conditions warrant.

None of the preceding conditions are of a cancerous nature, nor likely to become so.

MOLES are of several varieties, most of which are harmless. They should either be left alone, or if they are annoying in any way, they should be called to the attention of a physician. If any mole changes, color, bleeds, grows, or shows any other sign of change, it requires prompt attention to forestall a rapidly growing and spreading tumor known as melanoma, which is dangerous to life.

BIRTHMARKS are of several varieties, and their handling depends on their type. When they are very noticeable, they are often embarassing. Birthmarks cannot be removed, but can be covered with a special preparation available at most well-stocked cosmetic counters.

Formula sought to cover funds

Washington (UPI) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare is trying to work out a "forgiveness formula" to cover at least part of $1.8 billion in welfare funds HEW has been trying to recover from 28 states since the early 1970s.

The complex case involves federal funds provided states for social services on a 75-25% federal-state basis.

The money was intended for day care, homemaker assistance, child protection, family planning and other social services for needy persons.

Refund awaited for blue spruce

To ask a question, call 477-2121 or write P.O. Box 81689, Lincoln, Neb. 68501.

Out on a limb

I have written three letters to the House of Wesley, Bloomington, Ill. concerning a blue spruce shipment I refused and had returned to the firm last March. There should have been an immediate refund. We decided to return the plants after seeing the quality of a similar order placed by a neighbor.

Mrs. Alfred Witte Jr.
Lincoln

ACTION LINE: We contacted the answering service for House of Wesley, Inc., in Bloomington, about your order. The company does not take inquiries directly, the operator said. She will give your complaint to the firm for study. If you do not hear from the company, contact us and we will keep trying.

Subscribes to citizenship

Is there anybody who is interested in weekly or monthly magazines? I subscribe to several periodicals and would like to give them to somebody.

R. Overman,
Lincoln

ACTION LINE: You might want to help the Bennett Martin Library's hospital service program, which distributes popular books and magazines to local hospital patients. Carol Connor, library assistant director, says the library can use current popular magazines but may also use some older magazines occasionally. A magazine depository is placed inside the library's main doors. If you have a question about whether they can use your magazines, she suggest you give them a call.

Check under the bed

We work in a nursing home as housekeepers. Can you tell us what cleaning standards are expected by government agencies? My boss says he wants the bed foot board and head board dust-free and the lights above the bed and in the bathroom cleaned. The bed siderails are filthy and the piece under the springs is full of lint and dust but the boss says the nurses clean there and that Medicare doesn't look. I hope you can help us.

Housekeepers
Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Bill Page, director of the division of licensure and standards for the State Department of Health, says his agency certainly inspects under the bed, as well as thoroughly checking other areas of nursing home facilities. It's often a good indication of the level of care being provided, he said. In some care facilities, he explained, housekeepers may clean under the bed with nursing supervision. In other cases, this work may be done solely by nursing personnel. If you believe there is a serious deficiency at the place where you are employed, he suggests you contact his office.

Light not cascading

On June 18, I sent an order for a "Cascade of Light" to American Consumer, Inc., in Philadelphia. My check was cashed July 7 but I have not received my light.

Ginsengs' fate at root of issue

Dubuque, Iowa (UPI) — One of Iowa's little-known businesses, the sale of ginseng roots, could be in trouble.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has proposed the roots, sought as an aphrodisiac and general stimulant, be placed on the endangered species list. This would make digging up the roots, which grow beneath the ground, illegal, and would prohibit the export of the root.

A spokesman for the service said the plant was endangered because of "over-collection" due to foreign export demands.

However, the final decision on the fate of the root will be made after a period of public comment and review, officials said.

Involved is a thriving business in Iowa and about two dozen other states and a price tag of up to $100 a pound for the root.

The bulk of Iowa ginseng is exported to China.

Young runaway's life could have been saved

By Selwyn Raab
(c) New York Times

New York — The first time Veronica Brunson was arrested she was 11 years old. The charge was prostitution. Before another year passed, the police, unaware of her real age, arrested her 11 more times for prostitution.

At the age of 12 Veronica was dead — killed in a mysterious plunge last July from the 10th floor of a shabby midtown hotel frequented by pimps.

Veronica's death, which is being investigated as a possible murder, is one more grim crime statistic to the police. But Veronica's life, and her encounters with the city's social service and criminal justice systems in the last year, illustrate the problems and dangers confronting thousands of runaway girls and boys who turn to prostitution to survive alone on the streets of New York.

Six public and private agencies were partly aware of Veronica's difficulties and were supposedly providing aid. But none of the agencies knew her entire history and none intervened quickly enough to rescue her.

The six agencies — the Department of Social Services, the Board of Education, the Probation Department, the Corporation Counsel's Office, the Police Department and the Brooklyn Center for Psychotherapy — now cite bureaucratic barriers and communication breakdowns for their failure to act more effectively.

Prostitution by 13-, 14- and 15-year-olds posing as older persons is no longer rare in New York, according to the police. But an arrest for prostitution at the age of 11 is believed by vice squad detectives to be the youngest recorded here in decades.

In the summer of 1976 Veronica Brunson was 11, living in a fatherless home with her mother, Emma, who is now 34, and her brothers, Carson, 17, Douglas, 18, and Willie, 19.

Mrs. Brunson, unable to find work in her home state of North Carolina, had moved to Brooklyn when Veronica was 2; the family lived there in a neatly kept, three-bedroom apartment in the Housing Authority's Marlboro Houses. In addition to their rent, the family received $318 monthly from welfare.

By 1976 each of the Brunson boys had been arrested several times and had been in the juvenile courts. In contrast, Veronica's mother, teachers and friends agree she was well-behaved, with no sign of delinquency.

Pinched for money, Mrs. Brunson said she had made most of Veronica's clothing herself. "I tried to give her everything a little girl could want — clothing, food and some pocket money," Mrs. Brunson said in an interview. "She was a good little girl and if I told her to be home by six, she always was."

At school, Veronica, who was less than 5 feet tall and weighed about 100 pounds, was a poor student.

Her runaway problem suddenly began in midsummer 1976, Mrs. Brunson said.

"One evening she came home with an older girl whose name was Diana who she met at Coney Island," Mrs. Brunson recalled. "Diana said she was 18 and wanted Veronica to spend a few days with her over the bridge (in (Manhattan). I said no because I didn't think that girl Diana would be a good influence." Several days later, Mrs. Brunson continued, Veronica disappeared for the first time, staying away from home for three days. On her return, Veronica told her mother she had stayed with her new friend Diana in Manhattan.

That July, Veronica continued to leave home for two- or three-day periods. Mrs. Brunson said she had failed to report her daughter to the police as a missing person because Veronica would occasionally telephone her.

When the new school year began in September 1976, Veronica failed to appear at PS 253. Bernard Lew, her guidance counselor, said he was told by Veronica's mother that she had been missing for more than a month. Lew said he urged Mrs. Brunson to contact the police.

Police records show that Veronica was reported missing for the first time on Sept. 19, 1976, after the school term had begun, and that her family said she had been missing for six weeks.

One day after the missing person report was filed, Veronica was arrested on a prostitution charge. A plainclothes officer said she had solicited him on West 42nd Street. The 11-year-old gave the police her real age and identity and she was released in Mrs. Brunson's custody, pending action by the family court, which hears all criminal matters involving children up to the age of 16.

When Veronica returned to PS 253 in autumn 1976, her teachers and counselors were unaware of the arrest. Nevertheless, all of them said they noticed significant changes in her.

The year before she had dressed inconspicuously, almost shabbily. Now she used facial makeup and wore expensive-looking, color coordinated clothing, jewelry, high-heeled shoes and nylon stockings.

"She came back a different person," said Lew. "She seemed to have grown socially out of proportion to her age."

The teachers, who were ignorant of her arrest, were most concerned about her chronic absenteeism, which eventually reached 121 out of 180 school days that year.

By the following May, Veronica was a familiar figure on the "Minnesota strip," a seedy part of Eighth Avenue from 40th to 50th Street that is favored by streetwalkers. On the strip, Veronica, now 5 feet 2 and weighing 110 pounds, was known to other prostitutes as "Shortie" and by her childhood nickname, "Bay-Bay."

Police and court records show that between May 7 and July 18 Veronica was arrested 11 times in the midtown area. Usually she was charged with loitering for the purpose of prostitution, the most common misdemeanor used by police to harass and temporarily remove prostitutes from the streets.

Through coaching from a pimp or older prostitutes, Veronica carried no identification and gave the police a fictitious name and address and said she was 18 when arrested.

She always pleaded guilty in Criminal Court and often was released after being held overnight at a police station. But for two convictions she was sentenced to a total of 12 days, which she served among adult prisoners in the Women's House of Detention.

Homicide detectives are uncertain where Veronica lived during the last days of her life or if she had become a member of a pimp's "stable." On the evening of July 25 the girl went to Room 1003 in the Markwell, a dingy hotel on 49th Street, west of Broadway.

At about 8 p.m. guests at the hotel heard a fading scream and the thud of a body hitting the pavement. Veronica Brunson, almost nude, lay unconscious on the sidewalk. Four days later, without regaining consciousness, she died at St. Clare's Hospital.

"There are two stories on the street about her death," said Lt. James Gallagher, commander of the prostitution squad in Manhattan South area. "One that she was thrown out by a pimp, and the other that she was having a fight with her pimp and fell out the window while sitting on the ledge."

"It's not unbelievable that a pimp would throw a girl out a window," he continued. "They brutalize girls if they hold back money, get fresh or try to get away from them."

At the Brunson apartment, photographs of Veronica's three brothers now hang on the living-room wall. The only picture Mrs. Brunson says she has of her daughter is a wrinkled snapshot of a smiling 10-year-old girl with a group of neighborhood friends.

The photograph is kept by Mrs. Brunson in a Bible next to a withered yellow rose taken from Veronica's funeral wreath.

National debt ceiling bill sent to Carter

Washington (UPI) — Despite conservative grumbling, the House Tuesday passed and sent to President Carter an increase in the national debt ceiling to $752 billion.

Passage, by a 223-194 vote, came four days after the old $700 billion debt ceiling had expired, leaving the government unable to borrow funds to pay its bills.

All Treasury borrowing was called off pending passage of the debt bill, but no unusual problems were expected. Normally the government can operate for a week or two without any new borrowing.

But Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, warned his colleagues, "It is a very precarious situation. We ought to get back to normal financing."

The new ceiling will expire March 31. Originally the House passed a $773 billion ceiling through next Sept. 30, but the Senate cut the numbers back to $752 for six months, exactly the amount the Treasury said it will need while keeping some funds aside for contingencies.

The House simply accepted the Senate version.

Conservative Republicans complained that the smaller and less lengthy extension was not really a cut at all but was merely a political trick to make the bill easier to pass.

Senator backs farmers' strike

Omaha (AP) — Sen. Edward Zorinsky said Tuesday he will wholeheartedly support a farmers' strike "because it's time the rest of the American people woke up" to the troubles of family farmers.

"Nebraska is an agriculture state and our farmers are going broke," Zorinsky said. "It (the strike) needs to be done to call attention to farm problems. Too many people aren't aware of the fact that family farmers are going out of business."

A move is under way in many parts of Nebraska to begin a farmers' strike. The aim, organizers say, is to draw attention to their financial problems.

Zorinsky, in his weekly telephone call to the Nebraska Associated Press Broadcasters, said that while he doesn't support strikes in general, the farmers' plight is severe enough to make a strike necessary.

The Nebraska Democrat also said the Senate filibuster that tied up the energy bill for two weeks was "a sham, an exercise in futility and a total waste of the taxpayers' money."

"They have rules back here but everybody else tries to make up their own rules as they go along," he said about the parliamentary jockeying for position going on in the Senate.

While he said he still supports de-regulation of gas prices, he is prepared to vote for a compromise "just to get this thing settled. We've got to keep the American people in mind and get something passed."

Zorinsky also was asked what he thought about national health insurance, which the Carter administration plans to send to Congress next year.

"I'm opposed to it," Zorinsky said. "The government shows all the time it is fiscally irresponsible. We don't need to give them another program to run into the ground. Social Security is run badly enough."

Complaints about Kearney councilman spark probe

Kearney (UPI) — The city council will hold a special meeting to investigate city employe complaints about council member Carroll Sheldon, Mayor Francis Richards announced Tuesday.

Richards said Tuesday night's special meeting will focus on Sheldon's relationship with employes of the permit section of the city's Public Works Department and Sheldon's alleged violations of the Kearney Municipal Code and state statutes.

Sheldon, a Kearney contractor, is leading a petition drive aimed at repealing the uniform building code adopted by the Council last month over Sheldon's outspoken opposition. Sheldon has contended the code will cause construction costs to rise for Kearney citizens.

At a news conference, Richards said the complaints against Sheldon will be documented at the special meeting. "It'll be necessary to document what these regulations are, how they've occurred, his (Sheldon's) reaction to attempts of city employes to do their duty and carry out their jobs," he said.

Richards described Sheldon as an "undisciplined" person who becomes "angry and abusive" with city employes and said Sheldon had "adopted the bad American habit that any law he does not believe in he does not obey."

"He's defying the city council and city government on building regulations," Richards said. "He's made it very difficult for the administration to even attempt to tell him he is violating it (regulations).

"He has intimidated the entire staff, and it's come to the place where if something isn't done about it, we can't enforce anything in the city any more.

"We cannot tolerate undisciplined behavior. He becomes angry and abusive, and whenever he doesn't agree with anything, he becomes an undisciplined person," Richards said.

Merz asks cooperation on farm problem series

United Press International

A solution to the farm problem cannot be reached until all farm organizations and agriculturally related businesses agree on a program and cooperate in making it successful, state Sen. Nelson Merz of Falls City said Tuesday.

He made the statement while announcing a series of meetings in his legislative district at which farm problems will be discussed.

The matter is also of concern to businessmen and bankers because it branches out into their operations, Merz said.

"If we want to initiate a program to be used statewide and nationwide, we must all participate," he said. "I feel these meetings can be the starting point of a big movement."

The schedule of meetings, all of which will start at 7:30 p.m.:

Oct. 11, Wymore Community Center; Oct. 18, Pawnee City Bank basement; Oct. 20, 4-H Building, Auburn; Oct. 25, Richardson County Bank basement at Falls City.

Crossing bill would aid Nebraska cities

Associated Press

Sen. Edward Zorinsky has introduced legislation to reduce the danger and inconvenience created by the increase in the number of coal trains running through Nebraska and other states.

Zorinsky's bill, the first which the Nebraska Democrat has been prime sponsor for, proposes that $300 million be spent in each of the next three years to separate highways and rail crossings used by coal unit trains.

Zorinsky said in a prepared release that providing better signals at crossings is not enough.

He cited "the litany of tragedies that will occur across the countryside as people are cut off from essential and emergency services while unit coal trains are moving through highway rail crossings."

Lincoln, Broken Bow and Grand Island are three of the Nebraska cities that would benefit from the legislation, said Chip Terrill, legislative aide to Zorinsky. The $300 million figure may seem large, Terrill said, but costs are very high.

A four-lane overpass in Grand Island is expected to cost $2.4 million, he said, and a federal report says minimum protection at Burlington Northern crossings in Nebraska would cost $57 million.

After August meetings in Nebraska, Terrill said, the freshman senator and his staff discovered that other states had similar concerns.

Howard Gunnerson, executive director of the Lancaster County Railroad Transportation Safety District, said other Nebraska communities probably would benefit more than Lincoln if Zorinsky's bill is passed. Lincoln is one of 19 cities receiving federal funds to alleviate mounting coal train problems.

Most of what the legislation seems to envision already is being tried in Lincoln, Gunnerson said.

Gunnerson may be too optimistic, says Terrill. Several fights concerning the environmental impact statement could tie up the program in Lincoln, he said, but the Zorinsky bill could provide the options and compromises needed to move the Lincoln track relocation project along.

Zorinsky who has served nine months in the Senate, has signed other legislation as a co-sponsor, but the rail crossing bill is the first he has introduced alone.

Norden study prompts 'make believe' search

Basset (AP) — The state chairman of the Save the Niobrara River Association says he'd like to find "the land of make believe" described in an updated Farm Budget Analysis on the Norden Dam irrigation project.

Wes Sandall, owner of a large farm-ranch operation near Bassett in the Norden Dam project area says, "If there's really someplace where I can raise irrigated corn for only $5 an acre for seed, $21 for fertilizer and nothing for herbicides and pesticides or where I can get a combine today for $11,000 and a center pivot for $18,000, I'd sure like to find it.

Sandall, said these figures care "half to a third" what farmers are really paying.

"Maybe these guys have been locked in their offices so long they don't know what changes are taking place in farming technology," he said.

Sandall said the only figure in the revised analysis close to realistic is the price of corn, $1.46 bushel.

"With the price of corn what it is today, you can see why the feds don't use true production cost figures. Even a bureaucrat can see it looks pretty silly to spend $180 million to build a project to raise irrigated corn at a loss."

Veteran bill signed

Washington (AP) — President Carter said he has signed a bill granting a 6.6% cost-of-living increase in benefit payments to two million service-disabled veterans and their survivors. The increases are retroactive to Oct. 1.

Funding sought for health center

An application for additional federal funds for the Lancaster County Community Mental Health Center was approved Tuesday by the County Board.

If the four grant applications are approved by federal officials, they will provide an additional $220,652 in federal money for the center in fiscal 1978-79.

They will also save the county nearly $40,000 in its share of support for the center.

Specifically, the center is asking for:

— $263,316 to continue and expand present programs.

— $77,874 to set up mental health services for the elderly in cooperation with Madonna Professional Care Center and the Lincoln Information Service for the Elderly.

— $36,126 to establish a day care program to be located at Cedars Home.

— $49,613 for a "transitional living facility," an adult foster care home for short-term care and resocialization of mental patients.

Including all grants, state and county support and fees, all funds budgeted for fiscal 1978-79 total $1,494,324.

In other action, the board approved the transfer of liquor licenses to two new owners: a bottle club license to Guadelupe R. Sanchez for The Elms tavern in Emerald; and a retail beer/off-sale license to Daat, Inc., for the Walton General Store in Walton.

The board approved the final plat of Pawnee Estates, a 55-acre subdivision along West Fletcher St., north of Pawnee Lake.

It deferred action on a recommendation of the Street Name Committee to change the name of Buda Rd. in the southern part of the county to Pella Rd. Some area residents would like the road named after the Pella Reformed Church near Adams, which is a landmark.

Farm animals featured at kindergarten project

If you know someone who would like to pet a goat, a rabbit or a snake, who is kindergarten age or younger, keep a couple of hours open in your schedule for Friday afternoon.

The kindergarten class at Norris Public School, near Firth, is sponsoring a petting barnyard for pre-school tots.

The event will be from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. Friday at the school. Children from throughout the Norris District are invited.

The animals are being supplied by youths in the Future Farmers of America program, and will include all types of farm animals, plus a pet snake, according to kindergarten instructor Jordan Kominsky.

Fair set at Dana

Blair — Dana College is planning a Renaissance Faire as part of homecoming festivities on the Blair campus Oct. 7-9.

College officials said a large tent will house a crafts fair for participants from Blair, Kennard and Dana. Exhibits planned will include spinning, latch-hooking, rosemaling and tatting, as well as a variety of jewelry and needlepoint-crewell, college officials said.

Language day at Hastings

Hastings — A professor of English at the University of Texas, Austin, will be the keynote speaker for the annual "Day of Language and Literature" planned for Friday on the campus of Hastings College.

Dr. James H. Sledd, of Austin, Tex., is a proponent of the idea that English should consist of language, literature and composition, all three of equal importance, college onficials said.

In addition to his speech, four Nebraska poets: Dr. Dwight Marsh of Hastings, Dr. Don Welch of Kearney, and Bill Kloefkorn and Roy Scheele of Lincoln, will also read their works. All sessions are open to the public, college officials said.

Code hearing set

Kearney — The Judiciary Committee of the Nebraska Legislature will hold a hearing on the proposed new state criminal code in Kearney Friday. The 10 a.m. public hearing will be held at the Holiday Inn.

MoPac makes record buy

Omaha — The Missouri Pacific Railroad ha announced the purchase of $113 million worth c new freight cars and locomotives. The purchase including 2,550 freight cars of various types and 6 locomotives, is the largest single order eve placed by the railroad.

New car sales revealed

Omaha — Nebraskans purchased $698 million worth of new cars from 400 franchised new car dealers in the state last year, according to the Nebraska New Car and Truck Dealers Association.

The association also reports there were 848,000 cars and 370,000 trucks or buses on the state's roads last year. Dealer sales totaled 13.6% of the state's total sales and the dealer payroll of $53 million was 9.1% of the total state payroll for the year.

Humanities conference slated

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln will host a "Conference of the Humanities and Public Life" Thursday through Saturday at the Cornhusker Hotel.

The conference will feature two keynote addresses by Walter Kaufmann, professor of philosophy at Princeton University and Lewis Spitz, professor of history at Stanford University.

The conference will also include presentations by philosophy, history, theology and law teachers from UNL, University of Nebraska-Omaha and Creighton University.

Fighting city hall is a long battle

Schuyler — Fighting City Hall can be a long battle, as Jeff Pokorny is learning.

Pokorny took the city to court in April on charges that the City Council violated the open meetings law and legal requirements regarding notice of meetings at two March sessions.

In September, a district court judge ruled in favor of Pokorny.

Monday, Pokorny filed another suit against the city for conflicts of interest and procedural violations.

Both suits concern the $504,400 purchase by the city of 252 acres of land south of town for sewage treatment plant improvements and for a farming operation.

District Court Judge John C. Whitehead ruled negotiations between the city council and the Langemeier-Wagner Co. of Schuyler, which owns the land, were null and void.

Whitehead then enjoined the city from proceeding with the contract.

However, the city council, in open session, went ahead with the sale in mid-August.

Pokorny doesn't want the city to buy the land because he doesn't think government should get into the farming business. Of the 252 acres the city is buying, 50 will be used for the sewage treatment plant and 200 will be used for farming. The city will rent the land to farmers, Pokorny said.

Monday, Pokorny and his attorney filed a motion for contempt of court because the city went ahead with the Langemeier-Wagner Co. contract even though the judge had enjoined the city from proceeding with that contract.

However, Judge Whitehead denied the contempt of court motion saying actions taken by the city in August were new actions that weren't cited in Pokorny's original petition.

So, Pokorny filed another petition Monday citing procedural violations and conflicts of interest in actions the city council took in August. This case will be heard Nov. 7.

Pokorny says that in its published agenda in August the Council said it would discuss alternatives to the purchase of the land. However, in its session the council approved the sale.

Pokorny also charges Leroy Trofholz, chairman of the Board of Public Works, works for Kermit Wagner, one of the owners of the land. Wagner also is a University of Nebraska regent.

In addition, Pokorny says City Atty. Donn Bieber has a conflict of interest because he is Wagner's attorney's partner.

Bieber refused to confirm whether he was the partner of Wagner's attorney.

"I don't think if I'm his attorney's partner has anything to do with it," Bieber said.

Aurora school aid threatened in deaf suit

Aurora — The Aurora School District has been told by a State Board of Education member that it could lose all state aid, $225,000, if the district does not provide an educational program for a deaf child.

James Monahan, in a letter to Aurora School Supt. Donald E. Burling, said the district has violated state law and a ruling by the special education appeals board.

Monahan of Omaha contends the school violated state special education legislation by not providing services to Steven C. Larson Jr., a deaf child of Mr. and Mrs. Steven C. Larson of Aurora.

The boy's parents want him to go to school in Aurora, but the district says the Nebraska School for the Deaf at Omaha could provide the best educational program for the student.

The boy was denied entry to Aurora's South Elementary School Sept. 6 and has been at home since. Monahan says the denial violates a rule of state special education laws that says the student must be retained in the previous educational placement if an appeal is pending.

Monahan said in his Sept. 29 letter that "if the Aurora Public Schools continues in its present action, I will be forced to recommend that the state board of education not approve your special education program for the year."

If the special education program is not approved, all state appropriations would be denied the school district.

The appeals board recommended the Larson boy be placed in a specialized program and added that the Prescott School in Lincoln and the Nebraska School for the Deaf are qualified to provide that education.

Attorneys for the school district and the Larsons have presented briefs in district court on the appeal of the special education appeals board ruling. The school district seeks to clarify what it sees as ambiguities in the appeals board ruling.

Monahan said he wrote the letter to "give everybody advance warning, including the state board and the commissioner, of what I proposed to do."

He said the letter was official only in that it was written by a state board member.

Special education program reports are due from all school districts Oct. 31 and either will be endorsed or rejected at the state board's November or December meeting, according to Monahan.

Omaha school projects slowed

Omaha (UPI) — The Omaha Board of Education has voted to delay construction on projects valued at nearly $7.3 million until it has more information and time to study the proposals.

The school administration recommended architects for the projects two weeks ago, but school superintendent Owen Knutzen said he didn't believe the board's action Monday would add significant costs or delay completion scheduled for the winter of 1978-79.

Proposals including replacements for old parts of Highland, Mason, and Franklin schools and air conditioning at the Mann ninth grade center apparently will be discussed by the board in two weeks.

Officials said energy remodeling at Central and Technical high schools may be reconsidered by December.

The remodeling at the two high schools was proposed to cut heating bills and make other improvements, but board member Don Cunningham said the projects could not be justified without definite information.

Omaha gets $800,000 for school integration

Omaha (AP) — The office of Sen. Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb., was notified Monday of Department of Health, Education and Welfare grants of more than $800,000 to the Omaha public schools.

The money is to be used to integration-related programs.

The school district will receive $522,830 this school year for special integration assistance under the Emergency School Aid Act.

The district also will receive $366,314 for its magnet school project.

G.I. gives support to flood plans

Grand Island (UPI) — Two major flood control projects may be in Grand Island's future.

The city council Monday night voted to pursue recommended projects of the Army Corps of Engineers,' which is about to begin advanced engineering and design studies and decide the feasibility of the proposals — one for the northwest part of the city and the other for the southern section.

Wayne Bennett of the City Engineer's Dept. told the council the northwest project would cost local government about $600,000, with the federal government paying about $1.2 million.

He said the southern project would begin at the U.S. 281 bridge across the middle channel of the Platte River and would extend northwest for about three miles to the main Wood River channel. This was the most feasible, he said.

The work would entail a 360-foot wide three-mile long floodway and would cost an estimated $7 million, with the local share $4.8 million and the federal share $2.2 million. Bennett said the project would entail building several county bridges across the floodway.

City Manager Earl Ahlschwede said construction of the projects is probably at least five years in the future.

Nursing home plan eyed again

Grand Island (UPI) — The Greater Nebraska Health Systems Agency said Monday the Cedarborough Nursing Home project in Hastings, scrapped in June, is under reconsideration.

The agency's project review coordinator, Herb Spears of Grand Island, said the agency and the State Health Dept originally vetoed the project because of a possible nursing home bed overrun in the area.

However, Spears said proponents of the 64-bed Cedarborough project have notified officials the 30-bed Adams County Care Center may close, thus creating a potential need for more nursing home care.

The Cedarborough home, if approved, would serve Adams, Clay, Nuckolls and Webster counties.

Spears said a public hearing on Cedarborough's application has been scheduled for Oct. 13 in Grand Island and the agency's governing board would make a final recommendation to the state during an Oct. 21 meeting in Scottsbluff.

Spears said the projected cost of the Cedarborough facility was $850,000 with $750,000 of that coming from a federal loan and the other $100,000 from private sources.

The Greater Nebraska Health Systems Agency serves a total of 71 counties.

Youth theater group elects board members

Jody Batten of Lincoln was elected president of the Theatre Arts for Youth (TAFY) board of directors for 1977-78.

Other officers elected to the board were Lucy Buntain, vice president; Ronaele Tridle, secretary; and Tom Wright, treasurer.

Terri Faulkner, Lenette Nelson and Glenda Peterson were elected to serve three-year terms on the board.

The first TAFY performance of the year will be "The Dragons are too Seldom," featuring a puppet theater from Deadwood, S.D., on Oct. 29 at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Student Union.

Playing a duet involves the entire school in District 88.

North School has one room, teacher student

By Dean Terrill
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Crete — It comes every morning right after flag salute. All of old North School joins Mrs. Ruth Horsky on the piano bench and they begin chording a duet.

Right. It takes her and the whole doggone school for a duet.

Mark Logsdon, a bright and energetic seventh grader, is the sum total of enrollment this year at Saline District 88, two miles south of Crete. It's a one-room, one-pupil school in an era when any country school is something of a rarity.

Going it alone poses no real problems with the conventional Three R's, but Mark admits loneliness during the fourth — Recess. Interested in athletics, he spends most of his time at calisthenics or, with Mrs. Horsky as timekeeper, at running.

"At least nobody's bugging me" said the farm youth, a consistent "B" student. "I don't feel like I'm really missing anything except football and that can come in high school."

Certainly on the plus side academically is the undivided attention of Mrs. Horsky, who had all of eight pupils when she came to the school in 1968. Seventeen years in the profession altogether, she insists the current one-on-one is "my toughest teaching ever."

"It's a real challenge trying to sustain Mark's interest all day long," she explained. "I block out the day by subject areas just as I would with any class, except our situation does permit more flexibility."

Teacher and pupil alike go for the 1:45 p.m. dismissal time made possible by concentrated instruction. As regular as daily 'rithmetic is the pledge of allegiance, a mere two participants notwithstanding.

Sometimes there is one spectator as well, Mrs. Horsky's three-year-old daughter, Sara. By special arrangements with the school board — its president is Mark's father, Buck — the child is permitted to accompany her mother three days a week.

"Sometimes a little of Sara's activity off in the corner is good for Mark and me both," said the teacher, who lives in Crete. "Last year there were two other pupils including Mark's older brother, Rusty. We're planning some special activities through the year so Mark can mix with his own age group from other schools."

Educational television courses are also used for the seventh grader, whose favorite subjects are science, art and music. Fortunately, Mrs. Horsky, a Diller native, has enough piano background to give Mark beginning lessons on the instrument.

"We have a lot of fun at the piano, even singing some numbers together as we play," said Mrs. Horsky. "Mark has a real positive attitude and we communicate pretty well."

Graduating from Fairbury College in 1959, the persistent teacher plugged away on her bachelor's degree until receiving it last summer from the University of Nebraska. She taught in Jefferson and Gage counties before coming to District 88.

Incidentally, Saline County has eight other one-room rural schools, an unusually high number for today in southeast Nebraska. Fifteen years ago, however, there were 32 such schools.

A comparison of levies between District 88 and adjoining Crete shows one reason reorganization hasn't gone faster. By keeping their doors open, old North's patrons pay taxes of 33.90 mills. Crete's current levy is 71.48 mills.

With the possibility of two kindergartners next fall and two more in 1979, it appears that Mark's leaving won't mean the end.

UNL state survey says money can buy happiness

By Nancy Hicks
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska's "good life" is better for the more monied residents of the state, according to a University of Nebraska-Lincoln survey.

There is a strong relationship between total household income and the level of happiness reported, according to David R. Johnson, of the UNL Bureau of Sociological Research.

Half of the people contacted for the survey with annual incomes over $25,000 are "very happy," while only slightly more than one-third of the people in households earning less than $7,500 a year reported themselves "very happy," he said.

"It is not surprising to find income strongly related to happiness. Income is crucial for meeting desires for things that lead to a good life — housing, health care, leisure and security," Johnson explained.

In the second of 10 reports on the annual survey, researchers measured age, sex, community size, income and education against happiness levels of Nebraskans.

The exact question used in the survey was: "Taking all things together, how happy would you say you are these days? — very happy, pretty happy or not too happy."

The survey also asked residents to rate their satisfaction with their community, its convenience, and to tell how much they liked their neighbors.

The happiest Nebraskan of all, according to the survey scores, would be a woman, over 65 years of age, with some college and an income of more than $25,000 a year, living on a farm in Douglas or Lancaster County.

The happiness level increased with the education of the person. The more education Nebraskans have, the more likely they are to report their lives as being very happy, said Johnson.

Community size is not strongly related to the "very happy" percentage, though different types of communities did show different levels of happiness, according to the survey.

People living in rural settings within urban counties reported the greatest happiness level, followed by Lincoln residents.

Omaha citizens reported the lowest percentage on the "very happy" answer, according to Johnson.

Income and education were also strongly related to satisfaction with the community. Nebraskans with more education and higher income were more likely to rate their community highly in the survey taken last spring.

Older Nebraskans and women were also more satisfied with their communities.

Community convenience responses followed a logical pattern, with Omaha and Lincoln residents rating their communities as very convenient. Only 22% of those living in rural farm counties classed their residence as convenient.

But the greatest satisfaction with neighbors was found in the rural areas and small towns.

Seventy-four percent of those living on farms in rural counties said their neighbors are "very good." Rural and small-town residents were also more likely to say the "like their neighborhood very much" than people who live in large communities.

The lowest neighbor rating was found in Omaha.

While Nebraskans with more education are more likely to be satisfied with their community and view their neighborhoods as convenient, they are less likely to rate their neighbors highly, Johnson noted.

Burrows will keep plugging school funding system change

By Don Walton
Star Staff Writer

Patient and persistent, Sen. George "Bill" Burrows of Adams said Tuesday he is prepared to work eight years for his new school funding concept — if necessary, and if the voters will let him.

Burrows has all but wiped aside thoughts of running for Congress next year in favor of seeking a second four-year term in the Legislature.

And if the voters of the 30th District reelect him, he'll keep on plugging for a bill proposing local income tax support of the schools.

That measure would revolutionize Nebraska's tax system by replacing local property tax funding of elementary and secondary schools.

It is the size of the change itself which has made it difficult to win legislative approval during his first three years in the Unicameral, Burrows said.

"But I'll be persistent. I'm going to stay with it, and if it takes eight years to get it, that wouldn't surprise me at all," he noted.

The Burrows plan is currently pending on the floor of the Legislature, ready for action when senators convene their 1978 session next January.

Burrows hopes to bring it up for discussion "a few weeks into the session."

With a limited 60-day session on tap next year, he believes such a proposal needs to be considered "reasonably early."

It would have no chance "at the tail end of the session," he said.

Burrows believes he has "a reasonable chance" of winning approval for the proposal in 1978.

"It's the logical and equitable answer to school financing. There's a lot of interest in the bill now, but the biggest problem is that it's such a big move," he said.

Some senators may want to await court action on property tax financing of the schools or wait for the electorate's judgment on the latest state school aid bill at the 1978 general election, Burrows noted.

And, if that's the case, and no action is possible in the 1978 session, he'll be back with a similar bill in 1979 — if he wins his second term.

Burrows feels "certain" that the current system of property tax financing will soon be challenged in the courts.

And, although that might delay legislative consideration of his bill, he said, it also could pave the way for its eventual enactment.

"It could take six or seven or eight years to make such a change," he noted. "I may not like that, but I am fairly able to accept the fact that the political system sometimes works that way."

Burrows, an Adams farmer, was elected to the Unicameral in 1974. He was the First District Democratic congressional nominee in 1970.

Scouts conducting energy checks

Cub Scouts, Scouts and Explorers from the Cornhusker Council will participate in a nationwide Energy Inventory Day on Saturday.

Dr. John T. McGreer, council president, said scouts will participate in energy forums designed to teach them how to conserve energy. They will also conduct energy inventories in their homes and possibly the homes of neighbors and buildings of sponsoring institutions.

McGreer said scouts conducting energy inventories will be in uniform and will obtain permission from the homeowner or sponsor first.

McGreer also noted that attendance at this year's Cornhusker Council's summer camp at Humboldt increased over last year's attendance. McGreer said more than 2,700 Cubs, Scouts, and leaders attended the camp, an increase of 2,000 from last year.

HERE'S FIRST FEDERAL LINCOLN WITH THE BILL PAYING PLAN THAT WILL CHANGE YOUR FINANCIAL LIFESTYLE.

Take the interest from a savings account. Add the bill paying convenience of a checking account. Now you have an idea how you can use the Money Service Daily Account both to earn interest and to pay bills. Take advantage of our remarkable bill paying service and turn over a new leaf in your money life. Today. And all the days ahead.

PAY-IT-YOUR-WAY Bill Paying. This unique Bill Paying Plan invites you to pay in the manner most convenient for you personally. In person. By mail. Or by telephone. To start using this service, just stop by any First Federal Lincoln Office.

Pay-It-Your-Way lets you remain in complete control of your funds. We pay only the firms that you specify. You can also pay yourself, and transfer funds from your checking account or regular savings account to your Bill Paying Account, and vice-versa. We pay not just a few creditors for you, but all recurring bills.

PAYING IN PERSON.

Make a list of the bills you want paid, when you want them paid, and how much. List them on a Pay-It-Your-Way Ticket, and present it to any Money Service merchant location or First Federal Lincoln office. A validated copy of the completed ticket will be given you.

PAYING BY MAIL.

Send us a list of the bills you want paid, when, and how much, on a Pay-It-Your-Way Ticket.

PAYING BY PHONE.

Call in your list of bills to our unique automatic recording system that bypasses operators to give you complete 24-hour bill paying service 7 days a week. Call a toll-free number, give your name and other appropriate information. Then, for each bill you want paid, just tell us whom to pay, when, and how much. Payments may be postdated up to 31 days. If no date is given, payment will be mailed immediately—the same day if you phone before 1:00 p.m.

DO YOU HAVE ANY QUESTIONS?

YOU: "Yes. Even though our bill-paying money can now earn interest with your new plan, is this really such a big breakthrough that it can 'change our financial lifestyle'?"

US: "Maybe not the interest-earning factor alone, but when you add other benefits, such as complete record-keeping information, the ease of use, the time saved, the stamps and checks saved, the overall centralization of bill-paying and money management—then surely you will agree that this method begins an entire new monetary system for your future."

YOU: "Even if it does, there are other bill-paying systems. Why should we choose your plan over the others?"

US: "Because we let you Pay-It-Your-Way, in person, by mail or by phone; because we pay all recurring bills that you request; because we pay high interest on the Bill-Paying Account and on all companion savings plans; because we offer you a comprehensive monthly statement and annual payee recap for tax purposes; because our automatic recording system gives you 24-hour service."

YOU: "'Companion savings plans?'—what do you mean by that? Isn't the Money Service Daily a savings account?"

US: "The Money Service Daily is a bill-paying account that earns interest. Think of it as everyday money that pays you while it waits to pay your bills. The Money Savings 90 and Money Savings Certificates are for longer range saving, and to meet special goals."

YOU: "I have a car payment every month, can you pay it automatically for me?"

US: "Yes. In fact, we'll make any recurring payment of a fixed amount, such as life insurance, rent, house."

YOU: "What if I get confused when I'm making out my Pay-It-Your-Way Ticket or calling in to pay by phone?"

US: "We have a Special Assistance Line to help you any day of the week between 8 a.m. and 11 p.m.

ANY MORE QUESTIONS?

If so, please come in to see us. We'd like to visit with you in person here at First Federal Lincoln about Pay-It-Your-Way Bill Paying. Although it's a new financial concept, it's easy. It will work for you, earn extra money for you, and save extra money for you. Let us show you personally just how easy and workable it really is. Just drop by at your convenience, and let's talk.

Dear First Federal Lincoln: I can't come in the office right away. Please send me your free Pay-It-Your-Way Bill Paying brochure so I can look it over at my leisure.

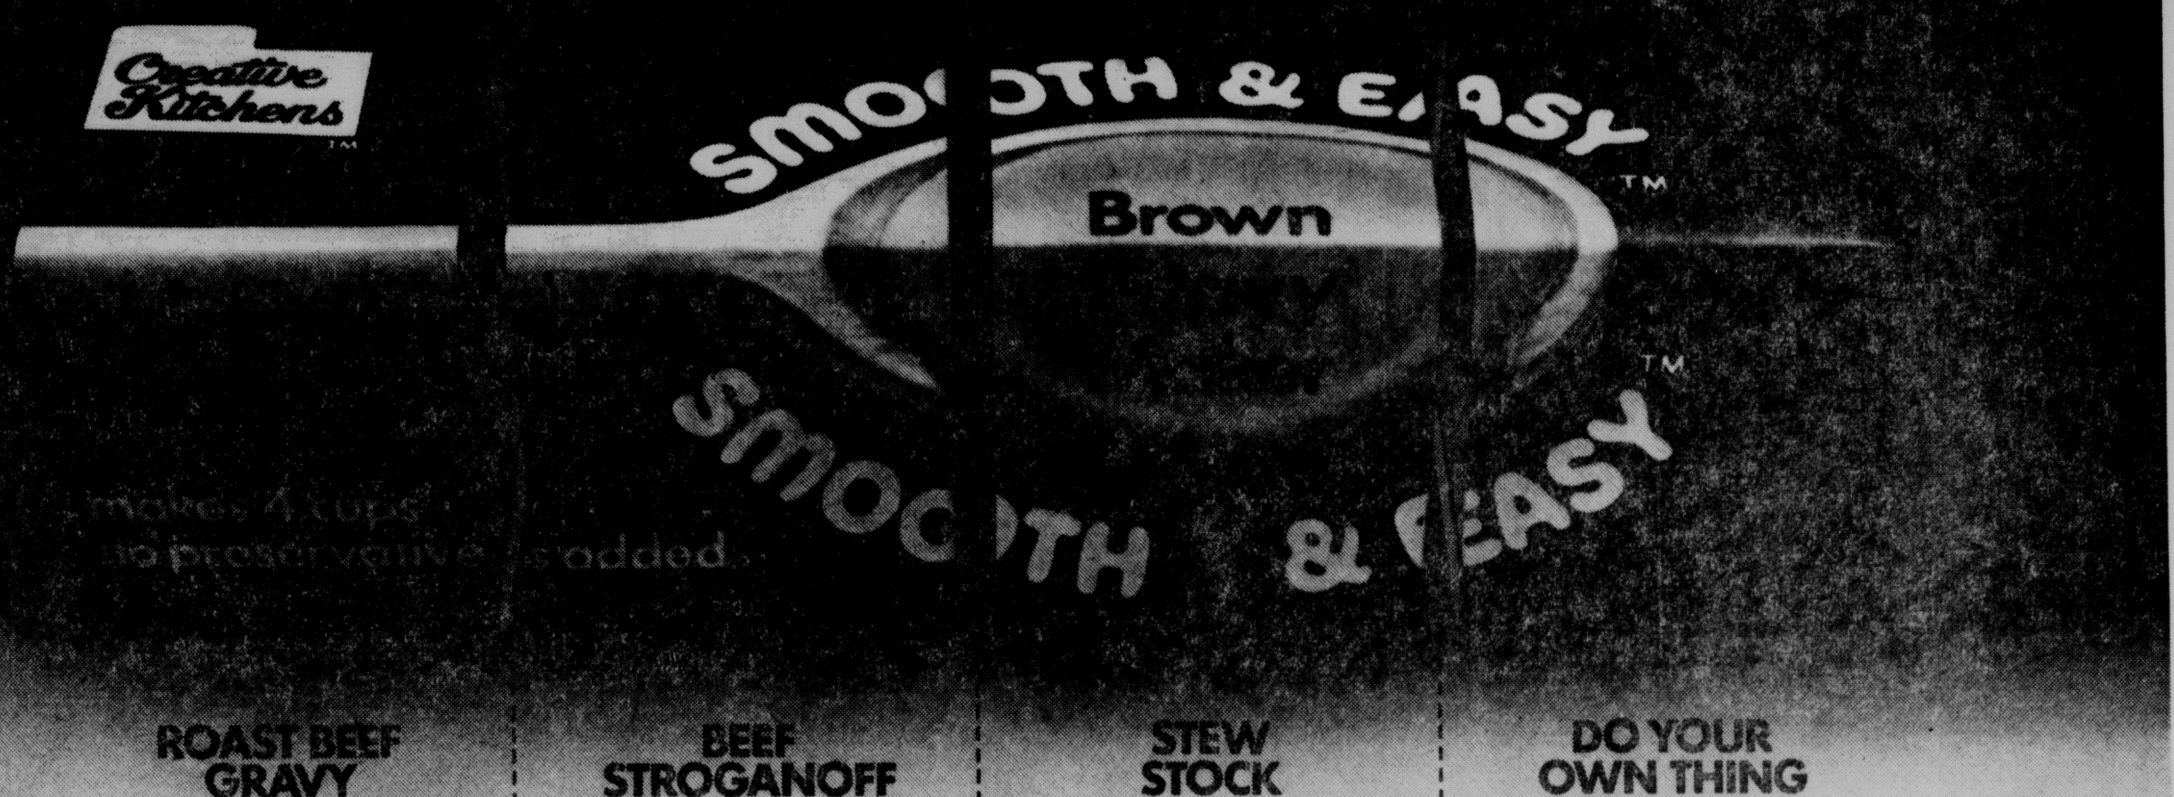
INTRODUCING SMOOTH & EASY™ BROWN GRAVY MAKER. THE MOST VERSATILE NEW FOOD IDEA OF THE YEAR.

from Creative Kitchens™



ROAST BEEF GRAVY

Remove meat from pan. Pour off extra fat from drippings. Add water. Bring to a boil, stirring to dissolve brown bits. Slice in 1/4 bar of SMOOTH & EASY™ brown gravy maker for every cup of liquid. Cook and stir for 30 seconds until gravy thickens and boils.

BEEF STROGANOFF

Cook meat, vegetables, and potatoes in the usual way. Slice in what you need of SMOOTH & EASY, stir until thickened and boiling. Serve with sour cream over hot cooked noodles.

STEW STOCK

Cook meat and vegetables until tender. Slice in SMOOTH & EASY, stirring constantly until thickened. Use about 1/4 bar per cup of liquid.

DO YOUR OWN THING

Take 1/4 bar of SMOOTH & EASY and make it the basic part of almost any brown gravy or sauce you can dream up. Add mushrooms, parsley or chives. Use red wine or tomato juice for all the liquid. Create! And enjoy!

And all it takes is 30 seconds to liven up so many dishes!

Refrigerated for freshness, new SMOOTH & EASY uses the same kind of good ingredients you'd use in your own homemade gravy. It takes only 30 seconds because Creative Kitchens™ did the hard part of precooking and preblending. All you do is add SMOOTH & EASY™ brown gravy maker to just about any boiling liquid and stir.

There are no preservatives in SMOOTH & EASY. And it comes in an easy-to-measure bar that lets you make as much or as little as you like, so there's no waste. You can make 4 cups of gravy from every bar!

New SMOOTH & EASY™ brown and chicken gravy makers and white sauce maker are in your grocer's refrigerated section. There's really no end to the uses you'll find for the most versatile food idea of the year. The recipe folder in every box is just the beginning: you can get dozens more recipes by sending for the SMOOTH & EASY recipe book with the order blank below.

Lee Otis Marshall charged with murder.

Marshall pleads innocent

The accused slayer of florist Wilson Eugene Field Tuesday pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to the first degree murder charged against him.

Lee Otis Marshall is charged with fatally beating Field with a surveyor's stake at Field's florist shop at 3907 S. 48th St. Aug. 11.

Flanked by Deputy Public Defender Paul Conley, Marshall entered his plea before Lancaster District Judge William Hastings. He waived a preliminary hearing on the charge in Lancaster County Court and was bound over last week.

According to police, Marshall had worked at the Field flower shop for at least a day before the killing.

Shortly after Field's body was found in the florist shop Marshall turned himself in to sheriff's deputies at the department garage at Coddington and West O Sts.

Marshall was transferred at one time from the city jail to the Nebraska Regional Center after he wrote a suicide note.

The Lancaster County Board of Mental Health later ruled he was not dangerous to himself and he was returned to the jail.

After being transferred back to jail Marshall was treated for a small self-inflicted cut on his neck. Jail officials discounted the cut as a suicide attempt and said Marshall apparently inflicted it with his thumbnail.

Preliminary hearing set for Sell

Lexington (AP) — A preliminary hearing for Dennis Sell, charged with first-degree murder in the slaying of a rural Lexington woman, has been set for Oct. 19 by Dawson County Court Judge George Bigelow.

Sell, 32, is being held without bond on the charge of killing Ruth Eby, 32, whose nude and beaten body was found in a field Sept. 27, four days after she disappeared from her home.

Officials said Mrs. Eby, who was beaten severely, died of puncture wounds inflicted by a sharp instrument.

Sell, an employe of the Sperry-New Holland plant at Lexington, was arrested several hours before Mrs. Eby's body was found by a search party that included her husband, Richard.

She was the second rural Lexington woman to mysteriously disappear within recent months. No trace has been found of Judith Dangler, 32, who vanished Feb. 7.

Innocent pleas entered by men in assault cases

Two 21-year-old men pleaded innocent Tuesday in Lancaster District Court to charges of first degree sexual assault filed against them in unrelated cases.

Ricky Jackson, 221 Furnas Ave. is charged in connection with the Aug. 7 rape of a 27-year-old woman in Interstate Park near I-180 and Adams St. He also is charged with being a habitual criminal.

Thomas Greaser of David City is charged in connection with an incident in which a 15-year-old girl told police she had engaged in sexual activity with Greaser in the attic of a north Lincoln home.

Under Nebraska law sexual activity is a felony crime, even with consent, if the perpetrator is older than 18 and the other person is younger than 16.

Attendants ratify pact

Los Angeles (AP) — Continental Airlines flight attendants have ratified a two-year contract which provides an average 57% pay hike, according to a negotiating committee spokeswoman.

Reducing cities' litter study's aim

United Press International

Use of litter reduction techniques tested in 12 cities during the past four years could save cities and counties thousands of dollars annually, according to Paul V. Eldien, state affairs representative of the United States Brewers Association.

Those techniques, which have enabled cities like Tampa to reduce litter by 70%, will be offered to local governments, he said.

The program, known as positive litter reduction, has four components — updated ordinances, manpower and modern equipment, education and law enforcement.

Eldien said seven sources of litter have been identified by research.

"Before the field testing, we assumed that pedestrians and motorists were mainly responsible for litter," he said. "But research revealed that well over 50% of litter comes from five other sources."

Those five were identified as household refuse, commercial refuse, loading and unloading operations, uncovered trucks and construction sites.

Citizen policy meet set

Richard Barnet, founder and co-director of the Institute for Policy Studies in Washington, D.C., will give the keynote address at an open forum on citizen participation in international policy Saturday at the Lincoln Hilton.

Other speakers at the forum include Lincoln mayor Helen Boosalis, Congressman John Cavanaugh, Leslie Duly, member of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln's international conflict project, Clayton Yeutter, attorney and former Assistant Secretary of Agriculture and Richard Voell, executive vice-president of Beatrice Foods Co.

Ring around the sausage.

Polish ring sausage and kraut in a meal that's a real bell ringer! Or try pork and/or ribs.

(Serves 4). 27 oz. Frank's Quality Kraut, drained, 1 t. basil, ½ t. celery seed, 1 lb. Polish ring sausage, 3 T. brown sugar, ½ cup hot water. Mix kraut, basil and celery seed in a casserole. Make deep cuts in sausage about 1 inch apart, pushing it into kraut mixture half way. Dissolve brown sugar in water and dribble over casserole. Bake covered at 350° for 1 hour. Recipe can be adapted to slow cookers.

Driver orders children off bus

Council Bluffs, Iowa (AP) — Officials have confirmed that a school bus driver apparently ordered his ninth-grade passengers off the vehicle onto Abbott Drive Monday.

Council Bluffs school officials said they had no details of the incident, but added they feel it may have been an attempt at discipline by the driver.

Paul Stinemates, superintendent of buses for K&K Investments, the contract carrier, said an investigation is being made. He didn't identify the driver.

Richard Kolo of Carter Lake, father of a girl who was on the bus, said the children were left on the shoulder of the busy street. The students from Carter Lake attend Wilson Junior High School in Council Bluffs.

The bus was carrying students going home at noon.

Asst. Supt. Tom Kenny said he understood the driver, who has been on the job about a week, was struck with several thrown items before he ordered the youths off the bus.

Kenney said he was told a similar incident occurred with the same driver on the same run late last week.

Kolo said his daughter told him there were about 40 students involved and that the pupiles were noisy, but not rowdy.

Clowning around hard, rewarding

Omaha (AP) — More than 50,000 miles per year on the road has taken its toll on marriages, relationships, muscles and bones for rodeo clowns John Taylor of Burbank, Calif., and Larry Clayman of Springfield, Mo.

Their most recent stop was the Ak-Sar-Ben rodeo which ended in Omaha Sunday.

"I really get tired of hurting all over from pulled muscles and broken bones," said Clayman. "But when I feel the acceptance of the crowd, the adrenalin flows, and I forget the hurt and work my heart out."

Clayman, 36, is a third-generation rodeo clown. He has had one marriage fail and has broken numerous bones, but he's never missed a scheduled performance.

"I don't know if it's stupidity or what, but I'd like to think pride had something to do with it," he said.

Taylor has stepped into his baggy pants and painted his face 192 times since February. "The traveling kills you, but with all the world's troubles, if I can make people laugh and forget about their troubles then it's all worthwhile," he said.

Taylor, 36, is single and travels alone by car.

Clayman travels with his wife, Cindy, daughter Shannon, 3, and son, Stan, 15, in a motor home along with his performing companion, Todo, the chimpanzee.

"I'm ready to slow down and start a weekly rodeo near Branson, Missouri, next spring and only hit the road for the big indoor rodeos," Clayman said.

Taylor also is ready to settle down and get married, but he said, "I won't quit clowning for a long while yet, just maybe cut it down to 120 performances a year."

The grind has paid off for both Clayman and Taylor. They are the only barrelman and bullfighter clowns to entertain at both the Canadian and American National Finals rodeos.

Mrs. Jan Jackson confronts Virgil West, housing authority supervisor.

One-woman protest ends in stalemate

By Harry Jackson
Star Staff Writer

A one-woman demonstration on alleged unfair housing practices by the Lincoln Housing Authority ended in a stalemate Tuesday with the lone demonstrator making more plans.

When everyone went home about 3 p.m. after two hours of sitting and arguing, no demands had been met, and no one had been arrested.

The demonstration, a sit-in, was staged by Jan Jackson, head of the Housing Authority Tenants Advisory Committee (HATAC), primarily because of alleged discriminatory parking privileges in the housing authority's Heritage Apartments at 860 N. 23rd.

The sit-in was located behind a truck which Mrs. Jackson alleged has received favorable treatment by building manager Mrs. Marge Wycoff. She said Mrs. Wycoff's daughter, the truck owner, was given parking rights not afforded some tenants of the building.

Mrs. Jackson also had a list of complaints from tenants that she wanted to present to housing officials, but they didn't show up for a meeting at the apartment building she'd set for about noon. When officials didn't show up, she sat down.

Since Housing Authority Director Richard Burke didn't feel Mrs. Jackson had the right to demonstrate on housing authority property, he called the police and asked for her to be removed.

His plans were thwarted when police, advised by the city attorney's office, said she wasn't breaking any laws. Mrs. Jackson, a resident of Air Park, was the guest of a tenant, she wasn't keeping anyone from coming or going, and she was sitting in a common area.

The demonstration ended when Mrs. Jackson moved her chair from behind the truck and the truck's owner drove away.

Mrs. Jackson also said she had relayed several other complaints from Heritage tenants to Burke but hadn't received any action yet. They included poor weatherization, the apartments being unguarded on weekends, basement apartments being carpeted to protect the health of older tenants and many doors need to be replaced because they need peepholes and are too easily breakable.

Also, the tenants alleged discriminatory eviction practices, where some poeple are allowed to get six months behind on rent, but others aren't allowed the legal 30 days.

One of the demands was the dismissal of Heritage manager Mrs. Wycoff.

Although Mrs. Jackson said she's told authority officials that she'd be doing a demonstration, Burke said the last time he talked to Mrs. Jackson was last week. He said he knew nothing of what was going on Tuesday.

He also said he had no written demands or complaints and had been told only about one of the tenants at Heritage apartments having problems about guests.

Mrs. Jackson said she and other HATAC members will be at the next authority meeting scheduled for Oct. 13.

Iowa minister wants 'smut' films off shelves

Council Bluffs, Iowa (AP) — The next wave of smut films could include "butchery of children" unless the spread of pornography is stopped, a spokesman for Citizens for Decency Through Law said Monday.

The Rev. Neil Gallagher, a director of the Rhode Island-based group, said concerned citizens must pressure the Iowa Legislature into reversing a state law that he said prohibits communities from passing their own obscenity laws.

The Rev. Mr. Gallagher said he visited a Council Bluffs bookstore and found it "no better or no worse" than those in New York, Los Angeles or Memphis.

"We already have the 'snuff' films in which adults allegedly are killed in the film so children could be next," he said.

He said parents should take offensive materials found in stores to the managers involved and ask them to take the material off the shelves.

Many feminist movement backers share his view on pornography because it is demeaning to women, he said, but he does not share other feminists' goals because they are "antibiblical."

Acupuncture to be subject of hearing

Holbrook Sen. Richard Lewis has scheduled a public hearing by the Public Health and Welfare Committee he chairs on the topic of acupuncture.

The hearing will be at 1:30 p.m. Oct. 13 at the Holiday Inn in Kearney.

On Oct. 14 at 10 a.m. in Barr Junior high school, Grand Island, the same committee has slated a public hearing on operating procedures and conditions of Nebraska nursing homes.

Forster gets venue change to Columbus

Stanton (UPI) — Daniel Forster, 19, was granted a change of venue Tuesday in Stanton County District Court on a first-degree murder charge in the decapitation death of a Norfolk man.

District Judge Eugene McFadden moved the case to Platte County District Court in Columbus and set trial for Nov. 7.

Forster of Norfolk is charged in the death of Henry Hernandez, 24, whose body was found May 1 near a county road six miles southeast of Norfolk. Two other defendants, Sam Brown and Ricky Roewert, already have pleaded guilty.

The prosecution said Brown, who pleaded guilty to second-degree murder, will testify against Forster for the state. Roewert earlier pleaded guilty to first-degree murder.

The Lincoln Northeast Kiwanis Citizenship Award was presented Tuesday night to Coleen Seng. Mrs. Seng has worked with girl scouts for more than 30 years. She has been active with the Parent-Teacher Association at Brownell School and on state and regional levels. Mrs. Seng is past president of the University Place Community Association.

Legislative hearing set on problems with CETA

Concerns regarding the administration of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act will be investigated during a hearing of the Legislature's business and Labor Committee at 10 a.m. Friday, Sen. Richard Maresh of Milligan said Tuesday.

He noted there have been claims the change from a program sub-contracted to the community action agencies to one administered by the state has resulted in a reduction of the quality and quantity of services to low-income persons.

He said testimony from the public is invited.

Self defense classes for the handicapped held in Lincoln

By Gracia McAndrew
Star Staff Writer

Picture yourself going down the street alone with a stranger following you, getting closer and closer.

Now, in the same scene, picture yourself in a wheelchair or on crutches. What can you do? Where can you go? How can you get away?

"Little has been done on self-defense for the handicapped," said Gina Washburn, an instructor of the first self-defense classes for the handicapped held in Lincoln. "This is unexplored territory."

According to Ms. Washburn, the handicapped and the elderly are at a great disadvantage because of their lack of mobility.

Recent studies have shown that assaulters, particularly sex offenders, do not prefer infirm, pregnant, elderly, dirty, or crippled victims or children, she said. "Most (attackers) prefer the young, attractive woman — the all-American-type girl."

However, just because an assaulter doesn't prefer these types of people doesn't automatically exempt them from being attacked, Ms. Washburn added.

One of the best methods of reducing the risk of being attacked is knowing more about your immediate surroundings than a potential attacker.

"We try to tell people to be in control of their environment, to be familiar and comfortable in their surroundings," she explained. "Know how people can get into your home, places they might be able to hide. Know how to answer the door, what proper lighting you need to have. Know how to go down the street with confidence."

Based on the premise that the more you know about a situation, the better you will be able to handle it, Ms. Washburn said, self-defense instruction also deals with "psychological and mental preparedness."

This includes "understanding how people attack, why and how they choose their victims.

"The basis on which a victim is selected is accessibility. It doesn't matter what the person looks like," she said, "whether or not a person is sexually attractive.

"It may be because you are alone on the street, you open the door to someone without knowing who is on the other side, or you have had a few too many drinks" and aren't as cautious as you normally would be.

One method of appearing less accessible, she said, is to have someone with you.

Develop an assertive attitude that might deter an attacker should you be alone, she advised. That assertiveness, Ms. Washburn explained, includes the verbal as well as physical.

"We are being realistic though, suggesting self-defense methods that are within the capabilities of the handicapped," she added.

Saying she doesn't always preach the conventional methods of self-defense, Ms. Washburn said, "If I was walking down the street and was attacked, I would go into a seizure if I was epileptic. Or I'd have a (convenient) asthmatic attack if I had asthma.

"I'd go into one of those, you bet I would, even if I didn't have asthma or epilepsy. What are you going to do with a person who is on the ground choking?"

If you don't feel comfortable going into a seizure or an asthmatic attack, you can resort to the conventional self-defense methods within your capabilities.

According to Tim Snyder, a black belt in Karate and instructor at the Mid-America Tac-Kwon-Do Karate School, "If you know what you are doing, you can do a lot of things" to protect yourself.

"If you have the use of your hands, you can defend yourself, no matter how big the person is.

"Go to the very vulnerable parts of the body. Some sound brutal, but if a person is going to take you out and do something bad, it is justified."

Among the self-defense methods he suggests for the handicapped are: using two fingers to jab into the eyes; poking a sharp instrument or fingers into the throat to cause temporary gagging or choking; stomping on the arch of the foot with your heel; using a cane to strike at the shins or poking the end of a cane into the solar plexis.

"If you are carrying something, throw it into their line of vision," Snyder said. "They'll try to catch it and you can use that few minutes" to get away or strike effectively to another part of the body.

Snyder also suggested running the metal footpads of a wheelchair into the attacker's shins or a fast start in a motorized wheelchair to knock someone off his feet.

"If you are in a wheelchair and someone is choking you from behind, grab the thumbs or a finger on each hand to pull the henads away from your neck," he suggested.

Snyder said that each defense mechanism should be adapted to the person's capabilities.

"Above all, remain calm," he advised. "Don't become panic stricken" because that only weakens your effectiveness and ability to think clearly.

Hoover plot —fact or fiction?

Book Review

By Lynn Zerschling
Star Staff Writer

The dossiers compiled on 3,000 prominent Americans, supposedly stored in a burglar-proof steel vault, are missing.

In Washington, a Congressman's death is covered up, while in Hawaii, the bullet-ridden body of a retired Army officer washes up on a deserted beach.

And, on May 2, 1972, the world is told that legendary crime stopper, J. Edgar Hoover, is dead. He died in his sleep of natural causes, the world is told. After all, J. Edgar was 77.

These seemingly unrelated events fall into a disturbing pattern for American author Peter Chancellor who is doing research for his next novel.

It's the story about illegal practices carried out within the FBI, headed by patriarch Hoover, and the compilation of thousands of dossiers on the leaders in government, business, the media and the intelligence community itself. It's about extortion.

It's the story about J. Edgar's murder by a small band of super-patriots. Pure fiction, right?

Well, dear reader, author Robert Ludlum has done it again in his latest, best-selling novel, "The Chancellor Manuscript" (The Dial Press, $10).

Ludlow, author of "The Gemini Contenders" and "The Rhinemann Exchange," baits the hook in his latest spy thriller with a tasty morsel few can resist — what really happened to John Edgar Hoover, that law enforcement giant with the sagging jowls and squinty eyes who ruled the FBI for 48 years?

Ludlow spins a yarn that can leave the reader's head spinning as Ludlow's hero, Peter Chancellor, unravels plots and counterplots while writing his own novel on the story. Chancellor discovers that truth can be stranger and much more frightening than fiction.

Ludlow followers, who were invariably surprised by the conclusion of "The Gemini Contenders," can follow Chancellor through a series of spine-tingling (if not improbable) sequences.

Ludlow expertly weaves the events in Chancellor's manuscript with events happening to Chancellor in real life. Chancellor begins to question his sanity. His friends think he's a drunk — no one will listen to his story. No one but a lonely and courageous FBI agent, a girl (of course) and an army surgeon. Together, the trio takes on those who think they're the good guys, the bad guys and the fanatics in between.

Even if some of Chancellor's adventures seem improbable, even if the conspiracy uncovered by our hero is overly complicated, it doesn't seem to matter. The book is compelling.

If there is a criticism of the novel, it lies in the mystery writer's time-honored tradition started by Dame Agatha Christie years ago: the compulsion of the chief villian to painstakingly bare his soul to his intended victim — before he does him in, of course.

Such a technique helps explain to the dense among us what's going on. The bare-all confession is even used by TV's famed Charlie's Angels to solve cases in their one-hour prime time slot. But, in "The Chancellor Manuscript," it really wasn't necessary. I'd rather figured it out for myself.

Despite that criticism, there's something slightly unnerving about Ludlow's novels. Perhaps, like his alter-ego Chancellor, Ludlow has brushed upon the truth. The abuses revealed by Wategate and subsequent revelations of questionable, if not illegal, FBI and CIA practices, only make the Hoover conspiracy seem more plausible.

It leaves the reader wondering long after the book is set aside — Did it, could it have happened? Fact, or fiction. You decide.

Book explains decorating with photos

New York (UPI) — "Decorating with Photographic Art — an Idea Book," shows homeowners and business officials how they can enhance any room with help from professional photographs.

The 20-page booklet has full-color illustrations of residential and business interiors designed by Richard W. Jones, Fasid, and Ronald Oates, partners in the New York City firm, Circanow, Ltd. There also is information on how to acquire photographic art and how to mount and display it in a variety of decorating styles, from contemporary to formal.

Copies of the publication are available at professional photography studios or professional color labs.

Lance burned for some good practices

It's Your Money

By Jane Bryant Quinn

New York — The troubling thing about the Bert Lance business is that a few of the things he was burned for are good practice in personal finance. this column has even recommended them, and will do so again. (Memo to President Carter: If you were thinking of naming me to Lance's job, better not.)

This is not a general defense of all Lance's dealings. Donald Barthelme said it in one of his bone-cold short stories: "Some of us had been threatening our friend Colby for a long time, because of the way he had been behaving. And now he's gone too far, so we decided to hang him."

My interest here is solely in the personal consideration Lance received from banks that did business with the National Bank of Georgia. It took the form of large personal loans, at a better interest rate than you and I could expect to get, and sometimes without collateral. To a lot of senators this looked like a payoff, and senators are supposed to know a payoff when they see one.

There's no doubt in my mind that Bert Lance made good use of his position, and of other people's money, for personal gain. That said, the question is whether the type of self-enrichment Lance practiced is wrong.

A lot of people, even below the banker level, use the muscle power of other people's money. For example, consider the employes of a large corporation who, in tight-money times, are helped to get mortgages through the corporation's bank.

The terms of the mortgage may be the same as everyone else's. But if it weren't for their pull as employes, they might not have gotten the loan. And because they did get the money, someone else — maybe someone more qualified — did not.

I'd call that a special favor, granted for personal gain, on the strength of someone else's money. The corporation has a legitimate business reason for giving the aid — it wants to keep the employes happy. The bank has a legitimate business purpose — it wants to keep the corporation happy, but if you were ever called before a Senate committee to explain why you got the loan from XYZ Bank when others in your financial circumstances did not, what would you say?

I'd say it was a legitimate fringe benefit of the job. Anyone who has access to benefits like this should use them. It isn't wrong.

Clearly, there's a place where favor-trading stops and unethical practices begin. If a businessmman accepts poor terms in his corporate accounts in order to get better terms on his personal loans, he has betrayed his trust. But Lance was not charged with that.

I wouldn't even lead a lynching party if it were proven that the Georgia bank's business and Lance's loan were negotiated at the same time, as long as the bank got a good deal and the loan terms were fair. It's more suspect than dealing with the bank's business first and disposing of the loan in the fullness of time.

There is a quid pro quo to business relationships that is not unreasonable or unfair, that simply comes with the territory. One can give and receive certain financial favors, and still be an honest man.

School socials: Box lunches auctioned to highest bidder

Write-On

By Glen L. Gingles

The one-room country schoolhouse where I tussled with decimals and fractions and explored nouns, verbs, and adjectives is long gone — all but the memories.

It seemed always crowded, desks for pupils in eight grades, a giant heating stove, recitation benches, a big desk for the teacher. Shelves and bookcases filled with hundreds of books lined most of one wall. Besides the regular text books for the eight grades, there were many novels and adventure stories.

We had the Rover Boys series, featuring Dick the eldest, fun-loving Tom, and Sam the youngest. We could always get a lesson in ethics by reading one of the books by Horatio Alger Jr. I read nearly all of the books during my school years, my favorites being "Beautiful Joe" and "Black Beauty."

A wooden bench in one corner of the room held a wash pan, soap, towel, a bucket of water drawn from the well the school yard, and a tin dipper used by all of us. Separate outhouses for boys and girls were anchored in opposite corners of the school yard. A picture of George Washington hung on the wall. Also a picture that I thought was my first teacher — the same long dark hair and big soulful eyes. It was several years before I learned the picture was an artist's conception of Jesus at age 14.

We had a box social every year, usually before Thanksgiving. The pupils put on a program followed by the auctioning of boxes filled with goodies. The program was something like a talent show. We improvised a stage at the front of the room and some of us brought bed-sheets from home for curtains.

The pupils recited pieces and poems, sang songs, and put on short plays. I still remember the first lines of a poem I struggled through: "I have a little shadow that goes in and out with me, and what can be the use of him is more than I can see."

The room was packed on the night of the affair, people coming from miles around with or without children. Every girl, woman, and grandmother brought a box trimmed with fancy paper and loaded with fried chicken, fruit, pickles, cookies, pie and cake.

After the program, the auctioneer (usually one of the school board members) stepped up on the stage and auctioned off the boxes. The bidding started at 20 cents or 25 cents and sometimes went pretty high, especially when two young blades were trying to win the same girl.

One year I had my heart set on eating with a pretty little brown-eyed cutie. I was too bashful to ask her for a description of her box as some of the other guys did with their girlfriends. I decided to watch her as the boxes were being sold, thinking I could tell by her expression which was hers.

Then a particularly fancy box came up. I looked at brown-eyes and my heart jumped. She was looking right at me, it seemed invitingly. This must be it! I started the bidding at 50 cents and kept raising until I got it.

When all the boxes were sold, I started working my way through the crowd to the stage. Before I got there, I saw another boy, carrying the box he had bought, sit down beside brown-eyes. He opened the box and she began handing out goodies. I stood frozen in my tracks until someone finally gave me a push and I recovered enough to find my box. As it happened, I had a nice partner and an excellent meal and soon got over my disappointment.

The box social was the highlight of the school year for most of us. Nothing since has brought the thrills, excitement and feeling of community spirit.

Ad wasn't lying about lion for sale

Blanchard, Okla. (AP) — When Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bunter decided the time had come to get rid of their lion, they turned to advertising.

That's why a newspaper carried the classified ad stating, "African Lion. Young male. $650 or trade."

Although Mrs. Gunter said her husband would have been willing to work out a trade, he didn't have to. The lion was sold to a Herford rancher for $650.

Mrs. Gunter said the lion was kept in a cage surrounded by a chain link fence in their backyard. But she said they didn't think the lion — named Leo, naturally — would be able to withstand the winter.

In addition, Gunter said, the curiosity of passersby made them decide to get rid of the lion.

"My driveway would be full and cars would be parked all around my house," he said.

Gunter said he tried to donate the lion cub to Southern Missouri State College in Joplin, whose athletic team is known as the Lions, but the school rejected the offer.

"I'm an auctioneer, and I'll buy almost anything I can make money on," Gunter said in explaining why he bought the lion.

BEAUTIFUL BRAGG'S...FOR A BEAUTIFUL YOU

Metrics, frontier mesh in Canada

Postcard

By Stan Delaplane

Calgary, Alberta — Autumn has come to the Canadian Rockies. The mountains are splashed with aspen turned new-minted gold. The evenings are smoke-blue and there's a chill in the air.

Something of a problem writing postcards home since Canada has been on Celsius temperatures for more than a year.

"Dear Folks: Wish you were here. The weather is grand — 17 degrees."

(Canadians, raised on Fahrenheit (even as you and I) tell you: "Just double the Celsius figure and add 30.")

Everything in Canada is metric — they were changing road signs from miles to kilometers while we were there. By now it should be on labels of canned goods. On the length of cloth you buy. On every school boy's ruler.

☆ ☆ ☆

This is the English-Scots side of Canada. As different from French Quebec as southern cornpone from New York bagels.

It's annoying to these Westerners that Quebec has forced French as the official language of that province. Students already going to English language schools will continue to graduation.

New students entering schools will be taught in French.

☆ ☆ ☆

Calgary on the great plains is only 102 years old. Began as a frontier post of the North West Mounted Police. Their clients were Cree and Blackfoot Indians. Buffalo hunters and whiskey traders.

Today it's a bright, clean commercial city of half a million. Industry is located out of town where prevailing winds blow any smoke or odor toward the open prairie.

There is never smog in Calgary. The city sparkles under blue Canadian skies.

"This Here Paper Proves Winnie and Hank Smith had the purely pleasurable privilege o' visiting the only Dad-Burned cowtown left in Canada — name o' Calgary."

The biggest thing in Calgary is the mid-summer "Calgary Stampede" the most famous, whooping rodeo in the Wild, Wild West.

VIPs are made "Calgary White Hatters". Given the scroll above and sworn that "said title means from this day on, the owner o' this here paper accepts responsibility o' extendin' said Calgary friendliness among all folks and critters."

If you are sworn in, you are in good company. All the English Royal Family are White Hatters.

☆ ☆ ☆

This is your starting place for Banff and Lake Louise, the best known resorts in the Canadian Rocky Mountains.

Easy for most Americans to get to (two hours and 20 minutes from San Francisco).

Air Canada flies in with low round trip IIT fares (ask a travel agent to explain how this works): Chicago, $239. Boston, $304. San Francisco, $166 are three examples.

Best known hotel is the elderly Palliser, host to many of the Royal Family: $88 double for two nights with limousine transfers to and from the airport.

☆ ☆ ☆

Nice letter. "You kindly answered my plea for advice on a trip to South American our daughter and friend were planning.

They returned after a marvelous trip, and I would like to thank you for the peace of mind your note afforded me . . . ."

☆ ☆ ☆

So if you're jittery about kids' trips, write me. (My older daughter at 21 was hitchhiking rides on small sailboats all over the Pacific. Mostly with other kids whose navigation equipment was an alarm clock. I must say I was plenty shook up at times.)

☆ ☆ ☆

I've picked up and talked to lots of young hitchhikers — boys and girls. Their worst problems: Insect bites and sunburn. Occasionally local dysentery. You can pack a remedy kit for all these.

Never take a taxi who quotes the fare in advance: "Whatever you think is right." (Whatever you think is right, he thinks is wrong.)

Minister will be preaching in jail . . . as inmate

Gilmer, Tex. (UPI) — Baptist minister Craig Dwaine Lacy will do his religious work at the state prison in the future, not as a chaplain but as an inmate.

Lacy has been sentenced to five years in prison for the theft of thousands of dollars worth of paintings, books and antiques during a six year period. The articles were stolen from a total of 108 libraries, museums and shops.

District Judge Virgil Mullinax sentenced the former Big Sandy, Tex., Baptist minister after Lacy pleaded guilty to having control over stolen property.

He was arrested earlier this year in Marion County and charged in connection with the theft of books from the Jefferson Historical Society Museum.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	4♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead - two of diamonds.

A good defensive pair will often exchange highly valuable information by the judicious use of signals. Such signals, properly interpreted, frequently spell the difference between making and breaking a contract.

Consider this deal where South bid one spade and North raised to four spades. East found it difficult to bid at this point and he passed. It later turned out that East-West, who never made a bid, could have made six hearts or six diamonds!

West led a diamond, won by East with the ace. East then cashed the ace of clubs, on which West played the ten, and was faced with the problem of trying to put West on lead in order to get a club ruff.

East resolved his problem effectively by leading a low heart. West won with the ace, returned a club, and South went down one.

Had East led a diamond at trick three, hoping to find West with the king, South would have made the contract. It might seem that East was lucky to locate the heart return rather than a diamond, but actually his play was much more than just a shot in the dark.

When there is a ruffing situation, it is sometimes possible for a good defensive pair to utilize the suit-preference convention to solve a problem. According to this convention, the play of a high card asks for a high-suit return; the play of a low card asks for a low-suit return.

So, when West played the ten of clubs on East's ace at trick two, he was signaling that his entry card was in hearts rather than diamonds. Had West held the king of diamonds instead of the ace of hearts, he would have played the three of clubs on East's ace to show that his entry card was in diamonds.

Even pornography patrons deserve money's worth

Camden, N.J. (UPI) — The way a local judge sees it, when you buy a pornographic film, at least you ought to get your money's worth.

Judge William Rosenblatt used the consumer's logic in leveling a $13,775 fine against the owners of the Theater in the Round on the city's adult entertainment strip near the Benjamin Franklin Bridge.

The adult book and film shop was charged with 135 violations of the state weights and measures law for allegedly selling films that were shorter than advertised or films without proper listing of the length.

It was the second fine in recent months against Theaters in the Round, Inc. the first one for similar violations cost the shop $18,900.

Special plates aid handicapped drivers

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column, you printed a letter from a person with heart trouble, diabetes, etc. He said he got dirty looks from people because he didn't look handicapped but parked in areas marked "reserved for the handicapped" so that he wouldn't need to walk great distances.

He's lucky he didn't get ticketed or have his car towed away!

In California, all a handicapped person needs is a letter from his doctor, and the Department of Motor Vehicles will give him special plates that entitle him to park in areas marked "reserved for the handicapped." He may also park by parking meters free.

One argument against these plates is that muggers tend to spot victims by their cars and lay in wait for them. So for those who feel threatened, placards that can be removed in isolated or high-risk neighborhoods are available.

Please print my letter because many handicapped people may not know this, and your column would be a good place to publicize it.

STAN IN SACTO

DEAR STAN: Thanks to you and to the others who wrote. Most states provide special plates (free) for the handicapped, but the laws and penalties for violations differ from state to state, so I urge those with handicaps (visible and otherwise) to inquire at their local D.M.V. offices. Parents of handicapped children may also apply for special plates and placards.

DEAR ABBY: Thought maybe you'd like to see an item that appeared in the REGISTER-GUARD, a newspaper in Eugene, Ore., that carries your column:

"In her column the other day, Dear Abby talked about sexism in the weather. Hurricanes are named for girls in alphabetical order. The year's first usually has a name like Abby, followed by Bertha, Candice, Debbie, Emma, Fern, Griselda, Hattie and so on through Zelda.

"It would be possible to name them for boys: Abner, Buster, Chuck, Darwin, Ed, Fred, Geoffrey, Hank, Isadore and on through Zachary.

"But the battle of the sexes would cool off if the names were devoid of gender. Try adversity, brutality, calamity, destructibility, emergency, fitfully, grisly, and on through zowie."

ABBY FAN IN EUGENE

DEAR FAN: I don't object to having a hurricane named after me. Especially since alphabetically Abby is always No. 1

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope please.

Student disputes line attributed to Hoover

Iowa City, Iowa (AP) — A University of Iowa graduate student claims history is wrong in attributing the "chicken in every pot" line to Herbert Hoover.

"He never said anything like it. The line came from a newspaper ad put out by the Democrats," said Meredith Gillette.

Miss Gillette is a library science student who is doing some of her graduate research work at the Hoover Library in West Branch.

"I wanted to go to Hoover because I'm interested in archives and want to work in the federal system," said Miss Gillette.

Strike ends against ABC

New York (UPI) — The four-and-a-half month strike of engineers and technicians against ABC ended.

The strike began May 17 and involved approximately 1,500 members of the National Association of Broadcast Engineers and Technicians employed at ABC-owned stations in New York, Los Angelels, Detroit, San Francisco and Chicago.

The details of the settlement were not available but the company termed the economic package "generous."

Wife sends in demonstration record

Nashville, Tenn. (AP) — Nashville is jammed with persons using various methods to get into the country music business.

They trudge door-to-door along Music Row, seeking someone to listen to a song. They station themselves outside recording studios, waiting for a star who might help them out.

They also send letters and demonstration records and tapes. Hundreds arrive daily.

For Dave Conway of Royston, Ga., the mail-in maneuver worked. He signed a recording contract and made the national charts through what his producer, Howard Knight, calls "a one in a million" chance.

He owes it all to his wife, Mary Ann. She saw an ad in a trade magazine from Knight's record company. Posing as a fan of Conway's, she sent the company a copy of a record her husband had cut on a custom label several years ago.

"Dave has that atmosphere about him that makes you know he is pro material," she wrote the company.

Conway soon got a call from Knight and a few days later the two met in Royston. They had a midnight snack and before dawn Conway had a personal management and recording contract.

Within a week, he was flown to Nashville and recorded "If You're Gonna Love (You Gotta Hurt)," which made the 60s of the top 100 on the national charts.

"The business is so competitive, he's one in a million," Knight said.

The irony is that Conway himself had been sending letters and tapes to Nashville without success. And he had never seen the letter his wife sent.

"I got refusal letters from everybody in the country," said Conway, who recently gave up a record store he operated. "Over the years I guess I sent 300 to 400 letters. I used to send tapes in a big box just to be different and get attention. What's funny is that I'd been sending all these letters and then she scores with one.

"When Howard called, I didn't know what was going on. But I didn't have any money so I didn't take him too seriously. I kept saying, 'I don't have any money.' And he kept saying, 'I don't want your money.'

"Finally, I pretty well evaluated him. Then I got excited."

Ali fight tops Nielsen ratings

New York (AP) — NBC knocked ABC from the top of the weekly prime-time TV ratings for the first time in three weeks with its telecast Sept. 29 of the heavyweight championship fight between Muhammad Ali and Earnie Shavers, according to A. C. Nielsen figures released Tuesday.

But three ABC stalwarts — "Laverne & Shirley," "Happy Days" and "Charlie's Angels" — finished right behind the most-watched show, Nielsen said, continuing ABC's overall ratings domination.

The boxing special, on the air at 9 p.m. EDT opposite CBS' "Hawaii Five-O" and "Barney Miller" on ABC, got a Nielsen rating of 37.3, or a projected audience of 27.2 million homes.

Selling hits blue chips

New York (AP) — Selling pressure on blue chip issues brought the stock market's rally of the past three sessions to an abrupt halt Tuesday.

Analysts said a prime rate increase from 7¼ to 7½ per cent by the San Francisco-based Wells Fargo Bank contributed to the decline.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had risen 17.24 points in the three previous sessions, fell back 9.96 to 842 even.

Losers held a moderate edge on gainers at the New York Stock Exchange, and the NYSE's composite index dropped .34 to 52.60.

Analysts said the market, which had already begun to retreat, responded negatively late in the session to Wells Fargo's prime rate move.

Dow Ind. —9.96

Wall Streeters expected other leading banks to follow suit before long.

An increase in the basic charge on the highest-rated loans had been expected. But brokers said it nevertheless marked a continuation of the recent uptrend in interest rates sparked by Federal Reserve actions aimed at tightening credit to curb the growth of the money supply.

Energy issues showed no clear reaction to the Senate's passage of legislation to deregulate natural gas prices.

Analysts pointed out that the measure still faces consideration by a House-Senate conference committee and a promised veto by President Carter.

Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrials lost .87 to 105.60, and S&P's 500-stock composite index was down .71 at 96.03.

American Telephone & Telegraph was actively traded, showing a 1⅛-point loss at 62⅛ as of the 4 p.m. close of the NYSE.

The selling in the stock was attributed to reports that a recent court decision had raised the possibility of competition for AT&T in long-distance telephone services.

Sony led the active list, off ⅜ at 7⅞ in trading that included a 100,000-share block at 8.

Singer, also active, gained ½ to 23½. The company said it posted a gain of more than 40 per cent in its third-quarter income from continuing operations.

Warner Co. jumped 2½ to 13⅞. EMW Corp. said Monday it plans a $14-a-share offer for all of Warner's stock.

Philip A. Hunt Chemical tumbled 3¼ to 13¾. A British firm said it would buy on a pro rata basis 2.95 million of the 5.49 million shares tendered to it under a $20-a-share offer.

Houston Oil & Minerals, the volume leader among American Stock Exchange issues, dropped ½ to 35¾.

The Amex market value index was off .16 at 118.80. The NASDAQ composite index of over-the-counter stocks closed at 100.81, down .35.

IH prepares for layoffs

Louisville, Ky. (AP) — International Harvester Co. is preparing for a major reorganization that will result in the permanent layoff of some 500 workers at the plant here.

Plant manager Charles Dean, in a letter mailed Wednesday to the 4,800 workers, said "our employment level will diminsh during the next year."

Firm to sell vinyl grain bins

A vinyl portable storage bin which controls grain moisture with the same forced air used to inflate it could be marketed nationally by a Lincoln firm by the end of this year.

John Farrar, president of Agri-Pro Ltd., at 44th and Cornhusker Hwy., said the grain domes are portable and are not temporary.

"They cost about half as much as competing bins and can be rolled up and stored until needed again," Farrar said.

Farrar said a blower system keeps air pressure inside the bin slightly higher than that outside. The blower forces air up through the grain and out the top and would be only used enough each day to control moisture.

Dresselhaus is president of the Associated Accounting Firms International and is past president of the Nebraska Society of CPAs.

New ferry service increases tourism

Seoul, Korea (UPI) — A 3,800-ton car ferry plying between the southern port city of Pusan and Cheju Island 170 miles to the southwest beginning this year has caused a tourist rush to the island.

About 14,000 persons visited the island from Pusan between July 15 and Aug. 2, an increase of 46% over last year, according to official statistics.

YOU COULD BE THE WINNER IN YOUR AREA OF ONE OF THESE SIX FABULOUS TRIPS, when you enter the Quality Counts Breadstakes.

Just tell us which of these qualities you like best about Rainbo Bread!

1
Maybe it's Rainbo's TEXTURE you like best. If so, it's a trip for 2 to Scotland & England, countries famous for their fine textiles!

2
If it's that Rainbo's HAND-TWISTED, you could win a trip for 2 to Greece, famous for its hand-crafting!

3
If it's Rainbo's quality of HOLDING TOGETHER, you could win a family trip for 4 to Walt Disney World!

4
If Rainbo's TWICE-RISING QUALITY gets to you, that could get you a trip for 2 to Japan, Land of the Rising Sun!

5
Or if you like Rainbo's FRESHNESS, you'll love a trip for 2 to Hawaii, the isle of fresh fruit and flowers!

6
If it's the fact that Rainbo's WRAPPED WHILE HOT, you could wrap up a cruise for 2 to the Bahamas, where you'll be wrapped in sunshine!

Imagine! You could be the winner in your area of any one of these six fabulous international trips simply by telling us which of the six qualities of Rainbo Bread you like best. What could be easier? For all the details, just look for specially marked Rainbo packages and entry blanks at your favorite food store. Or follow the easy contest rules in this ad.

RAINBO® IS Good BREAD

YOU COULD WIN $100 WORTH OF GROCERIES!

When you enter the Breadstakes, every week for six weeks, you'll have a chance to win a certificate good for $100 worth of groceries at your favorite food store! And whether or not you win a grocery certificate, you're still eligible to win the trip of your choice in the Quality Counts Breadstakes.

1. To enter the Rainbo "Quality Counts Breadstakes," complete the information requested on the official entry form; or on a 3" x 5" piece of paper, print your name, address, zip code and the words, "Rainbo bread has the qualities that count." Machine duplicated or mechanically reproduced entries will be declared void. Enter as many times as you like, but you must mail each entry separately to:

P.O. BOX 2222, GRAND ISLAND, NE 68801

2. NO PURCHASE NECESSARY. All entries must be postmarked by November 12, 1977, and received by November 24, 1977, for the Quality Counts Breadstakes. The weekly drawing for the Grocery Certificates will commence the week of October 3, 1977, and be drawn for six (6) consecutive weeks.

3. PRIZES. One winner in your area will have the choice of either one of five international vacations for two people to Japan, Greece, British Isles, Bahamas, or Hawaii; or a vacation to Walt Disney World for four people. All trips must be taken before December 31, 1978, and are subject to scheduled travel arrangements. Trips include only air transportation, hotel accommodations and meals. Six other winners in your area will win one $100 Grocery Certificate. Applicable federal, state and local taxes, if any, must be paid by the prize winner. No substitutions for prizes offered. Only one prize awarded per family. If a minor wins a trip, it will be awarded to the minor's parent or legal guardian; otherwise, prizes are not transferable.

4. Winners will be determined in an independent random drawing from among eligible entries. Drawing results will be final. Winners will be notified by mail.

5. The odds of winning will be determined by the total number of entries received in your area.

6. Prize winners will be required to sign: a statement permitting use of their name and/or picture for promotional purposes, an affidavit of eligibility, and a waiver of liability.

7. Breadstakes open to residents of the continental United States only. Employees of Campbell Taggart, Inc., its affiliated companies, advertising and promotion agencies, judging organizations, and their families are not eligible. Void where prohibited or restricted by law. All federal, state and local laws apply.

8. All prizes will be awarded. For a list of winners, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: "Quality Counts Breadstakes" Winners List, P.O. Box 2640, Dallas, Texas 75221

Corn futures prices surge

Chicago (AP) — Corn futures prices surged four cents a bushel and soybeans posted firm advances as talk of Russian interest in buying additional U.S. grain circulated among traders Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Soybeans advanced almost seven cents. Soybean oil was narrowly mixed, while meal registered moderate gains.

Wheat deliveries closed barely a cent higher, though, after posting a four-cent gain about midsession. Oats rose about two cents.

Some of the early advances were attributed to a carryover of speculative buying from Monday. Talk about potential Russian export business for beans and grain, which has lent support in recent sessions, continued to provide an incentive for buying futures.

If you seek conversation, look for Gemini. The native is bright, articulate, possesses an abundance of intellectual curiosity and is not afraid to ask questions, embarrassing or otherwise. Gemini persons are versatile, can fall in love while apparently "already in love." Gemini teaches, reports, is intrigued by photography, social work — and adores talking. If you are the possessor of a Gemini female child — and a telephone is within talking distance — no further explanations are necessary.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Stick to practical course — leave speculative ventures for another time. Aquarius, Cancer, Scorpio individuals figure in your personal scenario. Accent on building, obtaining revision in agreement, checking safety measures, insurance.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Open lines of communication. Be analytical — you can come up with answers by asking the right question. Gemini, Virgo persons are in picture. Stick to number "5." Movement, calls, relatives, visits, errands are on busy agenda. You'll have plenty to laugh about, too!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Expenditures, obtaining money's worth — these are spotlighted. You can make fine purchases of art objects, luxury items, merchandise that aids in making home a more convenient, beautiful place. Stick to number "6." Pay attention to Taurus.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Emotions "attempt" to dominate logic. Key is to strive for balance. Cycle high, but member of opposite sex is in mood to be temperamental. Ride with tide. Pisces, Virgo persons figure prominently. Wear bright colors. Make known your presence — and desires.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Get behind scenes so you can prepare, organize. Element of surprise should be made to work for you, not the other way around. Means be in control by checking hints, clues, subtle nuances. Secret conference figures prominently — so does group, organization or hospital.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Friends and borrowing do not mix. You could lose money and respect if you insist on combining finances and favors. Aries, Libra figure prominently. Protect valuables. Realize some people now will make marvelous promises. However, they are not likely to fulfill them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Strive for independence, be original, imprint style, let member of opposite sex know that you care and respond. Leo, Aquarius persons are in picture. Stick to number "1." Avoid lifting heavy objects. Wish comes true — in most unusual fashion!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Avoid being pushed into corner — no confrontations, no rushing to judgment. Key now is to evaluate, to observe test patterns, to be "selfish" in sense that you want, insist on the best for yourself. Specifically — you get chance to enlarge horizons, to travel and publish.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Understand finances, including contracts, stocks, bonds, leases, insurance. One close to you is involved. You're asked to decide money questions — key is to be flexible, to avoid extravagance, but to encourage artistic expression. Yes, you walk a thin line and unless careful, it could be a gangplank!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You have to do some clever maneuvering to extricate yourself from foolish commitments. Understand basics without becoming a prisoner of red tape. Emphasis on marital status, the manner in which you cope with those holding views opposite your own. Stick to number "4."

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): What you decide is almost bound to arouse minor controversy. Accent on service, performance, decisions involving employment, recreation, diet. Gemini, Virgo figure prominently. Your number is "5." Member of opposite sex tinges compliment with complaint.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Family, money, emotional involvement, change of atmosphere at residence — these are stressed. Taurus, Libra individuals figure in picture — so does the number "6." Young person may make some fantastic claims and act in extravagant manner.

IF OCTOBER 5th IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are a writer, detective, a person who is curious about life, who is attractive to opposite sex, creative, temperamental, fond of travel and music. Gemini, Virgo persons play important roles in your life. May was one of your most significant months of this year. You make significnt changes in November and relationship "heats up."

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Kicking vital

Nebraska's Billy Todd has kicked three field goals for the Huskers in four games this fall. He's 10-11 on extra point boots. Every coach will tell you the kicking game is very important — will likely make the difference in a close game.

Indiana's David Freud kicked two fielders against the Huskers last Saturday. Even though the Hoosiers lost, Freud's points kept Indiana in the game until the fourth quarter.

Nonetheless, Freud had a hand — or maybe, a foot — in setting a national record. Too bad Todd didn't get one of his fielders to also be a part of the record.

Russell Erxleben of Texas was the pace-setter Saturday when he broke the NCAA record with a 67-yard field goal against Rice.

Erxleben's big boot was one of 123 three-pointers kicked by major college placement specialists. This topped the former mark of 119 field goals in one day.

Not only was the field goal total a record, but the 244 attempted field goals in the 76 major college games established a mark for three-point tries. Todd did have a part in that record after one long attempt against Indiana fell short.

You have to wonder whether Erxleben's long fielder was very necessary. Texas was leading Rice, 54-7, at the time. But, Texas coach Fred Akers, who was very critical of Oklahoma for (?) running up the score against his Wyoming team in the Fiesta Bowl last year — when the Sooners tallied a 41-7 victory — has been bombing everyone.

Since taking over the Longhorns, Akers has piled up 184 points in three games, for a national-leading 61.3 points per game average. They beat Boston College in the opener, 44-0, then swamped Virginia, 68.0, before whipping Rice, 72-15.

Makes a dyed-in-the-wool Nebraska fan hope Oklahoma can treat Texas roughly this Saturday when the Sooners travel to Dallas.

Erxleben kicked two of the 12 fielders last Saturday. His other was a 40-yarder.

Other kickers

Some of the other kicking specialists played a more important role in the outcome of their games. Dave Jacobs, the 5-7 Syracuse kicker, had three field goals and three extra point boots to make the difference in a 30-20 upset of Illinois.

Tony Franklin, who held the previous NCAA record of 65 yards, kicked one field goal last Saturday. But it didn't help his Texas A&M ball club much. All it did was prevent a shutout as Michigan trounced the Aggies, 41-3.

Franklin booted his 65-yarder last year on the same day Ove Johansson of Abilene Christian kicked a 69-yarder. That stands as the longest field goal in history — college or professional.

Abilene Christian is an NAIA school and doesn't belong to the NCAA, which is why Erxleben now holds the record.

Tom Dempsey holds the pro record, a 63-yarder, from the time he was kicking for the New Orleans Saints.

Last Saturday's college games also produced another NCAA first when Central State coach Maurice Hunt ordered his team to the dressing room with 12 seconds left in the first half.

Hunt thought Tennessee State should have been called for pass interference — one of several first-half calls that upset the Central State coach — so he took the team to the dressing room.

The official imposed a five-yard delay of game penalty at first, but when Central State didn't return, they declared Tennessee State a 1-0 winner.

It was the first game in NCAA history for such a thing to occur.

Texas A&M closed in on the longest winning streak in college football Saturday by winning its 42nd straight game.

Southern Cal has the longest current streak among major college teams. The Trojans ran their skein to 15 by beating Washington State. The record belongs to the Oklahoma teams of 1953-1957 — 47 straight.

LMGA slates publinks meet

Nebraska's presence at home the first four weeks of the football season delayed the Lincoln Municipal Golfers Assn. (LMGA) Publinks Championships usually held on the first date the Huskers are on the road.

The LMGA will attempt to hold the tournament Saturday and Sunday while Nebraska is at Kansas State.

Defending champion Mike Ley will be on hand to try and repeat with Saturday action slated for Pioneers Park and the finish at Holmes Sunday.

Anyone interested in entering may call either Holmes or Pioneers.

Al Porter, Emerson-Hubbard's boys basketball coach, helps wife, Carol with the net. She's the school's volleyball and girls track coach.

Husband-wife teams coaching in Nebraska

Editor's Note: Friday is National Coaches Day. The Nebraska School Activities Association (NSAA) urges students, athletes, and parents to salute high school coaches.

The growth of girls' athletics in Nebraska high schools in recent years is creating a phenomenon: Husband-wife coaching teams at schools across the state.

The number seems to increase every year and 1977-78 includes at least the following where both partners are involved in athletics:

— Roger and Shirley Nielsen of Central City. He is the head coach in cross country and boys' track. She is the girls' track and volleyball coach.

— Al and Carol Porter of Emerson-Hubbard. He is the boys' basketball coach and an assistant in football. She is the volleyball and girls' track coach.

— Carl and Roberta Abele of Marquette. He is head coach in boys' track and girls' basketball. She is the girls' volleyball coach.

— Paul and Margaret Brungardt of Battle Creek. He is the boys' basketball coach. She is the volleyball coach.

— Jim and Mary Mather of Oshkosh. He is the volleyball and girls' track coach. She is his assistant volleyball coach.

— Walt and Edith Harris of Crete. He is the former boys' basketball coach who now is director of athletics. She is the head coach in volleyball and girls' track.

In every case, they are busy people whose lives probably are much different socially than those of most other couples of similar ages.

"Someone always asks us, 'Are you busy?'," Shirley Nielsen said. "The answer is yes, but it is a good busy. Do we have a typical marriage? What's typical? Our lifestyle has just developed with time and circumstances. We are used to it and believe it is worthwhile."

In Emerson, the Porters are "either scouting or involved in one of our games nearly every night from fall through the basketball season," said Carol Porter. "We are so geared upon running every night that a Wednesday evening when we might stay home and watch television, we wind up going out somewhere together."

With husband and wife coaching the same sport, Oshkosh's Mather concedes it is now "impossible to get away from it all."

Do two partners coaching make a typical marriage? Al Porter thinks not.

"At times, I will be coming home from football practice and meet Carol going to school to get ready for a volleyball game," he said. "Coaching is much more than a job. It becomes an important part of your life. We both feel working with young people is one of the greatest jobs in the world. Watching a group of athletes develop and mold into a winning team is a fantastic experience. It makes the long hours and short nights worthwhile."

In addition to coaching volleyball and girls' track, Carol Porter serves in the wintertime as her husband's official basketball scorekeeper. All of which means, with her teaching fulltime as well, that she has little time for housekeeping.

"I think," she said, "that's why I got a dishwasher for Christmas."

The Central City Nielsen family has added Daniel Ryan, 3½, and Nicole Lynn, 1½, since Roger and Shirley became head coaches at the high school.

Interestingly, Shirley coached during both pregnancies until the day before each child was born. Roger took over her volleyball team for a district game when Danny was born. "Typical?" said Shirley. "Why not? We are both coaches."

"All in all, there have been few troubles," Roger said. "Athletics is a part of the total education, not only for us but for our students. It is a chance to work with students who really want to compete toward a goal. Our fun times during the school year center around school, athletics and the children. A win for either of us is enjoyable whereas a loss is the reverse."

Schmidt hit propels Phillies' 7-5 win

Los Angeles (AP) — Power-hitting Mike Schmidt said he got the pitch he was expecting and rapped it for a ninth-inning single, knocking in the winning run as the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 7-5 in the opener of the National league playoff series Tuesday night.

"I was looking for a slider," Schmdit said of the pitch from Elias Sosa. "He got it low and away. When you get the exact pitch you are looking for, you are fortunate. But you still have to hit it."

Schmidt had not hit safely in four previous times at bat, but was safe on an error in the first inning and scored ahead of Greg Luzinski's home run.

Ron Cey's grand slammer off Phils' starter Steve Carlton in the seventh had tied the score 5-5. But the Phillies won it with two runs in the ninth on Schmidt's single and a run-producing balk by Sosa.

"I think this goes to show you what type of a ballclub we have," Luzinski said. "After Cey hit the home run, we didn't die. We've come from behind all year."

Of his own homer, Luzinski said, "Tommy John got a fast-ball up. I was in my two-strike stance. I shorten up a little to protect the plate. I can do that because I've got that short, quick swing."

Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark said of Cey's grand slammer, first in the nine-year history of the National League playoffs, "He hit a good pitch, a fast-ball on the outside part of the plate."

Dodgers Manager Tom Lasorda said of the opening loss in the best-of-five series, "Naturally you want to win the first one, but you still have to win three to win it all and it doesn't matter which three you win."

However, after the second game in Los Angeles Wednesday night, the teams would play any subsequent games in Philadelphia.

The victory went to reliever Gene Garber, who took over in the seventh. The loser was Elias Sosa, the fourth Los Angeles hurler, who surrendered Schmidt's decisive hit, then walked in Larry Bowa for the final run.

The Dodgers scored once in the fifth when Davey Lopes singled home pinch-hitter Lee Lacy.

Osborne: Kansas St. shows improvement

By Virgil Parker
Sports Editor

Tom Osborne continues to realize one of the hazards of coaching a nationally-ranked Top Ten football team. About the time an opponent is ready to play his Cornhuskers — regardless of how they may have performed earlier in the season — they reach a peak of efficiency.

Indiana played its best game of the season against Nebraska last Saturday after coming off an upset loss to Miami of Ohio. The Huskers were clinging to a shaky four-point lead into th fourth quarter.

Nebraska now prepares to open the Big Eight season in Manhattan Saturday against Kansas State, a team that was bombed by BYU in its first game, 39-0.

"But Kansas State played Florida State tough in its second game," Osborne observed after sending his club through a two-hour drill Tuesday. "They lost a close game (18-10). And remember, Florida State beat Oklahoma State last weekend.

K-State followed with a victory over Wichita State and last Saturday topped Mississippi State in every department but the final score (24-21).

"They (K-State) probably lacked confidence to start with," Osborne feels. "But now, particularly after gaining almost twice as much as yardage as Mississippi State, they've got the idea they can play with anyone. They're playing their best football of the season — just at the time we have to go down there."

Osborne says the lack of continuity at quarterback has been one of Kansas State's big problems in recent years. But now the Wildcats have Wendell Henrikson. Henrikson was a junior college walkon last fall. He was listed as the No. 5 quarterback at the beginning.

With Henrikson at the controls, K-State averaged 23 points a game in the final three '76 contests against the Big Eight tri-champions — Oklahoma, Oklahoma State and Colorado.

"He throws the ball well and they have a super runner in (junior college transfer) Mack Green," Osborne warns. "And they have probably the biggest line we've faced this year. That one offensive tackle (Bobby Thompson) is 6-7 or 6-8 and 300 pounds. He's bigger than (Bob) Lingenfelter was."

Hastings S.C. spikers share prep athlete award

By Randy York
Prep Sports Editor

After 16 years of trying, Hastings St. Cecilia has finally won the Hastings Chamber of Commerce Volleyball Tournament.

Karen Cronstrom and Ami Beiriger, a pair of setters making it possible, share the Sunday Journal and Star Athlete of Week award, open to any fall sport prep athlete.

Cronstrom and Beiriger were outstanding in the 16-team tournament, leading St. Cecilia to wins over Alma, Nelson, Shickley and 15-11, 15-12 decisions over Lincoln Pius X for the championship.

"They've been outstanding all season," says St. Cecilia coach Alan Van Cura. "They've been the keys to our 10-0 record."

For the tournament, Beiriger was credited with 33 of 33 successful serves and 19 service points. Cronstrom had 28 of 31 serves and 18 service ponts.

Beiriger added 59 sets, 12 spikes and 3 blocks and Cronstrom finished with 76 sets, 6 spikes and 1 block. They are the first volleyball players this season to earn overall Athlete of the Week honors.

Others who were considered included:

Mike Morin, Lincoln Pius X — Senior I-back rushed for 210 yards and had touchdown runs of 22 and 33 yards in second-ranked Thunderbolts' 26-0 win over Omaha Ryan. In previous game against Omaha Cathedral, he had 204 yards and three touchdowns.

Russ Wassom, Deshler — Junior halfback, only 5-8 and 140, helped team break a 21-game losing streak by rushing for 173 yards and three touchdowns in 56-38 win over Milligan. Touchdowns came on runs of 24, 30 and 42 yards. He also intercepted two passes and made six tackles.

Barry Leif, Centennial — Senior I-back was a man of many talents in third-rated C-1 team's win over Class B Wahoo. He carried 24 times for 141 yards and scored on a 44-yard run. He also threw a 16-yard touchdown pass, caught four passes for 52 yards and made seven unassisted tackles.

Gene McKinstry, Weeping Water — Junior I-back (5-8, 150) accumulated 213 yards on only 11 carries in lopsided win over Nemaha Valley. Playing only half the game, he scored on an 85-yard kickoff return and had TD runs of 11, 41 and 72 yards.

Scott Houck, Bruning — Senior split end (6-4, 195) caught six passes for 139 yards and two touchdowns in win over Davenport. He has 49 catches for 506 yards and nine touchdowns in team's 4-1 start.

Cleto Perry, Big Springs — Despite playing for a school which has experienced only two winning season in 10 years, 6-0, 200-pound senior fullback has been impressive this fall. His latest effort, in 33-14 loss to unbeaten Arthur, produced 101 yards rushing on 19 carries and 20 tackles at defensive guard.

Rains show value of new baseball turf

By Ken Hambleton
Staff Sports Writer

It didn't take long for the new artificial turf infield to be appreciated by the Nebraska baseball team.

Head coach John Sanders put his squad of 45 players through an intrasquad game Wednesday after the rains stopped on the new turf at the NU Diamond north of Memorial Stadium.

"With the artificial turf and the new sod in the surrounding areas we'll be able to play almost any time it isn't pouring," said Sanders, who took over the head coaching job this summer.

"We're going to be practicing on the turf every day and in the winter I'm sure there'll be days when we'll scoop the snow off the infield and practice on it," said Sanders.

"The main adjustment is to keep Dave Underwood, John Johnette and I from overcoaching how to play the artificial turf," said Sanders. "The ball will bounce truer and higher but all things considered it won't make too much difference."

Sanders said the grounder that gets through the infield because of the artificial surface, is counteracted by the quicker handling afforded the infielders.

Sanders also announced that the first annual NU fall baseball clinic will be Saturday and will be open to all high school and American Legion coaches and players.

The clinic begins with registration at 8 a.m. at Schulte Fieldhouse, followed by a weight clinic at 9 a.m., catching lecture at 10 a.m. hitting at 1 p.m., base running at 2:30 p.m. and an intrasquad game at 3:30 p.m.

"We hope to promote baseball and help any interested baseball people in Nebraska through this clinic," said Sanders.

"We hope to hold another intrasquad game Oct. 15 the morning before the Iowa State football game at the Stadium," said Sanders. "I think that a lot of people will be surprised how good this turf is and I hope they come out and see it, and our team."

NU's Lindquist laughs at those who think he's handicapped

By Dave Sittler
Staff Sports Writer

Don't try to tell Steve Lindquist he's handicapped — he'll laugh at you.

His dad tried to tell him he was handicapped a few years ago. Despite the love and respect he holds for his father, Steve Lindquist laughed at him, too.

Sitting in the weight room Monday afternoon, Nebraska's starting right offensive guard recalled that day Richard Lindquist sat his son down for a serious man-to-man talk.

He explained that because Steve had been born with the fingers missing on his shortened right arm, he was handicapped.

"I was in the 10th grade when my dad had that talk with me," Lindquist said. "He told me that I'd just have to work that much harder and do that much better in school because I was handicapped. I just had to laugh."

Lindquist wasn't laughing because he didn't think he was handicapped. He points out that everyone has some sort of problem.

"Some people may be short, some fat, others tall, bald or skinny," he said. "Others may be stuck up or don't know how to get along with people. That's their problem. With me, it's my arm."

If Steve's arm is a shade off perfect, it's a minor flaw in an otherwise super physique.

The Minneapolis, Minn., junior carries 250 pounds on his 6-6 frame with extreme ease, thanks to burning speed that makes him a cat-quick offensive lineman with awesome potential as a football player.

Lindquist has used his gifted body to become a starter in his junior season as a Husker. A savage hitter who gained a reputation on the specialty teams, he is considered one of the finest talents in Husker history.

Besides his abundant physical ability, Lindquist's greatest assets are his bright personality and positive outlook. These have carried him in athletics where a lesser man might have failed.

Steve Lindquist

. . . minor flaw

The strapping Minnesotan won all-state football honors at Brooklyn Center High School in Minneapolis and was a starter in basketball and baseball. He also was a track performer.

"I really enjoyed baseball until I got hit in the head, so I switched to track and ran the hurdles," Lindquist said.

In baseball, Lindquist encountered his first obstacle in sports because of his arm and learned to live with comments.

He recalled that in his tryout for a Little League team, every player was ordered to try an infield position. Playing third base, Lindquist would grab the ball, flick off his glove and fire the ball to first.

"When the coach saw that, he asked me if I needed a glove for my other hand," Lindquist recalled with a chuckle. "When I showed him my arm, it really bummed him out."

After a fine prep career, Lindquist had many college scholarship offers. When former Cornhuskers Monte Johnson and Tom Rudd visited with him about Nebraska, he was sold.

"I thought if a pro like Monte and a guy with as big a name as Tom could talk to a punk kid like me, that's where I wanted to go," Lindquist said.

Defensive end was the position Lindquist wanted to play in college. The coaches thought he might have trouble with his tackling, however, so they switched him to the offensive line.

"It was hard at first to learn to settle down and not just go out and beat up on someone," Lindquist said of the switch. "There is so much technique to learn."

Lindquist takes a great deal of personal pride in the fact that he was one of the players opening holes last Saturday when Isaiah Hipp raced to a new single-game Husker rushing record of 254 yards.

"Last year, the offensive line got yelled at a lot for not opening the holes," Lindquist said. "This year, the holes are there."

He is proud that he is a member of the Nebraska team and is aware he's an inspiration to many other people who might have similar handicaps.

"I want to go visit the kids in the Shriners Hospital in Minneapolis someday," he said. "It's always a thrill for them to meet a football player. So if I can make a name for myself this year, I plan to visit them."

The children in the hospital need wait no longer. Steve Lindquist may not know it, but he made a name for himself a long time ago. That was when he laughed at adversity and refused to let it hold him back.

Nebraska I-back I.M. Hipp gained two more honors Tuesday for his 254-yard, school record performance against Indiana Saturday. The Husker sophomore was named Associated Press national back of the week and Big Eight back of the week.

Missouri defensive back Russ Calabrese was named the conference's defensive player of the week.

Army Coach Homer Smith, whose charges lost to Colorado Saturday, says the 1977 Buffs are "much better than the Nebraska team that won the national championship in 1970 and 1971 in terms of size and speed."

All pro linemen John Hannah and Leon Gray returned to the New England Patriots Tuesday, 23 days after they walked out on the team, and said they will stay for the rest of the season and resume contract talks after the final game.

Lou Saban, head football coach at the University of Miami Fla., has disciplined players by withholding their allotted $12 for weekend meals, the Miami News reported Tuesday.

Randy Stephenson, a third-team quarterback last week, apparently will be starting for injury-riddled Oklahoma State Saturday against sixth-ranked Colorado.

The University of Houston football program will be placed on one-year probation for the illegal recruitment of Odessa, Tex., quarterback Darrell Shepard.

Alabama quarterback Jack O'Rear reinjured his knee during practice Tuesday and is probably out for the rest of the season, coach Bear Bryant said.

Stanford quarterback Guy Benjamin will not play this Saturday against UCLA.

Johnson, Piniella Yankee starters

New York (AP) — Cliff Johnson and Lou Piniella were in and Roy White was out of Manager Billy Martin's line-up as the New York Yankees prepared for Wednesday's American League playoff opener against the Kansas City Royals.

Martin sent the Yankees through a light one-hour workout Tuesday and then announced that Piniella would start in left field and Johnson would be the designated hitter against left-hander Paul Splittorff in the opener.

That means White, the regular left fielder most of the year, will not be in the line-up.

"I won a few games early but I guess everything is compacted at the end of the season," said White, upset at being benched.

Johnson, a June 15 pick-up from Houston, batted .296 and ripped 12 home runs in his half-season with the Yankees. He was hit on the right wrist by a pitch in the final game of the regular season Sunday and said he still felt some pain.

"Well," said Martin, "he better get well fast."

"I've swung one-handed a couple of times, but I wouldn't want to rely on that," said Johnson.

Piniella, who batted .330, mostly as a designated hitter, will swing fifth behind clean-up man Reggie Jackson, the right fielder.

Center fielder Mickey Rivers leads off with third baseman Graig Nettles batting second and catcher Thurman Munson hitting No. 3. After Jackson and Piniella, Chris Chambliss, the hero of last year's playoff victory over Kansas City, bats sixth, followed by Johnson and the second base-shortstop combination of Willie Randolph and Bucky Dent.

Martin tried to play down published reports that he would demand an extension of his contract if the Yankees win the playoffs and World Series.

"I was teasing," he said. "I'm not trying to use the playoffs or World Series to get another year. But if we win, then, yes, I think I deserve it as a reward for a good year."

Reminded that he had been rewarded with a three-year contract for a good season last year, Martin grinned. "I had a better one this year," he said.

Martin will pitch left-hander Don Gullett in the opening game. Gullett, a $2 million free-agent pick-up last winter, pitched for Cincinnati in last year's National League playoffs and against the Yankees in the World Series.

"I'm looking forward to the game," said Gullett, whose 14-4 record included two victories over Kansas City and the best winning percentage in the American League. "There's a lot of excitement involved. Everybody knows how much it means."

Gullett thought his previous playoff and World Series experience might help him.

"But you can't just throw your glove on the mound and expect to beat them," he said. "You've got to work. They're a good, fundamentally sound ballclub with speed and power. You can't take them lightly."

Centennial crowds dwindling

By Randy York
Prep Sports Editor

No, the communities of Waco and Utica are not ghost towns.

People really do live there. They just don't leave their houses on Friday nights when Centennial plays football.

And that puzzles Centennial coach Rod Boss, his players, the parents and the pep club. After all, the Broncos are 5-0 and rated third in Class C-1.

"You'd think we were 0-5 instead," Boss says. "We haven't had a good gate yet this year. It was down to less than 400 last Friday against Wahoo. Half of that was the pep club and pep band."

Centennial, a state qualifier each of the first two years of the football playoffs, appears to be suffering from a classic case of complacency.

"It's too bad when you've got to concern yourself with things like this, but the kids are asking: 'Where is everyone, coach?'

"They deserve more support," Boss says. "The way football programs are nowadays, you need all the support you can get — monetarily, spiritually and every other way. I hope it's just a local problem. And I hope it's temporary."

Boss believes the probem is local. "Our scouts go to other games and they have tremendous crowds," he reports. "Look at the people Hebron, Tekamah and Milford pull. We're not even close."

The problem did not just surface this season. The big tipoff probably came last year when Tekamah played Centennial for the C-1 state championship at Waco.

"They brought busload after busload and had far more people here than we did and it was at our place," Boss points out.

"You go back and look at the pictures for our annual, too. They almost always have more people on the other side of the field. It discourages our kids. They don't know what to do. They've thought about writing letters to the editor."

Administrators have tried to solve the problem. The pep club is frustrated. The long-established Centennial Booster Club is, at this point anyway, a ludicrous group.

"We're at an absolute loss what to do," Boss says. "They're are still a few diehards in the stands. But there aren't very many."

Ken Kinney, an elementary principal in the school district, may have hit on the problem when he sat down at a local coffee shop the Saturday morning after Centennial beat Boys Town, 26-15.

One "fan" told Kinney: "Heck, anybody could be undefeated with that schedule."

Boss can't help but be puzzled.

"We play eight Class B teams on a nine-game schedule," he says. "I bet I couldn't sell a C-1 school in the state of Nebraska on our schedule year in and year out."

Trouble is, there are a hundred more empty seats for every game Centennial wins. Somehow, that seems backwards.

Ali to defend world title

New York (AP) — Muhammad Ali will defend his world heavyweight title against the winner of the Leon Spinks-Alfio Righetti bout, Butch Lewis, vice president of Top Rank, Inc., said Tuesday.

The bout between Spinks, the 1976 Olympic light heavyweight champion from St. Louis, and Righetti, of Italy, will meet sometime in November, Lewis said.

Ali, who outpointed Earnie Shavers in a title bout Thursday night, will receive $3.5 million. Spinks or Righetti reportedly will get between $300,000 and $400,000, according to Lewis.

The bout will be in either Las Vegas, Nev., or Iran, said Lewis and will be shown on home television in the United States. No date was set.

Cauthen breaks jockey record

New York (AP) — Steve Cauthen, the sensational 17-year-old jockey, rode Kool As Ice to victory at Belmont Park Wednesday and surpassed the all-time purse record for one year set by Angel Cordero Jr. in 1976.

In bringing his victory total to 400 winners this year, Cauthen guided Kool As Ice from behind to capture the $9,600 winner's purse in the sixth race. He had two winners and two seconds earlier on the program.

The triumph brought his purse earnings to $4,714,976. Cordero had winning purses of $4,709,500 last year.

Since Jan. 1, the Walton, Ky. native has had 1,629 mounts. Cauthen, who lost his apprentice allowance in June, missed about a month of riding when he was injured in a May 23 spill.

Congress to investigate alleged abuses by NCAA

Washington (AP) — Congress has opened an investigation of the National Collegiate Athletic Association that will concentrate on alleged abuses in disciplining member colleges for breaking NCAA rules, it was announced Tuesday.

Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., chairman of the House oversight and investigation subcommittee, said his staff had already begun its probe of the NCAA, with public hearings expected later in the year.

Moss said the subcommittee will attempt to determine whether the NCAA's policies violate antitrust laws, whether its investigative methods provide for due process and whether the penalties assessed to member institutions, athletes and coaches are fair and equitable.

In Kansas City, Walter Byers, executive director of the 844-member NCAA, issued a statement which said:

"The NCAA, of course, will be delighted to cooperate with the committee and provide pertinent data on the issues outlined by the committee. Naturally we hope that the committee members will approach these subjects in an objective manner and not try to champion particular infraction cases."

Rep. Jim Santini, D-Nev., had called for the investigation into the NCAA's enforcement of rules after the University of Nevada-Las Vegas' basketball program was placed on two years probation for recruiting and other violations.

A Nevada judge made a scathing denunciation of the investigative procedures of the NCAA last Friday in issuing a permanent injunction prohibiting Nevada-Las Vegas from suspending basketball Coach Jerry Tarkanian from his duties as the NCAA had recommended.

Moss said he had received evidence from UNLV concerning alleged abuses of authority by the NCAA as well as reports of similar problems from other major universities.

"From the evidence I've seen so far, it is apparent that this problem goes far beyond the University of Nevada-Las Vegas," Santini said. "There are serious national implications involving a number of institutions."

Another congressman who had sought the House investigation is Rep. Bruce Vento, D-Minn., who was prompted by the indefinite probation on men's athletic programs at the University of Minnesota. The NCAA ordered the probation last year after the school refused to disqualify three basketball players for rules infractions.

"The NCAA possesses unbridled authority to ruin the careers of athletes, destroy coaches' professions and deal staggering blows to the athletic reputation of member institutions," Santini said.

Moss said: "I expect the staff will have, by an early date, gathered sufficient facts about the nature and scope of the allegations of arbitrary and capricious conduct by the NCAA for initial hearings."

Santini said many members of Congress "have related stories of NCAA abuse of colleges and universitites in their districts and, in every case, the conclusions are the same— someone should look into the activities of the NCAA."

He said he hopes the NCAA will cooperate with the investigation "in the best interest of all who enjoy and appreciate intercollegiate athletics."

Last week, Santini presented a letter to Moss signed by 68 members of Congress from 33 states who wanted the investigation.

Longhorns lead stats

Mission, Kan. (UPI) — Unbeaten Texas, on the heels of a 72-15 triumph over Rice Saturday, continues to dominate the NCAA Division I team statistics this week with first place standings in rushing, scoring, rushing defense and scoring defense.

The Longhorns have now outscored their opponents 184-15 in three games, averaging 61.3 points per game against an average of just 5. Texas, with its multiple set offense, is averaging 392.3 yards per game on the ground while yielding an average rush of just 38.3 yards per game.

But fourth-ranked Texas will be hard pressed to maintain its incredible offensive and defensive pace when it plays third-ranked Oklahoma Saturday in Dallas.

Grambling has displaced Brigham Young in two offensive categories, taking over the total offense lead with a 536-yard average and passing offense with a 374-yard average.

Louisiana Tech is this week's total defense leader with an average yield of 152.7 yards per game (three yards less than what Texas has allowed) while Southern University is tops in pass defense by allowing just 14 completions in four games fir an average yield of 49.5 yards per game.

Tennessee is the net punting leader with a 45.2 yard average, Grambling leads in punt returns with a 26.2 average and Minnesota is No. 1 in kickoff returns with a 36-yard average.

Participation rule waived for Reisdorff

The Nebraska School Activities Association waived its non-school participation rule for two meets of national stature for Omaha Bryan's standout gymnast Renee Reisdorff chances of reaching her goal of competing in the Olympic Games.

The NSAA Board of Control decided Reisdorff, a junior, could compete in November 19-20 and December 3-4 United States Gymnastics Federation meets and not jeopardize her high school eligibility. The NSAA's non-school participation rule does not permit such activity during the season of the sport. Bryan High School and the Reisdorffs had applied for a waiver and appeared before the Board of Control October 1.

Association rules give the Board authority to set aside this particular rule if it appears to be unfair under certain circumstances or creates a hardship on the student.

The decision was in line with the Association's philosophy to permit individuals who have the talent to make a national or international team the opportunity to do so, an NSAA spokesman said.

"It becomes difficult at times to distinguish between legitimate national-international competition and the promotional exploitation by individuals or private organizations," Executive Secretary James Riley said. "But the Board does not want to stifle the opportunity of our gifted teen-agers, particularly when they and their schools are keenly interested in pursuing lofty goals. So, for this reason, the Board established the criteria that such competition must be sponsored by the appropriate national governing bodies such as the United States Olympic Committee, AAU or sports federations, in this case the United States Gymnastics Federation."

Reisdorff said she wanted to compete for Bryan High School and also pursue her goal to qualify for the United States National Championships this year. Without the waiver, she would have had to choose one or the other. She told the Board that the two meets would be necessary for her to secure a high enough qualifying mark or national reputation to be placed in the national finals field.

Approval to compete in the two meets during the gymnastics season came after these stipulations were met:

—The Elite Qualifying meet November 19-20 and the National Qualifying meet December 3-4 are necessary steps for qualifying for the championships of the United States in May and are sponsored by the United States Gymnastics Federation;

—Participation in these meets also would be necessary for being chosen to represent the United States in the Olympic Games, and Miss Reisdorff shows promise of being Olympic caliber;

—The meets are by invitation and she has been invited;

—The Omaha School District and Bryan High School approve and request Miss Reisdorff's participation in these meets;

—The non-school meets will not occur during the competitive portion of the girls gymnastics season at Bryan;

—Miss Reisdorff has demonstrated superior scholastic work, and almost would be classed as an "A" student.

The Reisdorffs also requested the waiver to be extended to cover meets for an Omaha gymnastics club to which Renee belongs. The Board denied this request, thus establishing that club competition and other in-state non-school competition would not meet the criteria set forth in the waiver of the two meets of national importance.

The NSAA has a similar request for waiver of this rule from Omaha Northwest and another girl gymnast, Toni Rice. Additional information will be required from the school before a decision can be reached in her case.

Patek put in leadoff spot, Royals to 'run, run, run'

By Doug Tucker
AP Sports Writer

Kansas City (AP) — Fred Patek, whose 53 stolen bases topped the American League and set a team record, will bat leadoff and spearhead a crucial part of Kansas City's strategy when the Royals open the American League playoff series Wednesday against the New York Yankees.

"We're gonna run, run, run," said one Royal as the Western Division champions concluded a one-hour workout and packed for the flight to New York, scene of the first two games in the best-of-five series. "Freddie batted eighth or ninth all year. Now he's leading off. That should tell you something."

"He's our best baserunner," Manager Whitey Herzog said simply. But other team members, especially Patek, were more expansive.

"I'm really excited about it, to tell you the truth," said Patek. "I led off for five straight years, but the last two years I think I've led off once. We're going to do whatever we have to do to win. Speed is a big part of our game. And we're going to stay with what got us here."

Six of the nine players Herzog named in Wednesday's starting lineup rang up double-digit thefts this year. Amos Otis and Frank White each stole 23, Hal McRae had 18, Al Cowens 16 and George Brett 14.

Against the Yankees and catcher Thurman Munson, the Royals attempted 14 thefts and were caught only once. The Yankees succeeded six times in 12 attempts against the Royals.

"Munson has good days and he has bad days," said Patek, who was caught stealing only 13 times for an .800 percentage. "If he's having a good day, we're in trouble. If he's having a bad day we'll run him out of town."

"We're going to cause him to have a bad day," said another player. "Munson can get rattled. When he's on, he's one of the best. But we think we can throw him off."

NU harriers to host MU

Nebraska's cross country team hopes to rebound from a season-opening dual loss to Kansas State in its home opener against the University of Missouri Saturday.

The four-mile meet will begin at 10:30 a.m. at Wilderness Park, 1st and Van Dorn Sts.

Missouri graduated only two seniors from last year's team that finished third at the Big 8 Meet. Leading the Tigers will be two-year letterman Steve Fisher.

NU's top runners should be juniors Mark Fluitt and Pat Colburn, who finished highest for the Huskers at the Kansas State dual.

LT&T memberships questioned

By Lynn Zerschling
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Telephone & Telegraph Co. has paid $56,298 so far this year to belong to such organizations as the Nebraska Club, the University Club and the Lincoln Country Club.

The utility also holds membership in a host of civic and service clubs, such as Rotary and Kiwanis, in Lincoln and surrounding communities it serves. LT&T also belongs to Chamber of Commerce organizations in a number of towns.

Additionally, LT&T pays dues and memberships to belong to a host of professional organizations.

The telephone company's record of memberships in various organizations and contributions the company has made to civic and charitable organizations is included in a documents submitted to the Nebraska Public Service Commission. The commission is holding hearings this week on LT&T's application for a $6 million rate increase.

The issue of just who should pay for LT&T's gifts to charities was raised, only briefly, during testimony Tuesday before the PSC.

Bruce Samuelson, a PSC accountant, said the commission staff is again bringing up the issue of whether LT&T customers should help pay for those contributions.

LT&T officials have argued that customers should pay half, with the remaining amount charged against profits that could go to stockholders.

PSC attorney Patsy Mullenix contended LT&T customers have no choice about the charities awarded grants by LT&T. Subscribers, therefore, are forced to contribute money to organizations they may not support, she argued.

LT&T is maintaining that the company is following PSC policy by counting half the contributions as an expense in figuring LT&T's profit and rate of return on investment.

During the 1976 calendar year, LT&T paid $93,666 in dues and memberships. During the first six months of 1977, LT&T had a $56,298 membership bill.

During 1976, the company contributed $106,096 in gifts to charities. During the first six months of 1977, the company has contributed $55,820.

To date this year, the company has paid dues, including $15,461 to the U.S. Independent Telephonne Association, $5,026 to the Nebraska Telephone Association and $1,140 to the Nebraska Club, $2,625 to the Country Club, $360 to the Hillcrest Country Club and $3,217 to the University Club, all located in Lincoln.

LT&T also paid the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce $7,635.

During the first half of this yar, LT&T has contributed to a wide-range of organizations, including, $1,500 to the Cornhusker Council of the Boys Scouts of America, $2,500 to the Madonna Home Capital Campaign, $19,750 to theLincoln United Fund, $400 to the League of Women Voters' Educational Fund, $875 to the Ashland Care Clinic Program, $500 to the University of Nebraska's Department of Intercollegiate Athletics, $100 to the Nebraska International Women's Year Co-ordinating Committee, $8,000 to the Independent College Foundation and $5,000 to Nebraska Wesleyan Fulfillment Fund.

Contributions made to non-profit organizations during 1976 included $36,504 to the Lincoln United Fund, $16,000 to the Nebraska Independent College Foundation, $10,000 to the Nebraska Wesleyan Fulfillment Fund, $1,000 to the Husker Educational Athletic Fund, $750 to Michigan State University, $250 to the Brownville Village Theater, $15 to the Bellwood Volunteer Fire Department and $10 to the Polk County Fair Barbecue.

Arab-Israeli conference still doubtful

(c) New York Times

Beirut — The moderate Arabs — those who want a Geneva peace conference — received strong and unexpected support from Saturday's joint United States-Soviet Union declaration, but it may not have brought a Geneva conference any closer.

The superpowers came out in favor of the two key demands of the moderates, led by Egypt: Israeli withdrawal from territories occupied in the 1967 war and the recognition of the legitimate rights of the Palestinian people.

This has led to a rush of excitement among those who support a Geneva conference and, for once, statements of moderation from the hard-liners.

But in the final analysis even the most hopeful of Arabs express skepticism about the chances of talks in Geneva this year, simply because they believe the Israelis will refuse to go to a conference on the basis of the principles outlined in the joint declaration.

"We may not get to Geneva but at least we'll have the satisfaction that Israel will be blamed for the failure to reconvene a Geneva conference," a member of the Palestine Liberation Organization said.

There are still some Arabs, the Egyptians and Palestinians, who believe the United States can use pressure to get Israel to the conference table. But there is a growing feeling among responsible Arabs that the government of Menahem Begin would react negatively to pressure.

At best, the moderates hope that the United States will obtain some qualified reaction from Israel, enabling them to maintain their belief that Geneva will take place, if not this year, then in the spring.

The United States talks with Arab and Israeli foreign ministers have been described by Arab experts as "the last chance" for the moderates. It is generally understood that if an agreement is not reached now on reconvening Geneva, the hard-liners, led by Syria, will present their alternatives at next month's meeting Arab foreign ministers in Tunis.

It is generally acknowledged that the American-Russian move has brought new momentum to the peace process and strengthened the position of the Arabs who favor a negotiated settlement.

The Palestine Liberation Organization welcomed the declaration as "a positive step toward realizing a just and permanent solution in the Mideast."

Most Arab states and press made similarly favorable comment. Even the Palestinian "rejectionists," those who oppose a negotiated settlement, did not dismiss it. A spokesman for the radical Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine called the joint declaration "interesting" and stressed that he did not believe the Russians would accept an agreement that would be against "the interests of the Arab masses and the Palestine revolution."

The first negative reaction from the Arabs came from Iraq, leader of the rejectionists. The declaration brings no basic change in favor of the Palestinian people, according to the government newspaper Al Jumhuriya.

Nevertheless, most analysts agree that the statement does constitute a significant evolution in the American position. For the first time, the United States refers to "the legitimate rights of the Palestinian people."

This was viewed by Arab commentators as a move by the Carter administration toward recognition of a Palestinian state.

The joint statement leaves some basic questions unanswered, in Arab opinion. It refers to the "withdrawal of Israeli armed forces from territories occupied in the 1967 conflict." This is a repetition of the controversial phrasing of United Nations Resolution 242, which some people interpret to mean all the occupied territories but Israel sees as only a part.

It calls for the participation of the representatives of the Palestinian people in any conferences on the Middle East but makes no reference to the PLO, which is recognized by the Arab states as the only legitimate representative of the Palestinians.

Finally, it does not define the "legitimate rights" of the Palestinian people, which, according to the PLO, must include the right of the Palestinians to return to their homes in what is now Israel, self-determination and statehood.

Nevertheless, Arab political analysts see the statement as the basis for a new Security Council resolution and the convening of a new Geneva conference since it combines the main points of Resolution 242, accepted by Israel, with the basic demands of the majority of the Arabs including the Palestinians.

Committee OKs Social Security tax hike

Washington (AP) — Higher taxes to keep the Social Security system solvent could cost some employes an extra $238 next year and much more later, under a plan approved Tuesday by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The committee is putting together legislation to keep the trust funds that guarantee benefit payments from running out by 1983. The system has been operating at a deficit since 1975.

It voted for a financing plan that would increase both the payroll tax rate and the maximum earnings on which the tax is levied. High-paid employes would be hit earlier and harder.

This year, the maximum tax paid by those earning $16,500 or more is $965.25. In 1978, under the committee proposal, the maximum would go to $1,203.95, applying to those earning $19,900 or more. Employers pay an equal amount on each employe.

If existing law were not changed, the 1978 maximum would be $1,070.85, paid by those earning as much as $17,700.

The proposed scale by 1981 would tax earnings of $27,900 almost twice this year's maximum — $1,799.55.

But for the estimated 86 per cent of workers who earn less than $16,500 the increases would be much more moderate, because the committee chose to raise the additional funds for the next few years mainly by increasing the taxable maximum.

A person earning $15,000, for example, pays $877.50 this year. Under existing law, which would not be affected by the proposal, his tax would be $907.50 a year through 1980. In 1981, however, it would go to $967.50.

As a further guarantee that the flow of benefit checks will not be interrupted, the committee voted for standby authority for Social Security to borrow from the general treasury if necessary. Borrowing would be authorized if the trust fund level dropped to 25 per cent of a year's payout needs. If a loan were made, an automatic future tax increase to repay it would be triggered.

However, the authors of the financing plan said it should provide enough funds so that the loan authority would not have to be used.

The committee, pressing for final action before Congress adjourns, scheduled additional sessions on other aspects of the legislation.

Meanwhile, the Senate Finance Committee, which is working on similar legislation, recessed to allow backers of rival plans to try to compromise their differences.

Brown somewhat troubled.

Soviets able to hit watching satellites

Washington (AP) — The Soviet Union has developed a satellite-killing weapon that could attack some U.S. satellites in outer space, Defense Secretary Harold Brown said Tuesday. He said the United States lacks a similar capability.

Brown's disclosure at a news conference came as a surprise because U.S. intelligence analysts have rated most Soviet antisatellite tests as unsuccessful since the Russians resumed work on their system last year.

However, it was learned that in a significant test on June 17 a Soviet hunter-killer satellite in an elliptical orbit intercepted a Russian target satellite for the first time. Experts said this indicates a high degree of technical sophistication.

Saying the Soviet ability to attack some satellites is "somewhat troubling," Brown told reporters, "I hope we can keep space from becoming an area of active hostilities."

The new development suggests that the Russians have ignored President Carter's plea on March 9 that both sides "forgo the opportunity to arm satellite bodies and . . . forgo the opportunity to destroy observation satellites."

The United States has accelerated research on a possible satellite-killer system since the Russians resumed their experiments last year after a five-year lapse.

"We don't have that capability," Brown said of the antisatellite system. Pentagon scientists have indicated the United States may be in position to put up a satellite-killer of its own by the mid-1980s, possibly a few years earlier.

Brown said the main danger to the United States of a Soviet antisatellite system would be to American reconnaissance space vehicles, which monitor missile tests and other military developments, and to satellites designed to warn U.S. authorities immediately if Russia should launch a surprise missile attack.

Brown declined to elaborate on the kind of satellites that could be vulnerable to the new Russian weapon.

But other officials said the Russian system is believed effective now against satellites in relatively low orbits, which could include some American reconaissance vehicles. But they said the Soviet weapon would be unlikely at this time to threaten the early warning satellites and communications satellites, which orbit many thousands of miles out in space.

The June 17 successful Russian test, according to U.S. experts, was aimed at a target satellite traveling in an orbit reaching as far out as 1,260 miles and as close as 1,080 miles above the earth's surface.

This is well beyond the orbital paths of American satellites carrying high resolution cameras. They travel in orbits ranging up to 150 miles from earth.

The 1972 Strategic Arms Limitation Agreement, which has been extended by informal U.S.-Soviet assent, bars interference with reconnaissance satellites, which among other things police the terms of that arms control understanding.

Supreme Court considers validity of forced retirement

Washington (AP) — The Supreme Court, with seven of its members over 60 years old, considered on Tuesday the validity of retirement plans forcing workers to leave their jobs before age 65.

The justices heard arguments in an age discrimination case involving United Airlines which presented one essential question: may an employer force a worker to retire before age 65?

United attorney Arnold Aikens told the court the answer is "yes" for the some 11 million Americans working for companies which had such mandatory retirement plans in effect before 1967.

United employe Harris McMann of Alexandria, Va., didn't want to retire in 1972 at 60 so he sued his bosses. They said he had no legal ground to do so, but the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that he did.

Other federal courts, however, have come up with different answers. So the Supreme Court decided to resolve the issue.

Congress in 1967 passed the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, designed to help older workers — aged from 40 to 65 — obtain and retain jobs. The law says no employer can retire a worker against his or her will before age 65 simply because of age.

But United and many other companies had pre-65 retirement benefit plans dating back before the law was passed, and considered those plans unaffected by the law.

McMann's attorney, Francis McBride, argued Monday that since United's mandatoy retirement at age 60 was based solely on age it violated the 1967 law and should be struck down. If the justices agreed with McBride — and the 4th Circuit judges — all such mandatory early retirement plans would be in jeopardy.

In "friends-of-the-court" briefs, the American Association of Retired Persons and the Gray Panthers, among others, say McMann, a former pilot who held a flight management position when forced to retire, should prevail and mandatory programs that existed prior to the law should be struck down. The national Chamber of Commerce says United's retirement system, begun in 1941, should be allowed to stand.

The Labor Department, which estimates that a decision by the court could affect 11 million Americans, has not voiced its opinion in the case even though the federal government often files "friend-of-the-court" views in civil rights cases.

The irony of the proceedings did not escape Justice Harry A. Blackmun, who noted that a majority of the court's membership is older than 60. Only justices William H. Rehnquist and John Paul Stevens are in their 50s. "Does that bother you?" Blackmun asked.

"No, it does not," Aikens said above the laughter from courtroom spectators.

Supreme Court justices are appointed for life, barring serious misconduct.

While the court must determine what Congress intended to do, if anything, about existing mandatory pre-65 retirement plans when it passed the 1967 legislation, Congress is trying to revise the law.

An amendment to the 1967 law sponsored by Rep. Claude Pepper, a 77-year-old Democrat from Florida, would prohibit any worker from being required to retire before age 70 instead of 65.

The House of Representatives approved the bill by a 359 to 4 vote last month, and the legislation now is in the Senate.

Elizabeth Montgomery sought-after female star

Los Angeles (AP) — Last spring Elizabeth Montgomery was visiting the Renaissance Faire in the San Fernando valley when a middle-aged woman approached her. She was a fan of "Bewitched" and she asked what the actress was working in.

"I'm doing a television movie with O.J. Simpson," Miss Montgomery replied.

"Such a nice person," said the woman.

"Yes, it's a love story between two police detectives," the actress remarked.

The woman's face went blank. "You. O.J. Simpson. A love story? Well!" She stalked back into the crowd.

Elizabeth Montgomery was prepared for such reactions when she and the football and TV commercial star appeared in "A Killing Affair" on CBS Sept. 21. Not only do they fall in love while investigating a case together; his character of Woodrow York happens to be married.

"Oh, I'm sure I'll be getting hate mail, and I don't care," said Miss Montgomery. "Both O.J. and I realized we would get a strong reaction from the show, but we went ahead and did it. I think it's a good show, though I hate the title.

"We shot it as 'D.H.Q.,' which I think is an intriguing title. It stands for Detective Headquarters, and it doesn't take an I.Q. of genius to understand that. Much to my chagrin, some bright minds at CBS came up with 'A Killing Affair.' I think 'D.H.Q.' is much classier, and I screamed bloody murder when I heard about the switch. A lot of good that did!"

Miss Montgomery was interviewed in the Ambassador Club of TWA at Los Angeles International Airport. She had just returned from visiting her No. 1 man, Robert Foxworth, who is filming a television movie on the island of Kauai, Hawaii. She was flying to Springfield, Ill., where she will spend 10 weeks making a TV movie based on Conrad Richter's "The Awakening Land." She and Hal Holbrook will star in three two-hour films.

She is outspoken, this Liz Montgomery. She draws an independent air from her father, Robert Montgomery, who defied the studio moguls in his era as star and director. Liz can afford to speak her mind. She still earns a handsome income from her eight years in "Bewitched." She also may be the most sought-after female star for TV movies.

The reason can be found in sheer numbers, which is nearly all that the network bosses understand. Her film "A Case of Rape" still holds the record for the highest rating of an original TV movie. "The Legend of Lizzie Borden" and "Dark Victory" also scored high numbers. So when the program planners are looking for insurance, they say, "Try to get Montgomery."

"I do no more than two films a year," she remarked. "Good material is hard to come by. Surprisingly, I get mostly dramas. They don't seem to make many two-hour comedies, and judging from the scripts I see, I can understand why. They are totally lacking in sophistication and old-fashioned in their approach.

"Again it's a case of network nerves. They're afraid to try anything that takes a chance. It seems to me that if you want to try comedy in the long form, you have to be as adult as "All in the Family.' "

Miss Montgomery also assailed "network nerves" about film content. She recalled on "A Killing Affair" that the censor, euphemistically called the Standards and Practices official, insisted on deletion of the words "virgin" and "virginal."

"Originally the script called for O.J. and me to appear together in bed," the actress recalled. "Then we got the pink pages (revisions). The scene had O.J. beside the bed, fully clothed, putting on his tie and me under the sheet, apparently naked.

"Both O.J. and I hit the ceiling. His character might just as well have thrown the money on the blanket — that's what it made her look like. We reached a compromise. The scene was played with him sitting on the side of the bed and me rubbing his bare back. It was a classy, sweet way of playing the love scene."

Small Methodist college sinks $16 million into debt

Owosso, Mich. (AP) — Four years ago, a minister convinced Eva Marie Ditto to invest $40,000 — most of her life savings — in a tiny Michigan nondenominational religious school named John Wesley College.

Mrs. Ditto, a 75-year-old widow from Rockville, Ind., says she invested the money because she wanted to see young people receive an education in a Christian environment.

Last year, interest payments halted abruptly and Mrs. Ditto was told the college owed investors $16 million, but had no cash to pay them. Mrs. Ditto and some 3,000 other investors demanded to know where their money went.

"I've lost everything. I can just barely survive," says Mrs. Ditto.

A private accounting and a state investigation revealed that the college spent $5.6 million on a Florida land venture, real estate commissions, fund-raising, and off-campus construction and renovation — all for an institution that never enrolled more than 600 students a semester.

College officials have testified in federal bankruptcy court that less than 50% of the $16 million raised by the college between 1972 and 1976 was spent on the campus at Owosso some 80 miles northwest of Detroit.

The college is attempting to work out a plan to pay off its creditors under Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Act.

The target of many investors' wrath is the college's former president, Kenneth S. Armstrong, a former minister of the Church of the Nazarene in Detroit who took control of the college seven years ago.

He attracted thousands of investors to the campus by offering to pay 9 per cent interest to anyone who loaned the college $1,000 for 90 days, according to court testimony. The program brought the college nearly $11 million from 1972 through June 1975, a statement drawn up by the college's former financial vice president shows.

Armstrong also has testified in court he wanted the college to invest in 1,253 acres of land south of Leesburg, Fla., and develop it as a retirement center. The college bought the land for $2.3 million and eventually sold it to a company organized by Armstrong two months before he resigned as college president, according to court testimony.

College officials say they have managed to recoup most of the $2 million in cash invested in Florida, but they say it drained the institution of cash at a critical period.

"The Florida land in essence is what put the college under," says Hugh Makens, director of the state Corporations and Securities Bureau. "Armstrong diverted assets the college needed on campus."

Howard Strand of Marshall, Mich., invested $70,000 in the college after a prospectus showed a profit of nearly $1 million on the first sale of the Florida property for $3.2 million. Strand sued when he discovered the buyer, Oxford Foundation, was organized by Armstrong.

After the college ran into money trouble, the school hired a financial vice president, Samuel E. Tissot, who found the college's record-keeping "extremely poor."

Armstrong, who resigned 15 months ago and moved to Savannah, Ga., has been brought back twice to bankruptcy court — most recently in February — to testify about the college's tangled finances. He has said he is unemployed and that his wife is keeping him afloat financially.

"I did not, at the expense of the college or anyone, gain personal benefit," the 49-year-old Armstrong testified. He has refused to comment outside the courtroom.

Mrs. Ditto, whose income totals $400 a month, mostly from social security, says she cannot afford to hire an attorney to help her get her money back.

"If they would just send the interest on the money for a while, that would help," she says.

A statement of expenditures prepared by Tissot shows:

—The college's development department paid $1.67 million in salaries and commissions in four years to about 30 salesmen whose job was to raise money for the college.

—The college's development department, set up to attract new investors, spent $617,672 on travel in three years. College officials say trips included Europe, Hawaii and vacation spots around the United States for salesmen and investors who brought in additional funds.

—The college spent $300,000 to construct a classroom building in Farmington, 60 miles from the main Owosso campus.

—The college spent $276,396 renovating an aging downtown Owosso hotel donated to the college.

Court testimony and college records filed with the court revealed:

—The college borrowed $240,000 to buy a 44-passenger airliner that ferried potential investors in the Florida property between Owosso and Leesburg, Fla.

—Armstrong approved interest-free college loans totaling $12,000 to his brother and his personal secretary to attend law school in Savannah. The personal secretary, Sherri Sloan, is now Armstrong's wife. The personal loans have not been repaid to the college.

—Armstrong channeled $15,000 raised by the college to a Georgia corporation called the National Guild of Philanthropy. The guild was set up by Armstrong's son to operate a travel club and insurance program.

State investigators determined no fund had been set aside to pay back investors who wanted to redeem their investment certificates. The securities bureau invoked the anti-fraud provisions of the state Securities Act. The college agreed not to sell any more investment certificates.

But state investigators issued a cease and desist order in May 1975 when they discovered salesmen disregarded the agreement and kept looking for new investors.

With no way to raise new money, the college was unable to make payments to earlier investors and the institution filed for receivership in May 1976.

Today, officials are still operating the four-year liberal arts college named after the 18th century pietist and reformer who started Methodism.

Armstrong's successor, Charles Roost, recently left the college. Roost defended his predecessor's ideas, but said there was no accountability for the money that was spent.

Penal complex escapee Birge captured

Freedom was short-lived for a 17-year-old who escaped from the Nebraska Penal Complex reformatory Monday night.

Steve Birge of Grand Island was arrested by Lancaster County Sheriff's deputies early Tuesday morning near 134th and Waverly Road where a car he had allegedly stolen was stuck in a ditch. Deputies said the car apparently had been stolen sometime after 11:20 p.m. Monday, several hours after Birge used a plank to climb over a fence at the reformatory unit on West Van Dorn near Lincoln.

Birge was serving a 5-10 year sentence from Hall County for assault with intent to commit a robbery. He was, according to court records, on parole at the time of that offense, for breaking and entering and burglary, also in Hall County.

In February 1976, while he was awaiting sentencing on those charges, he escaped from the Lincoln Regional Center and barricaded himself for about an hour in a house near that facility, before surrendering. He was later transferred to the reformatory.

Arraignment on charges of auto theft, destruction of property and escape are pending and will probably be filed Wednesday, authorities said.

Bar group will honor 2 Lincolnites

Lincoln attorneys John H. Comstock and Floyd J. Marti will be among 28 attorneys honored by the Nebraska State Bar Association this month in recognition of at least 50 years membership in the NSBA.

The attorneys will be the guests of honor at a luncheon at the groups' Oct. 14 Lincoln meeting.

Lincolnites' drug hearings set

Preliminary hearings are set in Lancaster County Court for four persons charged following a Sept. 20 drug bust in Lincoln.

County Judge Robert Camp set a Nov. 28 preliminary hearing for Dan Dovel, 25, Rt. 1, on charges of possession of amphetamines with intent to deliver and possession of cocaine with intent to deliver. Both, according to court records, are second offenses. A preliminary hearing also will be held the same day for Rex Soloman, 21, 841 Washington St., on charges of possession of amphetamines and possession of cocaine.

Dec. 1 preliminary hearings are scheduled for Janice Baker, 22, Rt. 6, and Ken Gross, 29, Rt. 6, both charged with possession of amphetamines with intent to deliver.

Lincoln attorney Kirk Naylor will represent all four persons in the matter which stems from a bust which, authorities said, netted about $100,000 in drugs from three residences.

Naylor also told the court that he has had no contact with a fifth party charged in the bust, Steve Grau, 20, of 841 Washington St. Grau was charged with possession of marijuana. Naylor asked to be relieved of the case but Camp urged him to attempt to contact Grau and withdraw at a later date, if he desired.

The Grau matter was continued to Oct. 17.

Thai city becomes international port

Bangkok, Thailand (UPI) — Chiang Mai, Thailand's second largest city and a major tourist attraction, will become an international port of arrival in October.

Also that month, the northern Thailand city will open its extended airport runway to receive its first scheduled jet flight.

POT LUCK SECTION
Pick the pot that fits you best
1959 Opel, definitely a pot, $135
1972 Chevy, only 20,000 miles showing on the speedometer, just right for the speedometer buyers, there wasn't room for the 1. Our new PLEASE car, $500.
1971 Caprice, impressive, looks like you've got the pot plus 4 windows to throw it out, $500

RIDICULOUS
1968 Chevy, 2-door, both pots tore up, $125
1967 Chevy 2-door, hurry, $275
1965 Chevy 4-door, just perfect, yes-a perfect pot, what's a perfect pot? Stop in & see, $100.
1965 Chevy, our best pot, $300
1972 Torino sedan, late model pot, $450
1972 Patroller pot, fastest of all our pots, I personally ran this pot on P. From 23rd to 27th, $400.

SPECIAL
1962 Chevy Impala coupe, this pot has problems getting radiator & crank case turned around, has oil in radiator, problem? Yes! Not really — radiator surely won't rust, $150.
1970 Ford sedan, ok, $300
1969 Mercury, stinky pot, $200
1966 Olds, clean pot, $200

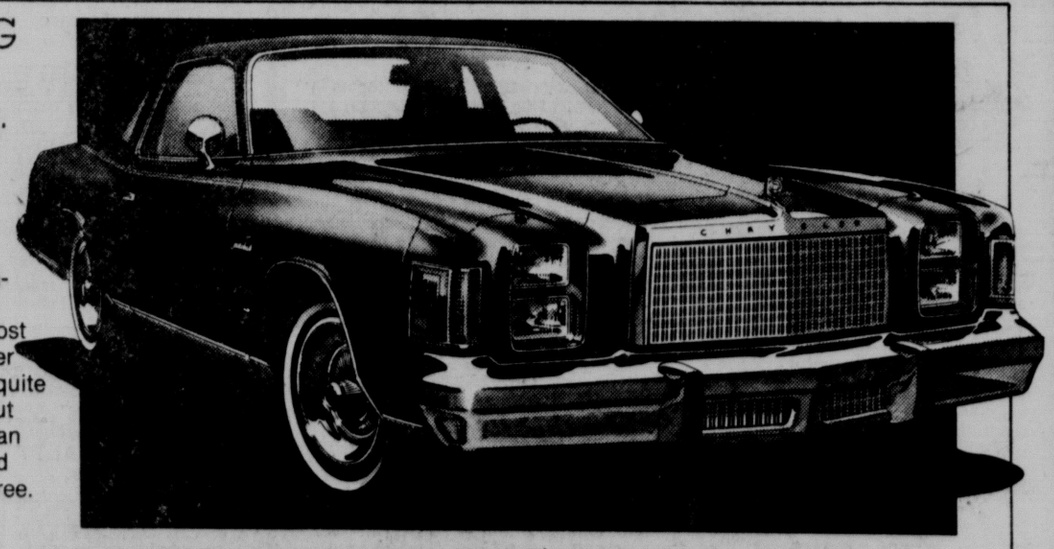
INTRODUCING THE 1978 CHRYSLERS & PLYMOUTHS

INTRODUCING THE NEW '78 CORDOBA.
The ultimate personal car.



Cordoba has been the choice of many discerning car buyers over the years. In fact, it's the most successful Chrysler ever introduced. And that's quite an accomplishment. But then, Cordoba is quite an automobile. Stop in and drive one and you'll agree.

If you have a family, or just like the feel of a wagon, this could well be your choice for 1978. LeBaron Town & Country. A lighter, more efficient size luxury wagon.
